AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

Cleverly Presented in a Belvidere Residence by Society People.

The private theatricals given in high society at the elegant residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cumnock, on Belmont street, in aid of the Humane society, last night, were the sensation of the hour so to speak.

The audience of course was a very select one, and was entertained in elaborate style by the host and hostess assisted by a bevy of charming young ladieg. The first play was a clever sketch from Post's Harvard stories entitled "Complications in Burleigh's room." To appreciate the complications the book should be read, but it may be said that the actors were exceptionally clever. The cast was as follows:

Ned Burleigh, Jack Randolph, Steve Hudson (Harvard Students) } Mr. Edward Trull, Mr. G. W. Pearson, Mr. F A Whiting
Shreedy, prize fighter.....Mr. Leroy H. Talbot
Mrs. Hudson, Steve's mother..... Miss Bowles
Miss Hudson, Steve's sister .....Miss Robinson

Mr. Pearson's part of Jack Randolph was excruciatingly funny, and he made the most of it.

The second piece, of more serious composition, was entitled "My Lord in Livery." The cast was:

Spiggott, the old family Butler, Mr. James Bayles
Hopkins, the footman...Mr. Frederick C Church
Thirlmere, H. M. S. "Phlegethon," Mr. Howard Gray
Robert, the page.....Master Robert Faulkner
Sybil Amberly, daughter of Sir George Amberly.....Miss Talbot
Rose, Laura, (friends) } Her .....Mrs. Victor I. Cumnock, ...Miss Grace E. Cumnock

The acting of Mr. Bayles and Mr. Church was exceptionally worthy of note.

After the performance frappe and ices were served in the parlor and coffee poured by Miss Henrietta Hastings, Miss Hildreth Nesmith, Miss Blanche Ames and Miss Bessie Ludlam. The ushers were: Gordon Tweed, Charles Ayer, Joe Francis and A. S. Whiting.

Owen, Mary Collins, Mary A. Flynn, Emma Harrison, Lizzie Harrison, Edward Fielding, Timothy Moore, John Morton and James Scullion.

THE ANNIVERSARY DAY.

It Will Be Observed in Most Appropriate Manner Tomorrow.

Time passes quickly and surely; men make and lose fortunes in a day; reputations are not made on a single turn of Fortune's wheel, or distributed by lavish hand, to all who seek them.

Time is an element of prime importance in the business world to establish a position for a firm or individual, a position which shall be as a rock towering above the flood in a mighty river, immovable, impressive and a symbol of strength. In the business world the tide of progress sweeps on with time itself. In fourteen years hundreds of thousands of individuals and firms have come into existence and gone under. The survival of the fittest becomes the true state of things. Surely 14 years of successful experience is a record for the firm of O'Donnell & Gilbride of which they may be proud. The anniversary will be fittingly observed at the immense establishment tomorrow by two grand concerts by the American orchestra. The event will be otherwise observed for the firm will cut the price of every article in the store. If you need anything, do your shopping tomorrow; if you do not want to buy come and listen to the concert. The store will be in gala attire. All Lowell should congratulate the firm on its success. Looking backward we see the first store of Messrs. O'Donnell & Gilbride, a small one in the Albion block. From a small business it has steadily grown until today it is the largest establishment in the city.

IVORA FARLAND

Was Not Dead When Taken to the Undertaker.

NATURE PLAYED AN AWFUL TRICK WITH HER HEART.

Pronounced Dead She is Now Feeling Nicely.

A young woman named Ivard Farland of New York, came very near meeting with a horrible fate yesterday afternoon.

About 3.30 o'clock she was discovered on the stairs in the Mechanics bank building, in an unconscious state, and more than this, apparently dead.

The person who discovered her notified the passersby and immediately a crowd gathered, and the ambulance which was passing along Merrimack street was called.

Dr. Packer, who has an office in the same building, was informed that a dying woman was lying in the hall. He hastened down stairs and was forcing his way through the crowd when Dr. Ricker arrived and he retired.

The woman, who at the time was unknown to the crowd, showed no signs of life whatever, and was apparently dead.

Dr. Ricker applied the usual tests and failed to find any indications of life, no heart-beat, no breath. Certain parts of her body were cold, and her eyes were sunken in her head.

She was accordingly pronounced dead, and was removed in the ambulance to Undertaker Brooks' establishment, and here was where the unfortunate woman had a narrow escape.

She was placed on a bench in a back room preparatory to removing her to the cellar.

She was lying in such a position that the light from a back window shone full upon her face, and while Mr. Brooks' assistant was getting things in readiness in the cellar, Dr. Ricker, who was gazing intently at her, noticed a very faint twitching of the eyelids, and unmistakably signs of life.

The doctor quickly decided that the woman was in a cataleptic state, and he ordered her removal to St. John's hospital.

Here she was placed on a table and watched over for 20 minutes for signs of life. The eyelids moved slightly again and a slight sigh escaped her lips, up to this time no pulse could be felt but from that time on a few faint tremblings of the pulse were noticed. She was taken upstairs and at an early hour this morning she regained consciousness, and gave her name as Ivora Farland of New York. She had been visiting in Boston and had come up here to call on a friend named Mrs. John Kelley. While walking along Merrimack street she was overtaken with a feeling of illness and went into the doorway.

This morning she was reported much better in health and when she is able to go out will be cared for by her friend.

The case is what is known to the medical profession as catalepsy, and is one which many physicians do not meet with in a lifetime. It is caused by some brain trouble, and consists of a sudden suspension of the action of the senses and of volition, these remaining in a fixed position, while the action of the heart and lungs not affected. It is very difficult to ascertain whether a person in such a case is dead or alive, and cases are on record, though very few in number, fortunately, when they have been buried while in such a state.

The malady is seldom fatal and there is no known remedy for it.

But for the one sign of life noticed while the Farland woman was in the undertaker's shop, she would have been placed in the basement surrounded by the paraphenalia of an undertaker, and upon recovering her senses there, if alone and in darkness, the result might have been death from fright.

TOO EAGER ANGLERS.

Violators of Game Laws Likely to Get Into Trouble.

Indications point to the belief that important steps will be taken this season to enforce the laws relative to fishing in the streams and ponds that will be of interest to anglers and that will greatly gratify those who desire to fish according to the requirements of the same. During the past few years, and especially within the last year, ponds and streams have been subjected to a lawless sort of fishing that has almost completely drained them of fish. Gangs of men and boys have fished for trout out of the season set by law till it is next to impossible for a fisherman to have any luck when he fishes during the season.

These lawless fishermen do not confine their method to the use of lines entirely, but use such mechanisms as the trawl, set net and drag net. These articles are not allowed, and if persons are caught using them matters are likely to take a serious turn. The fishery laws provide that any person caught in the act of using these articles, or any person against whom evidence shall be brought that shall show that fish have been caught by the use of these, may be subject to a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $50 for each and every fish so caught and taken from the waters, and their paraphernalia may be confiscated by the state.

If a man were to walk into a fish market and upon asking the price of a single fish be told it was $20, he would drop dead. Yet there are hundreds who will risk it, go out and set nets or use drag nets and trawls and subject themselves to arrest and a heavy fine, to say nothing of having all their apparatus confiscated. When the word "apparatus" is used it means everything that may be used at the time the person is caught in the act.—Fall River Herald.

SOME ATHLETIC GOSSIP.

FOUR CLUB BASE BALL LEAGUE FORMED IN TOWN.

Games to be Played on the Dracut Oval—Sub-committees on Various Sports in the L. C. A. A.—Old English Game of Bowls to be Revived—Big Increase in Membership Expected.

The prospects for the coming season in the Lowell Cricket and Athletic association are very encouring even more so than n any preceding year. Tomorrow the first steps will be taken to erect a new club, or about the site of the one burned last fall, by the sub-committee on building, President Hart, Gardner W. Pearson and C. F. Coburn.

A noticeable departure from the usual style of club houses will probably be made, and while the expense of the building will not exceed the funds available it is probable that an excellent house for use of club members will be put up.

In the way of sports the season's schedule is an excellent one. The plan of a four club league—the Vespers, Highlands, Home and L. C. A. A,, has been successfully laid out and a schedule of 24 games, six games for each club ratified. The ball games, with few exceptions, will be played on the Dracut oval, which is undoubtedly the finest diamond outside of the Congress street grounds in Boston. The ball games will be sandwiched in on Saturdays between cricket fixtures. By vote of the directors the members of the other teams will be permitted to use the Dracut grounds one day each week, at present, for practice, so that ample opportunity is offered for "scrub." J. P. Battles will have full charge of the base ball end, and with a new lot of material it will be a success. He will be assisted by Charles Clogston and Bert Coburn.

The oval is looking in excellent condition. Next week the groundsman will commence his duties, and by Saturday week everything will be in readiness for a game of ball or cricket or exercising on the track.

This will be a great year for cricket for the first eleven, the schedule being the finest yet arranged, including some notable games at home.

There will be a strong second eleven for many of the ball players took up cricket last season. Dr. W. A. Sherman, Charles Clogston and George Jaques developing as good players. Mr. Murdie will have charge of the department and will be assisted by Mr. Fred Fairburn and George Jaques.

The old English game of bowls will be really introduced this season and the veteran player, Mr. John Gulline, will take charge of it, the committee chairman being J. H. Comber, and the other member Edward Sherwood, who will also serve on the tennis committee. Athletics, which is one of the most important departments, will be under the care of G. W. Pearson assisted by Fisher H. Pearson and T. P. Sullivan. The big open labor meeting on L. r day will be the biggest athletic affair ever gotten up in this city. The club will probably have a couple of local meetings, if the number of club athletes will warrant it. As the directors have lowered the junior membership fee to $3 for youths under 20 years, there is likely to be a big influx of new members. Many high school cadets, especially those on the ball team will join as it gives them an opportunity to secure good ball grounds with all desirable conveniences.

In the fall it is determined to revive foot ball. Several attempts have beent made to do this, but unsuccessfully, but as new material has been added to the membership, this is assured. Of this committee and of winter bowling C. F. Coburn is the chairman and the other members are Mr. Cowan and Wm. Meiklejohn.

The club house and grounds will be under the eye of H. D. Kendall, Arthur Saunders and Alex. Hobbs.

The schedules for the season, a neat eight-page folder, containing a club directory, dates and teams of the 24 ball games and the 30 cricket games, together with particulars of club "field days" and athletic meetings are being printed and will be sent out with the notices of yearly dues next week. This year a pocket membership card will be issued in addition, good for every club affair at the gounds. The yearly membership fee of $5 is the lowest figure in the United States, and few clubs have more to offer the coming season than the L. C. A. A.

The members of the Lowell Carpet club which has disbanded may join the L. C. A. A., and if this is done more good cricketing material will be added.

Dr. W. A. Sherman will probably play with the Home club this season.

The Dracut oval will be a good place for ball games this summer. It is nearer the post office than the fair grounds, it is on a straight route from Merrimack square, and electric cars land passengers there in from eight to eleven minutes. Besides, the ride is delightful and the grand stands as comfortable as can be expected.

SEEN AND HEARD.

There will probably be another campfire at the Vesper club before the canoeing season opens.

It is now only a question of a short while before the Vesper club branches out as a winter club, using the present house as a summer club.

***

There will probably be 35 Vesper wheelmen in the big run to Old Concord and Lexington on the Nineteenth of April. These quiet towns will be fairly overrun with cyclists for hundreds from Boston will go there.

***

It is not likely that the Nineteenth of April will be ever observed as a legal holiday in this or any other manufacturing city, except through enlargement of heart of mill treasurers. The mills are only obliged to shut down on legal holidays which are mentioned in their charter. Fast day has been knocked out, but the Nineteenth of April cannot be substituted. It is yet undecided whether or not Lowell mills will close. From Christmas to Fourth of July, then to Thanksgiving day make big jumps between holidays.

An officer on the police force was interviewed by a SUN reporter today, to obtain facts on an alleged brutal assault by the officer on a drunken man. The officer said in response to inquiries:

"The man was quarrelling over a game of forty-fives"

"Did you club him?"

"Yes, I gave him a rap with me club; but it won't do any good to put that in the paper."

If this officer is given to "rapping" drunken men without provocation, he may be called upon to make explainations.

POST OFFICE

Surprising Story From the Capital About It.

NOMINATION OF MR. PEARSON IS DELAYED.

Reason Assigned is the Influence of John E. Russell.

The following despatch from Washington was printed in today's Advertiser: "The Lowell post office is proving to be a very determined sort of fight. If it had not been for J. E. Russell it might have been settled by this time. But the man from Leicester is determined that young Gardner Pearson shall not be postmaster there as long as he holds Mr. Cleveland's ear as he does now. Postmaster-General Bissell wants to appoint Pearson At his request Pearson came to Washington and made Mr. Bissell a call, and the postmaster-general was very favorably impressed by him. But when Bissell takes the matter to Mr. Cleveland he is informed by the president that his friend Mr. Russell does not want Pearson appointed, and the matter is laid aside.

"Pearson's friends here claim that Mr. Quincy arranged things himself by which arrangement Pearson would be just the man for the place, and that he has now gone back on that arrangement. This plan was to recognize the three elements in the democracy of Lowell, the French, Irish and American. The first two sections of this programme was carried out perfectly. The French element was recognized by the appointment of Lenthier to ta consulship, who, although the senate has refused to confirm him, is still serving the government in Canada. The Irish element was given a place when the superintendent of the public building was chosen, and the American part of the democracy was to have the post office.

"But then came another arrangement with J. B. Carroll of Springfield, by which he was to be pacified for not getting the place upon the bench which he wished by having his father-in-law, Michael Corbett of Lowell, made postmaster in the city of Gov. Greenhalge. Cong. Stevens will recommend nobody but Mr. Pearson, and J. E. Russell insists that Pearson be kept from the postmastership in memory of that torchlight procession and that memorable democratic meeting there. And all this time Mr. Quincy is working for Corbett, whom Mr. Stevens will not endorse. And while all this struggle is going on Postmaster Burbank is handling the Lowell mail.

"The end of the fight may be that Postmaster Burbank will continue his handling of the Lowell mail, even though he is a republican. Postmaster-General Wanamaker stated several times that he considered Burbank the best postmaster in the United States, and he used to describe the management of the Lowell office to other postmasters as a model for them to imitate. It has been very strongly intimated that the people of Lowell, democrats as well as republicans, would like to have Burbauk kept in office Cong Stevens thinks well of Burbank, and might be willing to have the fight ended by his retention. This would be an amicable way to end the fight and about the only way that appears. At any rate the question of re-appointing Burbank is being very seriously discussed both at the post office department and the White House."

POLICE COURT.

Hadley, J.

Three drunks.

Isadore Dube, a young boy, was charged with larceny from his brother. The case was continued until tomorrow, as was the case of Midas Laferrire for alleged assault and battery on Minnie Tarsey.

Simon B. Harris has recovered from the effects of the Garvey trial and is on deck again, complaining of John Lamountain of North Chelmsford for alleged illegally keeping liquor. The case will be heard on April 12.

The continued case of Thomas F. Clark for assault and battery upon Sarah Parsons was tried this morning. Clark formerly sold household articles on the instalment plan. He sold some curtains and other articles to the complainant, and on calling there on one occasion some trouble arose over the payments, and the result was, the defendant, it was alleged started to take out the curtains. Mrs. Parsons tried to stop him and she alleged he struck and kicked her.

SEASON OPENS APRIL 28.

New England Baseball Men Consider Matters of Interest.

BOSTON, April 5.—The schedule meeting of the New England league was held at the Quincy House yesterday. Three clubs, Portland, Fall River and Brockton, were represented when the meeting was called to order.

The Pawtucket, Haverhill and Bangor clubs were admitted to membership.

The Worcester club protested against the way they were treated. This club wanted a six-club league, composed of Lewiston, Portland, Fall River, Brockton, Haverhill and Worcester. They claim that the franchises were given to Pawtucket and Bangor simply to give jobs to Leonard and Bacon.

During all the discussion, which was pretty warm, the Lewiston representative, McDonough, was absent. The club was admitted to the league.

The Reach ball was adopted, and the naming of the umpire staff left with the president.

The schedule consists of 112 games, each club playing eight games with every club, 56 at home and 56 away. The season opens April 28 and ends Sept. 7.

Shinnick, the well known second baseman is at Exeter, N. H.

Frank Thyne intends to form a strong club in this city, which will include McCarthy of Lowell, pitcher; Cull, second base; McGuane, third base; Charlie Farrell, short stop and captain; Booth, Courtney and Sweeney in the field. This club will play in Burlington, April 26, 27 and 28, and Manager Thyne is arranging other dates. He would like to hear from New Hampshire and Vermont clubs for games the latter part of April and first part of May. The Lowells will open the season at Nashua or Manchester on April 11 the Fast day in that state.

DAYS OF SUFFERING

ENDURED BY CREW OF A NEWFOUNDLAND A VESSEL.

Hope Was Abandoned When the Exhausted Men Were Rescued by the Mohican—Providential Escape From a Watery Grave.

BRISTOL, April 5.—Captain Cook of the British steamer Mohican, having on board the crew of the bark Kate of St. John's, N. F., furnishes the following particulars of the rescue. Captain Cook says that he sighted the Kate on March 26, and seeing that the vessel was dismasted, he altered his course so as to run quite near to her, in the hope of being able to save some of her crew. When the distressed vessel was sighted, a terrible sea was running, and the wind was blowing almost with hurricane force.

Owing to the severity of the heavy sea running it was some time before the Mohican succeeded in lowering a boat and getting her afloat. Captain Cook caused a quantity of oil to be run out of the lee scuppers, and also placed a number of oil bags outside the gunwales of the lifeboat. In addition he shipped a small cask of oil in the lifeboat, and eventually got her away from the ship.

The lifeboat, after a long buffet with seas, succeeded in getting to the windward of the Kate. When in that position the cask of oil was broached and a quantity of its contents allowed to run to leeward of the lifeboat. This enabled the lifeboat to get close enough to admit of the rescue of the crew. When the Mohican's lifeboat returned to the steamer she was received with cheers.

Captain James' Story.

Captain James of the Kate says that he left Trapani, Sicily, on Jan. 8, for St. John's, N. F., and passed Tarifa, near Gibraltar, Spain, on Feb. 1, shaping his course for Newfoundland. Soon after getting away from the Spanish coast, the Kate met with a series of gales which kept all hands on deck almost continually. So severe was the weather that several of the water casks broke loose and were stove in. This increased the sufferings of the crew The severity of the weather also prevented fires being lighted in the galley, except at rare intervals, and the crew had to live almost entirely upon hard tack and a small quantity of canned provisions.

On March 12 the weather moderated, but the gales were succeeded by a dense fog. This caused the crew to almost give way to despair. Even the fog was not the last of their trouble, for while making fair headway, through the fog, the weather suddenly became much colder. Suddenly ice was reported ahead, and before the bark's course could be altered, it was seen that a huge icefloe was right ahead of her. The Kate crashed into the mass of floating ice, severely damaging her bows and smashing her stem.

Luckily a quantity of the ice had become jammed in the holes made forward by the bark's collision with the ice, and this enabled Captain James to make a spare sail fast over the damaged portion. Other repairs were also undertaken, but the bark began leaking badly. Night and day after that the suffering men were kept at the pumps, and succeeded in keeping the water pretty well under.

Looked In Vain For Help.

During all this time, the Kate did not sight a sail, and at the expiration of two days, when the fog began to lift, it was seen that the unlucky bark was in the midst of an icefield. With the lifting of the fog, the wind and sea began to rise, and for five days the Kate was buffeted among the icefloes, every moment expecting to be sent to the bottom.

Finally, after five days of terrible toil and struggle, the Kate succeeded in clearing the icefield, but afterward sighted a number of small icebergs, and the men were half-frozen by a series of bitter snowsqualls which swept over the bark; but the snow enabled them to obtain all the drinking water necessary to continue the struggle toward the shores of Newfoundland.

These snowsqualls continued until March 28, when the weather changed for the worse, and the wind blew with hurricane force. The foretopmast was carried away, and, in falling, dragged the maintopmast with it, and the Kate was soon a helpless, dismasted wreck. Sea after sea swept over the bark, and all hands came to the conclusion that the Kate was doomed to go to the bottom, carrying all on board with her.

The Rescue.

On March 25 a steamer was sighted on the horizon. The steamer turned out to be the Electro of the Wilson line, and she answered the distress signals hoisted by the Kate.

The sea, however, was so high that the captain of the Wilson liner was afraid to lower a boat, though he stood by the dismasted vessel until night. When morning broke the Electro had vanished and the crew of the Kate again gave way to bitter despair. Happily, the next day, when 62 days out, the Kate sighted another steamer, which turned out to be the Mohican, and the rescue of the crew of the Kate was effected.

The wreck of the Kate was left floating, a dangerous derelict, and is believed to have been the vessel seen in an abandoned condition on the edge of the banks of Newfoundland by the British steamer Stockholm City, which arrived at Halifax on Sunday from London.

DEADLY RIOTS

Nine Men Killed in the Coke Regions.

FATAL CONFLICT BETWEEN DEPUTIES AND STRIKERS.

Started by the Murder of an Engineer.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 5.—It would take columns to tell in detail the exciting events of yesterday, the third of the big coke strike now on in the Connellsville region. At least nine lives were sacrificed. Unless the strong arm of the military interferes, the dead will be counted by scores instead of tens. So much excitement was never known in the region, and people everywhere are excited and apprehensive of greater dangers.

The rioting began early in the morning, but the climax was not reached until yesterday afternoon, when several hundred strikers marched in the Davidson works of the H. C. Frick Coke company at Connellsville, where men were working. When the strikers approached they were ordered by the deputies to stop. They came on and tried to get at the men in the ovens. The deputies fired. The strikers returned the fire and charged, driving the deputies and men from the plant.

Chief Engineer Paddock of the Frick company ran up in the tipple of the works. The strikers followed and shot him in the back of the head. They beat him and crushed his head with stones, and threw his body from a tipple window to the ovens, 40 feet below. They then attempted to fire the tipple, but left when they saw the deputies returning with a large force from Connellsville.

Bullets Flew Thick and Fast.

Hearing of Paddock's murder, hundreds wanted to avenge his death. The pursuing party, in command of Detective Campbell, overtook the strikers half a mile from Davidson and opened fire on them. The strikers fired in return, but ran on. Three strikers fell; one was killed instantly and two others were fatally wounded. Another of the strikers, who got the start on the main body, was shot by a deputy at Broad Ford, a mile distant. He was also killed instantly.

Eleven strikers were captured where the first battle took place, and the pursuing party kept up the chase until Dawson, a point seven miles distant, was reached, where 53 more of the strikers were captured. All the efforts of the deputies and more level-headed citizens were needed to prevent the lynching of the 11 who were taken back to Connellsville.

The law-abiding element had their way, and at 8 o'clock a special train arrived here with 40 of those who were in the mob that killed Paddock. A great crowd greeted their arrival, and amid cries of lynch them the prisoners were hurried to jail. A large body of the strikers were present and made a rush to rescue the prisoners, but were held back by the big crowd and the deputies.

At the jail Hugh Coll, assistant chief engineer of the Frick company, identified five of the prisoners as among those who killed Paddock. Thirty more of the same band of strikers have been arrested, and the deputies will return to bring them to jail.

Paddock was highly esteemed and was widely known. His murder occurred in sight of his home. All the officials of the district organization of the strikers will be arrested for complicity in the Paddock murder, and inciting the riot and murder. Every effort will be made to hunt down the guilty ones.

At the Mayfield plant of the McGlure company two men were fatally shot during the day. The strikers charged the men at work in the morning, but were driven off by the deputies, after a striker was shot through the body. In the afternoon they returned and renewed the attack. There was much fighting and a deputy was fatally wounded.

Murderers Recognized.

One hundred rioters are now under arrest. Hugh Coll recognized nearly all of the Huns in jail as the ones who helped commit the assault at Davidson when Paddock was killed. The Frick and Rayney companies are determined to fight to the end, and have their works well guarded by deputies.

Twelve hundred rioters are marching on the Moyer works of J. W. Rayney, where 150 deputies are on guard. A massacre of raiders will occur there if the projected attack is made.

The latest is that an assault will be made on the jail here to rescue the rioters jailed last night.

Kitteridge Is Elected.

BATH, Me., April 5.—The city marshalship fight here ended with a victory for the mayor, and Orrin A. Kitteridge was promoted from the captaincy of the watch to that position. At the end of a midnight session William B. Palmer won the hotly contested fight for the tax collector and treasurership, and William Rogers was chosen tax assessor.

TEACHING DRAWING.

Points to be Considered by teachers Emphasized by Mr. Bailey.

About 150 persons attended the lecture delivered at High school hall yesterday afternoon by Mr. Henry T. Bailey. The lecture was very entertaining and the speaker touched upon various principles involved in teaching drawing. Among other things the speaker said: "The natural order of illustrating natural objects calls for a close following of the growth and life of the subject. In illustrating inanimate objects there is a logical order to be followed as well. Technical drawing is also necessary.

"In primary teaching you must teach the pupils to "know" something and to "do" something. Forms should be taught and impressions correctly made. As a whole, the principle of drawing as a means of understanding cannot be overestimated."

We understand that it's quite a common thing for men about town, who are wearing Rogers, Peet & Co.'s clothing, to say that they've had it made to order. We disclaim any responsibility for moral lapses of this character.

We sell the goods for just what they are—the best ready-made in the world; do our best to please our customers; fit them as they should be fitted, charge them fair prices—and leave the rest to them.

If the clothes appear so much better, than any ever seen ready-made; if they are so good that they'll pass muster as a job from a first-class tailor, it's what we wish for them—but it's the wearer, not the seller, who romances about custom work.

We don't mean to tempt you to misrepresentation, but there's an elegant collection of Spring Clothing here—suits, overcoats, and long frocks, that may impress you with its goodness, may tempt you to buy.

You can't help being satisfied, for we give back the money for clothes you don't like.

FOR THE WHEELMEN.

Pointers on How to Ride and How to Appear.

Officer Lennon tells a pretty good story of his experience with a bicyclist, recently. He was on the sidewalk, with a team moving along near the curbstone. Around a corner came a wheelman on his "bik" using the sidewalk. Officer Lennon jumped to one side and so did the "bik." There was a collision, Officer Lennon landed under the team, while the rider took a header. The front wheel of the machine was smashed, but no one was hurt, fortunately. Before the officer could get his breath the cyclist put his wheel over his shoulder and skipped.

The best lady rider in town is said to reside on the Merrimack corporation.

When you get your new wheel there are a few things you want to be sure and remember. Pump your tires hard, so that when sitting on the machine they scarcely bulge. Saddles should be placed so that when the pedal is at the lowest position it can be reached by a straight leg without any sensation of stretching. See that the peak is half an inch higher than the back. The handles should be fixed so they can be reached while sitting upright. See that all bearings are properly adjusted, and that all the nuts are tight and fast.

The Norfolk, Va., Cycle club is about to start on a tour of considerable interest from their own town to Gettysburg, a distance of 300 miles. They are going to take their time about it, camping out on the way. A move like this is one of the signs of the healthy condition of the sport.

An effort is being made by the Springfield club to raise $1000 to send Tyler, Windle and Sanger to Belgium to compete for the Saltonstall trophy. It is now in possession of the N. Y. A. C., but it will have to be forwarded for the contest.

Three Stepping Stones.

According to the annual report of the births, deaths and marriages, it is shown that the total number of births returned and recorded during the year was 2688, males 1382, females 1306, which is a decrease from the number recorded for the year 1892 of 53.

The number of marriage intentions recorded and certificates issued during the year 1893 was 1018, an increase of 17 over the number of 1892. The total number of marriages returned and recorded for the year was 1020, an increase of 23 over the number of 1892.

The total number of deaths recorded during the year 1893 was 2180, a decrease from the number recorded in 1892 of 120. The total number of males was 1012, a decrease of 84, and the total number of females 1096, a decrease of 36. The number of deaths between 80 and 90 years was 70, and the number over 90 years was 12.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

Cleverly Presented in a Belvidere Residence by Society People.

The private theatricals given in high society at the elegant residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cumnock, on Belmont street, in aid of the Humane society, last night, were the sensation of the hour so to speak.

The audience of course was a very select one, and was entertained in elaborate style by the host and hostess assisted by a bevy of charming young ladies. The first play was a clever sketch from Post's Harvard stories entitled "Complications in Burleigh's room." To appreciate the complications the book should be read, but it may be said that the actors were exceptionally clever. The cast was as follows:

Ned Burleigh, Jack Randolph, Steve Hudson } Harvard Students } Mr. Edward Trull, Mr. G. W. Pearson, Mr. F. A Whiting
Shreedy, prize fighter.....Mr. Leroy H. Talbot
Mrs. Hudson, Steve's mother.....Miss Bowles
Miss Hudson, Steve's sister.....Miss Robinson

Mr. Pearson's part of Jack Randolph was exceruciatingly funny, and he made the most of it.

The second piece, of more serious composition, was entitled "My Lord in Livery." The cast was:

Spiggott, the old family Butler, Mr. James Bayles
Hopkins, the footman...Mr. Frederick C. Church
Robert, the page.....Master Robert Faulkner
Sybil Amberly, daughter of Sir George Amberly.....Miss Talbot
Rose, Her friends Laura, Her friends } .....Mrs. Victor I. Cumnock, Miss Grace E. Cumnock

The acting of Mr. Bayles and Mr. Church was exceptionally worthy of note.

After the performance frappe and ices were served in the parlor and coffee poured by Miss Henrietta Hastings, Miss Hildreth Nesmith, Miss Blanche Ames and Miss Bessie Ludlam. The ushers were: Gordon Tweed, Charles Ayer, Joe Francis and A. S. Whiting.

Owen, Mary Collins, Mary A. Flynn, Emma Harrison, Lizzie Harrison, Edward Fielding, Timothy Moore, John Morton and James Scullion.

THE ANNIVERSARY DAY.

It Will Be Observed in Most Appropriate Manner Tomorrow.

Time passes quickly and surely; men make and lose fortunes in a day; reputations are not made on a single turn of Fortune's wheel, or distributed by lavish hand, to all who seek them.

Time is an element of prime importance in the business world to establish a position for a firm or individual, a position which shall be as a rock towering above the flood in a mighty river, immovable, impressive and a symbol of strength. In the business world the tide of progress sweeps on with time itself. In fourteen years hundreds of thousands of individuals and firms have come into existence and gone under. The survival of the fittest becomes the true state of things. Surely 14 years of successful experience is a record for the firm of O'Donnell & Gilbride of which they may be proud. The anniversary will be fittingly observed at the immense establishment tomorrow by two grand concerts by the American orchestra. The event will be otherwise observed for the firm will cut the price of every article in the store. If you need anything, do your shopping tomorrow; if you do not want to buy come and listen to the concert. The store will be in gala attire. All Lowell should congratulate the firm on its success. Looking backward we see the first store of Messrs. O'Donnell & Gilbride, a small one in the Albion block. From a small business it has steadily grown until today it is the largest establishment in the city.

LOCAL NOTES.

Ellen Plunkett, aged 27 years, wife of Michael Plunkett, died last evening at her late home, 530 Lawrence street.

A number of Lowell people will attend the dinner of the Boston Lodge of Elks in Boston, tonight.

IVORA FARLAND

Was Not Dead When Taken to the Undertaker.

NATURE PLAYED AN AWFUL TRICK WITH HER HEART.

Pronounced Dead She is Now Feeling Nicely.

A young woman named Ivard Farland of New York, came very near meeting with a horrible fate yesterday afternoon.

About 3.30 o'clock she was discovered on the stairs in the Mechanics bank building, in an unconscious state, and more than this, apparently dead.

The person who discovered her notified the pussersby and immediately a crowd gathered, and the ambulance which was passing along Merrimack street was called.

Dr. Packer, who has an office in the same building, was informed that a dying woman was lying in the hall. He hastened down stairs and was forcing his way through the crowd when Dr. Ricker arrived and he retired.

The woman, who at the time was unknown to the crowd, showed no signs of life whatever, and was apparently dead.

Dr. Ricker applied the usual tests and failed to find any indications of life, no heart-beat, no breath. Certain parts of her body were cold, and her eyes were sunken in her head.

She was accordingly pronounced dead, and was removed in the ambulance to Undertaker Brooks' establishment, and here was where the unfortunate woman had a narrow escape.

She was placed on a bench in a back room preparatory to removing her to the cellar.

She was lying in such a position that the light from a back window shone full upon her face, and while Mr. Brooks' assistant was getting things in readiness in the cellar, Dr. Ricker, who was gazing intently at her, noticed a very faint twitching of the eyelids, and unmistakably signs of life.

The doctor quickly decided that the woman was in a cataleptic state, and he ordered her removal to St. John's hospital.

Here she was placed on a table and watched over for 20 minutes for signs of life. The eyelids moved slightly again and a slight sigh escaped her lips, up to this time no pulse could be felt but from that time on a few faint tremblings of the pulse were noticed. She was taken upstairs and at an early hour this morning she regained consciousness, and gave her name as Ivora Farland of New York. She had been visiting in Boston and had come up here to call on a friend named Mrs. John Kelley. While walking along Merrimack street she was overtaken with a feeling of illness and went into the doorway.

This morning she was reported much better in health and when she is able to go out will be cared for by her friend.

The case is what is known to the medical profession as catalepsy, and is one which many physicians do not meet with in a lifetime. It is caused by some brain trouble, and consists of a sudden suspension of the action of the senses and of volition, these remaining in a fixed position, while the action of the heart and lungs not affected. It is very difficult to ascertain whether a person in such a case is dead or alive, and cases are on record, though very few in number, fortunately, when they have been buried while in such a state.

The malady is seldom fatal and there is no known remedy for it.

But for the one sign of life noticed while the Farland woman was in the undertaker's shop, she would have been placed in the basement surrounded by the paraphernalia of an undertaker, and upon recovering her senses there, if alone and in darkness, the result might have been death from fright.

TOO EAGER ANGLERS.

Violators of Game Laws Likely to Get Into Trouble.

Indications point to the belief that important steps will be taken this season to enforce the laws relative to fishing in the streams and ponds that will be of interest to anglers and that will greatly gratify those who desire to fish according to the requirements of the same. During the past few years, and especially within the last year, ponds and streams have been subjected to a lawless sort of fishing that has almost completely drained them of fish. Gangs of men and boys have fished for trout out of the season set by law till it is next to impossible for a fisherman to have any luck when he fishes during the season.

These lawless fishermen do not confine their method to the use of lines entirely, but use such mechanisms as the trawl, set net and drag net. These articles are not allowed, and if persons are caught using them matters are likely to take a serious turn. The fishery laws provide that any person caught in the act of using these articles, or any person against whom evidence shall be brought that shall show that fish have been caught by the use of these, may be subject to a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $50 for each and every fish so caught and taken from the waters, and their paraphernalia may be confiscated by the state.

If a man were to walk into a fish market and upon asking the price of a single fish be told it was $20, he would drop dead. Yet there are hundreds who will risk it, go out and set nets or use drag nets and trawls and subject themselves to arrest and a heavy fine, to say nothing of having all their apparatus confiscated. When the word "apparatus" is used it means everything that may be used at the time the person is caught in the act.—Fall River Herald.

SOME ATHLETIC GOSSIP.

FOUR CLUB BASE BALL LEAGUE FORMED IN TOWN.

Games to be Played on the Dracut Oval—Sub-committees on Various Sports in the L. C. A. A.—Old English Game of Bowls to be Revived—Big Increase in Membership Expected.

The prospects for the coming season in the Lowell Cricket and Athletic association are very encouring even more so than n any preceding year. Tomorrow the first steps will be taken to erect a new club, or about the site of the one burned last fall, by the sub-committee on building, President Hart, Gardner W. Pearson and C. F. Coburn.

A noticeable departure from the usual style of club houses will probably be made, and while the expense of the building will not exceed the funds available it is probable that an excellent house for use of club members will be put up.

In the way of sports the season's schedule is an excellent one. The plan of a four club league—the Vespers, Highlands, Home and L. C. A. A., has been successfully laid out and a schedule of 24 games, six games for each club ratified. The ball games, with few exceptions, will be played on the Dracut oval, which is undoubtedly the finest diamond outside of the Congress street grounds in Boston. The ball games will be sandwiched in on Saturdays between cricket fixtures. By vote of the directors the members of the other teams will be permitted to use the Dracut grounds one day each week, at present, for practice, so that ample opportunity is offered for "scrub." J. P. Battles will have full charge of the base ball end, and with a new lot of material it will be a success. He will be assisted by Charles Clegston and Bert Coburn.

The oval is looking in excellent condition. Next week the groundsman will commence his duties, and by Saturday week everything will be in readiness for a game of ball or cricket or exercising on the track.

This will be a great year for cricket for the first eleven, the schedule being the finest yet arranged, including some notable games at home.

There will be a strong second eleven for many of the ball players took up cricket last season, Dr. W. A. Sherman, Charles Clogston and George Jaques developing as good players. Mr. Murdie will have charge of the department and will be assisted by Mr. Fred Fairburn and George Jaques.

The old English game of bowls will be really introduced this season and the veteran player, Mr. John Gulline, will take charge of it, the committee chairman being J. H. Comber, and the other member Edward Sherwood, who will also serve on the tennis committee. Athletics, which is one of the most important departments, will be under the care of G. W. Pearson assisted by Fisher H. Pearson and T. P. Sullivan. The big open labor meeting on Labor day will be the biggest athletic affair ever gotten up in this city. The club will probably have a couple of local meetings, if the number of club athletes will warrant it. As the directors have lowered the junior membership fee to $3 for youths under 20 years, there is likely to be a big influx of new members. Many high school cadets, especially those on the ball team will join as it gives them an opportunity to secure good ball grounds with all desirable conveniences.

In the fall it is determined to revive foot ball. Several attempts have been made to do this, but unsuccessfully, but as new material has been added to the membership, this is assured. Of this committee and of winter bowling C. F. Coburn is the chairman and the other members are Mr. Cowan and Wm. Meiklejohn.

The club house and grounds will be under the eye of H. D. Kendall, Arthur Saunders and Alex. Hobbs.

The schedules for the season, a neat eight-page folder, containing a club directory, dates and teams of the 24 ball games and the 30 cricket games, together with particulars of club "field days" and athletic meetings are being printed and will be sent out with the notices of yearly dues next week. This year a pocket membership card will be issued in addition, good for every club affair at the grounds. The yearly membership fee of $5 is the lowest figure in the United States, and few clubs have more to offer the coming season than the L. C. A. A.

The members of the Lowell Carpet club which has disbanded may join the L. C. A. A., and if this is done more good cricketing material will be added.

Dr. W. A. Sherman will probably play with the Home club this season.

The Dracut oval will be a good place for ball games this summer. It is nearer the post office than the fair grounds, it is on a straight route from Merrimack square, and electric cars land passengers there in from eight to eleven minutes. Besides, the ride is delightful and the grand stands as comfortable as can be expected.

SEEN AND HEARD.

There will probably be another campfire at the Vesper club before the canoeing season opens.

It is now only a question of a short while before the Vesper club branches out as a winter club, using the present house as a summer club.

***

There will probably be 35 Vesper wheelmen in the big run to Old Concord and Lexington on the Nineteenth of April. These quiet towns will be fairly overrun with cyclists for hundreds from Boston will go there.

***

It is not likely that the Nineteenth of April will be ever observed as a legal holiday in this or any other manufacturing city, except through enlargement of heart of mill treasurers. The mills are only obliged to shut down on legal holidays which are mentioned in their charter. Fast day has been knocked out, but the Nineteenth of April cannot be substituted. It is yet undecided whether or not Lowell mills will close. From Christmas to Fourth of July, then to Thanksgiving day make big jumps between holidays.

***

An officer on the police force was interviewed by a SUN reporter today, to obtain facts on an alleged brutal assault by the officer on a drunken man. The officer said in response to inquiries:

"The man was quarrelling over a game of forty-fives."

"Did you club him?"

"Yes, I gave him a rap with me club; but it won't do any good to put that in the paper."

If this officer is given to "rapping" drunken men without provocation, he may be called upon to make explanations.

A Telephone Alarm.

POST OFFICE

Surprising Story From the Capital About It.

NOMINATION OF MR. PEARSON IS DELAYED.

Reason Assigned is the Influence of John E. Russell.

The following despatch from Washington was printed in today's Advertiser: "The Lowell post office is proving to be a very determined sort of light. If it had not been for J. E. Russell it might have been settled by this time. But the man from Leicester is determined that young Gardner Pearson shall not be postmaster there as long as he holds Mr. Cleveland's pap as he does now. Postmaster-General Bissell wants to appoint Pearson. At his request Pearson came to Washington and made Mr. Bissell a call, and the postmaster-general was very favorably impressed by him. But when Bissell takes the matter to Mr. Cleveland, he is informed by the president that his friend Mr. Russell does not want Pearson appointed, and the matter is laid aside.

"Pearson's friends here claim that Mr. Quincy arranged things himself by which ex-lieutenant Pearson would be just the man for the place, and that he has now gone back on that arrangement. This plan was to recognize the three elements in the democracy of Lowell, the French, Irish and American. The first two sections of this programme was carried out perfectly. The French element was recognized by the appointment of Leuthier to consulship, who, although the senate has refused to confirm him, is still serving the government in Canada. The Irish element was given a place when the superintendent of the public building was chosen, and the American part of the democracy was to have the post office.

"But then came another arrangement with J. B. Carroll of Springfield, by which he was to be pacified for not getting the place upon the bench which he wished by having his father-in-law, Michael Corbett of Lowell, made postmaster in the city of Gov. Greenhalge. Cong. Stevens will recommend nobody but Mr. Pearson, and J. E. Russell insists that Pearson be kept from the postmastership in memory of that torchlight procession and that memorable democratic meeting there. And all this time Mr. Quincy is working for Corbett, whom Mr. Stevens will not endorse. And while all this struggle is going on Postmaster Barbank is handling the Lowell mail.

"The end of the fight may be that Postmaster Burbank will continue his handling of the Lowell mail, even though he is a republican. Postmaster-General Wanamaker stated several times that he considered Burbank the best postmaster in the United States, and he used to describe the management of the Lowell office to other postmasters as a model for them to imitate. It has been very strongly intimated that the people of Lowell, democrats as well as republicans, would like to have Burbank kept in office. Cong. Stevens thinks well of Burbank, and might be willing to have the fight ended by his retention. This would be an amicable way to end the fight and about the only way that appears. At any rate the question of re-appointing Burbank is being very seriously discussed both at the post office department and the White House."

POLICE COURT.

Hadley, J.

Three drunks.

Isadore Dube, a young boy, was charged with larceny from his brother. The case was continued until tomorrow, as was the case of Midas Laferrire for alleged assault and battery on Minnie Tarsey.

Simon B. Harris has recovered from the effects of the Garvey trial and is on deck again, complaining of John Lamountain of North Chelmsford for alleged illegally keeping liquor. The case will be heard on April 12.

The continued case of Thomas F. Clark for assault and battery upon Sarah Parsons was tried this morning. Clark formerly sold household articles on the instalment plan. He sold some curtains and other articles to the complainant, and on calling there on one occasion some trouble arose over the payments, and the result was, the defendant, it was alleged started to take out the curtains. Mrs. Parsons tried to stop him and she alleged he struck and kicked her.

SEASON OPENS APRIL 28.

New England Baseball Men Consider Matters of Interest.

BOSTON, April 5.—The schedule meeting of the New England league was held at the Quincy House yesterday. Three clubs, Portland, Fall River and Brockton, were represented when the meeting was called to order.

The Pawtucket, Haverhill and Bangor clubs were admitted to membership.

The Worcester club protested against the way they were treated. This club wanted a six-club league, composed of Lewiston, Portland, Fall River, Brockton, Haverhill and Worcester. They claim that the franchises were given to Pawtucket and Bangor simply to give jobs to Leonard and Bacon.

During all the discussion, which was pretty warm, the Lewiston representative, McDonough, was absent. The club was admitted to the league.

The Reach ball was adopted, and the naming of the umpire staff left with the president.

The schedule consists of 112 games, each club playing eight games with every club, 56 at home and 56 away. The season opens April 28 and ends Sept. 7.

Shinnick, the well known second baseman is at Exeter, N. H.

Frank Thyne intends to form a strong club in this city, which will include McCarthy of Lowell, pitcher; Cull; second base; McGuane, third base; Charlie Farrell, short stop and captain; Booth, Courtney and Sweeney in the field. This club will play in Burlington, April 20, 27 and 28, and Manager Thyne is arranging other dates. He would like to hear from New Hampshire and Vermont clubs for games the latter part of April and first part of May. The Lowells will open the season at Nashua or Manchester on April 31 the last day in that state.

DAYS OF SUFFERING

ENDURED BY CREW OF A NEWFOUNDLAND A VESSEL.

Hope Was Abandoned When the Exhausted Men Were Rescued by the Mohican—Providential Escape From a Watery Grave.

BRISTOL, April 5.—Captain Cook of the British steamer Mohican, having on board the crew of the bark Kate of St. John's, N. F., furnishes the following particulars of the rescue. Captain Cook says that he sighted the Kate on March 20, and seeing that the vessel was dismasted, he altered his course so as to run quite near to her, in the hope of being able to save some of her crew. When the distressed vessel was sighted, a terrible sea was running, and the wind was blowing almost with hurricane force.

Owing to the severity of the heavy sea running it was some time before the Mohican succeeded in lowering a boat and getting her afloat. Captain Cook caused a quantity of oil to be run out of the lee scuppers, and also placed a number of oil bags outside the gunwales of the lifeboat. In addition he shipped a small cask of oil in the lifeboat, and eventually got her away from the ship.

The lifeboat, after a long buffet with seas, succeeded in getting to the windward of the Kate. When in that position the cask of oil was broached and a quantity of its contents allowed to run to leeward of the lifeboat. This enabled the lifeboat to get close enough to admit of the rescue of the crew. When the Mohican's lifeboat returned to the steamer she was received with cheers.

Captain James' Story.

Captain James of the Kate says that he left Trapani, Sicily, on Jan. 6, for St. John's, N. F., and passed Tarifa, near Gibraltar, Spain, on Feb. 1, shaping his course for Newfoundland. Soon after getting away from the Spanish coast, the Kate met with a series of gales which kept all hands on deck almost continually. So severe was the weather that several of the water casks broke loose and were stove in. This increased the sufferings of the crew. The severity of the weather also prevented fires being lighted in the galley, except at rare intervals, and the crew had to live almost entirely upon hard tack and a small quantity of canned provisions.

On March 12 the weather moderated, but the gales were succeeded by a dense fog. This caused the crew to almost give way to despair. Even the fog was not the last of their trouble, for while making fair headway through the fog, the weather suddenly became much colder. Suddenly ice was reported ahead, and before the bark's course could be altered, it was seen that a huge icefloe was right ahead of her. The Kate crashed into the mass of floating ice, severely damaging her bows and smashing her stem.

Luckily a quantity of the ice had become jammed in the holes made forward by the bark's collision with the ice, and this enabled Captain James to make a spare sail fast over the damaged portion. Other repairs were also undertaken, but the bark began leaking badly. Night and day after that the suffering men were kept at the pumps, and succeeded in keeping the water pretty well under.

Looked In Vain For Help.

During all this time the Kate did not sight a sail, and at the expiration of two days, when the fog began to lift, it was seen that the unlucky bark was in the midst of an icefield. With the lifting of the fog, the wind and sea began to rise, and for five days the Kate was buffeted among the icefloes, every moment expecting to be sent to the bottom.

Finally, after five days of terrible toil and struggle, the Kate succeeded in clearing the icefield, but afterward sighted a number of small icebergs, and the men were half-frozen by a series of bitter snowsqualls which swept over the bark; but the snow enabled them to obtain all the drinking water necessary to continue the struggle toward the shores of Newfoundland.

These snowsqualls continued until March 28, when the weather changed for the worse, and the wind blew with hurricane force. The foretopmast was carried away, and, in falling, dragged the maintopmast with it, and the Kate was soon a helpless, dismasted wreck. Sea after sea swept over the bark, and all hands came to the conclusion that the Kate was doomed to go to the bottom, carrying all on board with her.

The Rescue.

On March 25 a steamer was sighted on the horizon. The steamer turned out to be the Electro of the Wilson line, and she answered the distress signals hoisted by the Kate.

The sea, however, was so high that the captain of the Wilson liner was afraid to lower a boat, though he stood by the dismasted vessel until night. When morning broke the Electro had vanished and the crew of the Kate again gave way to bitter despair. Happily, the next day, when 62 days out, the Kate sighted another steamer, which turned out to be the Mohican, and the rescue of the crew of the Kate was effected.

The wreck of the Kate was left floating, a dangerous derelict, and is believed to have been the vessel seen in an abandoned condition on the edge of the banks of Newfoundland by the British steamer Stockholm City, which arrived at Halifax on Sunday from London.

Murderer Not Placed.

DEADLY RIOTS

Nine Men Killed in the Coke Regions.

FATAL CONFLICT BETWEEN DEPUTIES AND STRIKERS.

Started by the Murder of an Engineer.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 5.—It would take columns to tell in detail the exciting events of yesterday, the third of the big coke strike now on in the Connellsville region. At least nine lives were sacrificed. Unless the strong arm of the military interferes, the dead will be counted by scores instead of tens. So much excitement was never known in the region, and people everywhere are excited and apprehensive of greater dangers.

The rioting began early in the morning, but the climax was not reached until yesterday afternoon, when several hundred strikers marched in the Davidson works of the H. C. Frick Coke company at Connellsville, where men were working. When the strikers approached they were ordered by the deputies to stop. They came on and tried to get at the men in the ovens. The deputies fired. The strikers returned the fire and charged, driving the deputies and men from the plant.

Chief Engineer Paddock of the Frick company ran up in the tipple of the works. The strikers followed and shot him in the back of the head. They beat him and crushed his head with stones, and threw his body from a tipple window to the ovens, 40 feet below. They then attempted to fire the tipple, but left when they saw the deputies returning with a large force from Connellsville.

Bullets Flew Thick and Fast.

Hearing of Paddock's murder, hundreds wanted to avenge his death. The pursuing party, in command of 'Detective Campbell, overtook the strikers half a mile from Davidson and opened fire on them. The strikers fired in return, but ran on. Three strikers fell; one was killed instantly and two others were fatally wounded. Another of the strikers, who got the start on the main body, was shot by a deputy at Broad Ford, a mile distant. He was also killed instantly.

Eleven strikers were captured where the first battle took place, and the pursuing party kept up the chase until Dawson, a point seven miles distant, was reached, where 83 more of the strikers were captured. All the efforts of the deputies and more level-headed citizens were needed to prevent the lynching of the 11 who were taken back to Connellsville.

The law-abiding element had their way, and at 8 o'clock a special train arrived here with 40 of those who were in the mob that killed Paddock. A great crowd greeted their arrival, and amid cries of lynch them the prisoners were hurried to jail. A large body of the strikers were present and made a rush to rescue the prisoners, but were held back by the big crowd and the deputies.

At the jail Hugh Coll, assistant chief engineer of the Frick company, identified five of the prisoners as among those who killed Paddock. Thirty more of the same band of strikers have been arrested, and the deputies will return to bring them to jail.

Paddock was highly esteemed and was widely known. His murder occurred in sight of his home. All the officials of the district organization of the strikers will be arrested for complicity in the Paddock murder, and inciting the riot and murder. Every effort will be made to hunt down the guilty ones.

At the Mayfield plant of the McGlure company two men were fatally shot during the day. The strikers charged the men at work in the morning, but were driven off by the deputies, after a striker was shot through the body. In the afternoon they returned and renewed the attack. There was much fighting and a deputy was fatally wounded.

Murderers Recognized.

One hundred rioters are now under arrest. Hugh Coll recognized nearly all of the Huns in jail as the ones who helped commit the assault at Davidson when Paddock was killed. The Frick and Rayney companies are determined to fight to the end, and have their works well guarded by deputies.

Twelve hundred rioters are marching on the Moyer works of J. W. Rayney, where 150 deputies are on guard. A massacre of rioters will occur there if the projected attack is made.

The latest is that an assault will be made on the jail here to rescue the rioters jailed last night.

Kitteridge Is Elected.

BATH, Me., April 5.—The city marshalship fight here ended with a victory for the mayor, and Orrin A. Kitteridge was promoted from the captaincy of the watch to that position. At the end of a midnight session William B. Palmer won the hotly contested fight for the tax collector and treasurership, and William Rogers was chosen tax assessor.

TEACHING DRAWING.

Points to be Considered by teachers Emphasized by Mr. Bailey.

About 150 persons attended the lecture delivered at High school hall yesterday afternoon by Mr. Henry T. Bailey. The lecture was very entertaining and the speaker touched upon various principles involved in teaching drawing. Among other things the speaker said: "The natural order of illustrating natural objects calls for a close following of the growth and life of the subject. In illustrating inanimate objects there is a logical order to be followed as well. Technical drawing is also necessary.

"In primary teaching you must teach the pupils to "know" something and to "do" something. Forms should be taught and impressions correctly made. As a whole, the principle of drawing as a means of understanding cannot be overestimated."

We understand that it's quite a common thing for men about town, who are wearing Rogers, Peet & Co.'s clothing, to say that they've had it made to order. We disclaim any responsibility for moral lapses of this character.

We sell the goods for just what they are—the best ready-made in the world; do our best to please our customers; fit them as they should be fitted, charge them fair prices—and leave the rest to them.

If the clothes appear so much better, than any ever seen ready-made; if they are so good that they'll pass muster as a job from a first-class tailor, it's what we wish for them—but it's the wearer, not the seller, who romances about custom work.

We don't mean to tempt you to misrepresentation, but there's an elegant collection of Spring Clothing here—suits, overcoats, and long frocks, that may impress you with its goodness, may tempt you to buy.

You can't help being satisfied, for we give back the money for clothes you don't like.

FOR THE WHEELMEN.

Pointers on How to Ride and How to Appear.

Officer Lennon tells a pretty good story of his experience with a bicyclist, recently. He was on the sidewalk, with a team moving along near the curbstone. Around a corner came a wheelman on his "bik" using the sidewalk. Officer Lennon jumped to one side and so did the "bik." There was a collision, Officer Lennon landed under the team, while the rider took a header. The front wheel of the machine was smashed, but no one was hurt, fortunately. Before the officer could get his breath the cyclist put his wheel over his shoulder and skipped.

The best lady rider in town is said to reside on the Merrimack corporation.

When you get your new wheel there are a few things you want to be sure and remember. Pump your tires hard, so that when sitting on the machine they scarcely bulge. Saddles should be placed so that when the pedal is at the lowest position it can be reached by a straight leg without any sensation of stretching. See that the peak is half an inch higher than the back. The handles should be fixed so they can be reached while sitting upright. See that all bearings are properly adjusted, and that all the nuts are tight and fast.

The Norfolk, Va., Cycle club is about to start on a tour of considerable interest from their own town to Gettysburg, a distance of 300 miles. They are going to take their time about it, camping out on the way. A move like this is one of the signs of the healthy condition of the sport.

An effort is being made by the Springfield club to raise $1000 to send Tyler, Windle and Sanger to Belgium to compete for the Sultonstall trophy. It is now in possession of the N. Y. A. C., but it will have to be forwarded for the contest.

Three Stepping Stones.

The number of marriage intentions recorded and certificates issued during the year 1893 was 1018, an increase of 17 over the number of 1892. The total number of marriages returned and recorded for the year was 1020, an increase of 28 over the number of 1892.

The total number of deaths recorded during the year 1893 was 2180, a decrease from the number recorded in 1892 of 120. The total number of males was 1012, a decrease of 84, and the total number of females 1068, a decrease of 36. Fooling the People.

You can fool some of the people all the time; you can fool all the people some of the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time by getting out a second-hand newspaper. Compare THE SUN with other local papers.

THE MEMORIAL war book, the first number of which has been issued by Lovell Brothers of New York will be a valuable addition to the glut of pictorial literature now on the market.

THE ELECTIONS in Ohio and Michigan on Tuesday show a great overturn in favor of republicans. The ruling party as usual must suffer for the business depression that has come upon the country as the result of causes for which no political party is responsible.

THAT IS an interesting decision made by Judge Lilley, in regard to disorderly conduct on the public streets. If there is neither statute nor ordinance making such conduct in public places a punishable offence the sooner legal provision is made for the protection of the public the better.

TWO LAWYERS in the Breckinridge-Pollard case and two others in a city not far from Lowell might rival the Kilkenny cats the story of which has so many parallels in every day life that we are tempted to reproduce it here:

"There once were two cats in Kilkenny
And each thought there was one cat too many;
So they fought and they fit and they scratched and they bit
Till excepting their nails and the tips of their tails
Instead of two cats there weren't any."

CAN IT be wondered that England can procure spies and manufacture traitors when it is known that Le. Caron was made the recipient of a life annuity of $5,000 together with a life insurance policy for $100,000? That was done in an effort to defame Mr. Parnell with the hope that his deposition as leader would overthrow the home rule movement. It was simply suborning testimony.

DO THE readers of THE SUN appreciate the fact that in the 5 o'clock edition of yesterday, a cablegram announced that a great fire was raging in Shanghai, and that 1,000 houses had been destroyed? The matter has a local interest from the fact that a young millman, Mr. Danforth of this city, is conducting a cotton mill there. Other important happenings throughout the world are announced with equal promptness in the telegraphic dispatches to THE SUN.

THE ROW in Kansas City between the A. P. A. and their antagonists shows the danger that lies in this secret organization. A few more outrages at the hands of this dark lantern society will cause the formation of similar societies of Catholics for self protection. Should such a course appear necessary, the country will be cast into a ferment of internecine strife that will spread alarm everywhere. The seeds of discord will be scattered far and wide and bloodshed will be the result. Now is the time to check the movement that so threatens the peace of the country.

GOV. TILLMAN of South Carolina is not a coward. He is determined to enforce the laws even if he dies in the attempt. The opponents of the administration and the liquor dealers combined cannot intimidate the governor although they have caused all the trouble thus far. Gov. Tillman has dismissed the militia and assumed control of the municipal police and by this means, he hopes to put down lawlessness and subdue the disturbing element. He pronounces the liquor law a good one, but like many other good laws when first introduced, it is almost impossible of enforcement. The present opposition to it will probably result in its abolition at the first opportunity.

LIFE TENURE OFFICE BILL.

There are many reports of inefficiency in the management of the district police by Chief Wade. These reached a culmination on Tuesday when a representative preferred charges against the chief openly in the discussion of the life tenure of office bill. Should this bill pass and cause the retention of Chief Wade in his present position, the service would become still worse than at present. Major Noyes of this city is mentioned as a candidate for Chief Wade's position if a change is to be made. He is active, energetic, experienced in police matters, and of rare executive ability. Altogether he would make a good man for the place, and as he was defeated in his candidacy for postmaster while Mr. Greenhalge was in congress, the governor might now be glad to have an opportunity to place Major Noyes in a position which he might hold for life, if he only performed the duties of the office with a fair degree of satisfaction.

If there was any chance for the appointment of a democrat to the office, another candidate might be mentioned; but Gov. Greenhalge is not likely to go out of his party to find a man to take Chief Wade's place.

SNEERS FROM LAWRENCE.

Some sinner on the Lawrence Sun evidently thinks Lowell the most wicked city in the universe, but he should have used the conventional "present company excepted," for Lawrence has the palm in this respect. Here are a few samples from our Spicketville namesake:

"What would the state prison do without Lowell as a recruiting ground? It is difficult to say."

"Lowell reports an increase in the religious spirit. There was plenty of room for it in that city."

Lawrence is such a hardened sinner there is no hope for her conversion.

"Lawrence mud keeps up its reputation, these days, as a slippery article. It is as treacherous as the political product."

The newspaper mud is as treacherous as either, now that it appears the normal school is coming to Lowell.

"There are some mean people in the world, and a few of them have blown into this city."

The statement is entirely superfluous. That will be realized by glancing at the Lawrence papers When Lawrence is not making faces at Lowell she is swelling out in a vain effort to equal our city much in the same fashion as the frog that swelled in order to equal the ox. When Lawrence tires of this method she might try to lift herself up to the same plane as Lowell by tugging at the straps of her boots.

CURRENT CLIPPINGS.

Attrition.

It was a beautiful morn. Far away green fields lay and vegetated violently, butterflies flitted to and fro, and birds warbled in the tree tops.

In the busy city large, adhesive flakes of soot floated through the placid air, while the pale green worm clung to the foliage that arched above the street and waited patiently for the coming of the costume best suited to his complexion.

It was amid such scenes as these that two ladies lingered in their boudoir.

"Nevertheless," murmured the tall vision of loveliness who wore an enamel buckle at her girdle, "he has been much in contact with the world."

A smile curved the red lips of the short, fat vision.

"Yes"——

She mused.

——"I dare say you are right. That explains"——

She suffered her long lashes to droop gracefully upon her cheek.

——"why his coat is so shiny."

It might have been a coincidence, but an unwonted heaviness of the atmosphere was noticeable at once.—Detroit Tribune.

The Puff Professional.

What a heap of medical men there are, to be sure! Quite a glut in the market. In fact, there are so many that these poor officers of health have the utmost difficulty in making ends meet. One of them, recently established and despairing of his ability to scrape together a practice, is now having handbills distributed at the corner of every street in his district which hold out the following inducement:

"In case of nonrecovery I hereby undertake to pay one-third of the funeral expenses of all persons whom I have attend ed."—Domion Rose.

Indignant Actor—You wrote that notice about the performance of our company at the Highup theater last night, sir, without seeing it. You were not there, sir!

Dramatic Critic—That is true. I had to go to three or four other theaters. But I didn't roast you, did I?

"You mentioned Albertus de Ranteur by name, sir! I am Albertus de Ranteur."

"Did I say anything uncomplimentary about you, Mr. de Ranteur?"

"You said the audience 'thoroughly appreciated' my acting, sir!"

"Well, what's wrong with that?"

"They threw eggs at me, sir. And vegetables. And they tooted me off the stage with tin horns, sir!"—Chicago Tribune.

Polite.

Not long ago Edmund Russell dawned upon a certain western city, and the Blanks gave a large reception. Among the plans for the entertainment of the guests was a scene from "Macbeth" rendered by a young woman of local elocutionary fame. The head of the family was not informed of this especial part of the programme. At the proper moment the young woman personating Lady Macbeth appeared at the end of the drawing room dressed in a trailing robe of white and bearing a light. She moved slowly forward, an expectant hush falling upon the assemblage. The host looked up, saw and wholly misunderstood. He hesitated only a moment, then hastened forward with hospitable zeal, saying: "Why, Miss Smith, good evening! I'm very glad to see you. May I relieve you of your candle?"—Argonaut.

EASTER GREETING

With what joy does the good Christian anticipate Easter, the most glorious festival of his church? What beautiful music is rendered on that day in all our churches, and for the gay and fashionable what time of the year can compare with Easter, for fashion and gay attire? why none; and then the social circle what charm after the long vigil of Lent? Why, take it altogether there is no time of the year that confers such delight as Easter. And to add to the pleasure of Easter time you have only to get the necessary things which sociability requires and among them I know of nothing more necessary and useful to make you happy at this time than a bottle of good wine, and you can get it so cheap that you ought not to be without it. A WORD TO MOTHERS, A CHILD SAVED.

This certifies that DR. WILSON has restored my child to perfect health after all other doctors had failed. Some said it was suffering from its teeth, others said it could not live. It was failing all the time and was restless. No one knew what ailed the child, but said it could not be cured. At length one of Dr. Wilson's patients advised me to consult him. He understood and explained every ailment. With his peculiar method of diagnosing nothing is hid. He saw the child was suffering from a combination of difficulties, torpidity of the liver, chronic constipation and general phthisis. He said he could cure it, and he has been as good as his word. The child is now in the best of health. I would advise all mothers to take their children to DR. WILSON if they wish to save them. His skill has proved to be second to none.

With a mother's gratitude and many thanks to DR. WILSON,

Fooling the People.

You can fool some of the people all the time; you can fool all the people some of the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time by getting out a second-hand newspaper. Compare THE SUN with other local papers.

THE MEMORIAL war book, the first number of which has been issued by Lovell Brothers of New York will be a valuable addition to the glut of pictorial literature now on the market.

THE ELECTIONS in Ohio and Michigan on Tuesday show a great overturn in favor of republicans. The ruling party as usual must suffer for the business depression that has come upon the country as the result of causes for which no political party is responsible.

THAT IS an interesting decision made by Judge Lilley, in regard to disorderly conduct on the public streets. If there is neither statute nor ordinance making such conduct in public places a punishable offence the sooner legal provision is made for the protection of the public the better.

TWO LAWYERS in the Breckinridge-Pollard case and two others in a city not far from Lowell might rival the Kilkenny cats the story of which has so many parallels in every day life that we are tempted to reproduce it here:

"There once were two cats in Kilkenny
And each thought there was one cat too many;
So they fought and they fit, and they scratched and they bit,
Till excepting their nails and the tips of their tails
Instead of two cats there weren't any."

CAN IT be wondered that England can procure spies and manufacture traitors when it is known that Le. Caron was made the recipient of a life annuity of $5,000 together with a life insurance policy for $100,000? That was done in an effort to defame Mr. Parnell with the hope that his deposition as leader would overthrow the home rule movement. It was simply suborning testimony.

DO THE readers of THE SUN appreciate the fact that in the 5 o'clock edition of yesterday, a cablegram announced that a great fire was raging in Shanghai, and that 1,000 houses had been destroyed? The matter has a local interest from the fact that a young millman, Mr. Danforth of this city, is conducting a cotton mill there. Other important happenings throughout the world are announced with equal promptness in the telegraphic dispatches to THE SUN.

THE ROW in Kansas City between the A. P. A. and their antagonists shows the danger that lies in this secret organization. A few more outrages at the hands of this dark lantern society will cause the formation of similar societies of Catholics for self protection. Should such a course appear necessary, the country will be cast into a ferment of internecine strife that will spread alarm everywhere. The seeds of discord will be scattered far and wide and bloodshed will be the result. Now is the time to check the movement that so threatens the peace of the country.

GOV. TILLMAN of South Carolina is not a coward. He is determined to enforce the laws even if he dies in the attempt. The opponents of the administration and the liquor dealers combined cannot intimidate the governor although they have caused all the trouble thus far. Gov. Tillman has dismissed the militia and assumed control of the municipal police and by this means, he hopes to put down lawlessness and subdue the disturbing element. He pronounces the liquor law a good one, but like many other good laws when first introduced, it is almost impossible of enforcement. The present opposition to it will probably result in its abolition at the first opportunity.

LIFE TENURE OFFICE BILL.

There are many reports of inefficiency in the management of the district police by Chief Wade. These reached a culmination on Tuesday when a representative preferred charges against the chief openly in the discussion of the life tenure of office bill. Should this bill pass and cause the retention of Chief Wade in his present position, the service would become still worse than at present. Major Noyes of this city is mentioned as a candidate for Chief Wade's position if a change is to be made. He is active, energetic, experienced in police matters, and of rare executive ability. Altogether he would make a good man for the place, and as he was defeated in his candidacy for postmaster while Mr. Greenhalge was in congress, the governor might now be glad to have an opportunity to place Major Noyes in a position which he might hold for life, if he only performed the duties of the office with a fair degree of satisfaction.

If there was any chance for the appointment of a democrat to the office, another candidate might be mentioned; but Gov. Greenhalge is not likely to go out of his party to find a man to take Chief Wade's place.

SNEERS FROM LAWRENCE.

Some sinner on the Lawrence Sun evidently thinks Lowell the most wicked city in the universe, but he should have used the conventional "present company excepted," for Lawrence has the palm in this respect. Here are a few samples from our Spicketville namesake:

"What would the state prison do without Lowell as a recruiting ground? It is difficult to say."

"Lowell reports an increase in the religious spirit. There was plenty of room for it in that city."

Lawrence is such a hardened sinner there is no hope for her conversion.

"Lawrence mud keeps up its reputation, these days, as a slippery article. It is as treacherous as the political product."

The newspaper mud is as treacherous as either, now that it appears the normal school is coming to Lowell.

"There are some mean people in the world, and a few of them have blown into this city."

The statement is entirely superfluous. That will be realized by glancing at the Lawrence papers. When Lawrence is not making faces at Lowell she is swelling out in a vain effort to equal our city much in the same fashion as the frog that swelled in order to equal the ox. When Lawrence tires of this method she might try to lift herself up to the same plane as Lowell by tugging at the straps of her boots.

CURRENT CLIPPINGS.

Attrition.

It was a beautiful morn. Far away green fields lay and vegetated violently, butterflies flitted to and fro, and birds warbled in the tree tops.

In the busy city large, adhesive flakes of soot floated through the placid air, while the pale green worm clung to the foliage that arched above the street and waited patiently for the coming of the costume best suited to his complexion.

It was amid such scenes as these that two ladies lingered in their boudoir.

"Nevertheless," murmured the tall vision of loveliness who wore an enamel buckle at her girdle, "he has been much in contact with the world."

A smile curved the red lips of the short, fat vision.

"Yes"—

She mused.

—"I dare say you are right. That explains"—

She suffered her long lashes to droop gracefully upon her cheek.

—"why his coat is so shiny."

It might have been a coincidence, but an unwonted heaviness of the atmosphere was noticeable at once.—Detroit Tribune.

The Puff Professional.

What a heap of medical men there are, to be sure! Quite a glut in the market. In fact, there are so many that these poor officers of health have the utmost difficulty in making ends meet. One of them, recently established and despairing of his ability to scrape together a practice, is now having handbills distributed at the corner of every street in his district which hold out the following inducement:

"In case of nonrecovery I hereby undertake to pay one-third of the funeral expenses of all persons whom I have attended."—Dominion Base.

A BUSINESS WOMAN, or a woman who works, sooner or later has to build up her strength with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, faintingspells, or sleeplessness, take the "Prescription." It is woman's special tonic and nervine.

It's a medicine that builds up, invigorates, regulates, and cures.

It lessens the pains and burdens of childbearing.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, in "female complaints" and weaknesses, you have your money back.

With a Grievance.

Indignant Actor—You wrote that notice about the performance of our company at the Highup theater last night, sir, without seeing it. You were not there, sir!

Dramatic Critic—That is true. I had to go to three or four other theaters. But I didn't roast you, did I?

"You mentioned Albertus de Rantour by name, sir! I am Albertus de Rantour."

"Did I say anything uncomplimentary about you, Mr. de Ranteur?"

"You said the audience 'thoroughly appreciated' my acting, sir!"

"Well, what's wrong with that?"

"They threw eggs at me, sir. And vegetables. And they tooted me off the stage with tin horns, sir!"—Chicago Tribune.

Polite.

Not long ago Edmund Russell dawned upon a certain western city, and the Blanks gave a large reception. Among the plans for the entertainment of the guests was a scene from "Macbeth" rendered by a young woman of local elocutionary fame. The head of the family was not informed of this especial part of the programme. At the proper moment the young woman personating Lady Macbeth appeared at the end of the drawing room dressed in a trailing robe of white and bearing a light. She moved slowly forward, an expectant hush falling upon the assemblage. The host looked up, saw and wholly misunderstood. He hesitated only a moment, then hastened forward with hospitable zeal, saying: "Why, Miss Smith, good evening! I'm very glad to see you. May I relieve you of your candle?"—Argonaut.

EASTER GREETING

With what joy does the good Christian anticipate Easter, the most glorious festival of his church? What beautiful music is rendered on that day in all our churches, and for the gay and fashionable what time of the year can compare with Easter, for fashion and gay attire? why none; and then the social circle what charm after the long vigil of Lent? Why, take it altogether there is no time of the year that confers such delight as Easter. And to add to the pleasure of Easter time you have only to get the necessary things which sociability requires and among them I know of nothing more necessary and useful to make you happy at this time than a bottle of good wine, and you can get it so cheap that you ought not to be without it. Send an order to the GLOBE HOTEL and get Three Large Bottles for $1.00, or Five for $1.50, Port or Sherry.

BLAND

Endeavors to Have His Bill Passed.

HE CAUSES GREAT CONFUSION IN THE HOUSE.

Reed is Repeatedly Silenced by Speaker Crisp.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—All programs that had been mapped out for the Bland seigniorage bill when it was to be called up on the motion to pass it over the president's veto were suddenly smashed yesterday, and the vote was had upon the motion amid a scene of such inextricable confusion as has seldom been witnessed on the floor of the house of representatives.

The bill came up after the house had unseated Hilborn from the Fifth California district, and had seated English, the contestant, in his place. Mr. Bland called up the seigniorage bill, returned by the president without his approval, and moved that it pass, the objections of the executive to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mr. Tracey raised the question of consideration against it, and Mr. Bailey made the point of order that the constitution required the consideration of a bill returned with a veto, and that the question of consideration, therefore, should not be raised against it.

Mr. Sickles urged that the rules permitted that question to be raised against any measure, and as it was competent under the constitution to postpone the consideration of the veto, it was equally competent under the constitution to determine whether it should or not be considered when called up. The speaker sustained the point of order.

Mr. Bland stated on behalf of the majority of the committee on coinage, weights and measures that on Saturday at 3 o'clock he would demand the previous question.

From all quarters of the Democratic side there seemed to be a general desire to avoid the conflict of opinion on debate, and Mr. Bland's suggestion of three days' debate was met with a chorus of "Vote! vote!"

The Fun Begins.

Then followed one of the most remarkable scenes witnessed in the house in years. The Republicans were euchered out of their chance of seeing the dissensions in the Democratic ranks redound to their advantage. Mr. Tracey said that as far as the Democrats of the minority of the committee on coinage, weights and measures were concerned, they were willing to take a vote immediately. Mr. Tracey went on to say, however, that he had not conferred with the Republicans of the committee, and suggested that he would like to have the opinion of C. W. Stone of Pennsylvania, who made the minority report against the bill.

"Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Reed, "my colleague, Mr. Dingley, was ready to address the house upon this question before the rollcall began."

"The gentleman, Mr. Dingley, made no such statement until after the first name on the rollcall had been called."

"The reason he did not," said Mr. Reed, "was because the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) was entitled to the floor, and I submit to the speaker and to the house that this is notable because my colleague was ready to address the chair, and if he did not do so, it was because in the confusion the first name on the roll was called before an opportunity was afforded to the house to know what the situation was."

"Regular order," shouted the Democrats.

"The discussion that was going on," continued Mr. Reed, "was in reference to an arrangement for time for debate, and before anybody had an opportunity to understand what the situation was the first name was called on."

The Speaker's Statement.

"The house understands the circumstances," replied the speaker. "The gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) was recognized, whereupon some suggestion was made to an agreement between that gentleman and the gentleman from New York (Mr. Tracey), who called upon the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Stone). There was a general call throughout the house of 'Vote, vote,' whereupon, the agreement failing, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) stated that he was willing to have the vote taken now, and no gentleman rose to address the chair."

A dozen men on the Republican side protested, but the speaker disregarded them and continued: "The chair stated the question, and stated that under the constitution the yeas and nays must be entered on the journal. Still no gentleman arose to address the chair. The chair then directed the clerk to call the roll, and the first name was called, and then for the first time the chair had an intimation that the gentleman from Maine (Mr. Dingley) desired to address the house."

The explanation of the speaker was not satisfactory. The Republicans, led by Mr. Reed, were appealing for recognition, amid shouts of "Regular order" from the Democratic side.

The excitement was intense.

"I want the speaker to understand this matter," said Mr. Reed, finally.

"The speaker does understand it," retorted the speaker, "and the speaker directs the clerk to resume the call of the roll."

"I think the speaker has not heard my colleague's statement," persisted Mr. Reed.

"The gentleman will take his seat," returned the speaker, finally.

"Certainly, I will," replied Mr. Reed, but he still remained standing.

"The gentleman will take his seat," continued the speaker, "and the clerk will call the roll."

Reed Is Defiant.

Mr. Reed sat down, but immediately jumped to his feet again. He would not surrender without one more protest.

"Mr. Speaker," he said defiantly, "I ask to be heard."

"The chair declines to hear the gentleman. The clerk will call the roll."

"Will the speaker hear a word?"

"The chair will not."

"My colleague states——"

"The chair will not hear the gentleman. The clerk will call the roll."

The uproar was terrific at this point. Mr. Burrows attempted to address the chair, while Mr. Wilson of Washington cried "Tyranny! tyranny!" but the speaker would not listen, and ordered the clerk to proceed with the rollcall. Once or twice afterwards Mr. Burrows and Mr. Reed attempted to break in, but the speaker declared emphatically that he would not hear them; that the rollcall could not be interrupted for any purpose. The Republicans were beside themselves with anger.

They refused to vote on the first rollcall. The anti-silver Democrats were in despair, as the first rollcall gave the silver men the necessary two-thirds.

Finally, after a consultation, they agreed to vote, and did vote on the second rollcall. This turned the tide, and upon the announcement of the vote it was found that the motion to pass the bill over the veto had been defeated, the silver men lacking 74, the necessary two-thirds. The house then adjourned.

In the Senate.

The senate passed, after a warm controversy, the senate bill for the suppression of gambling in the District of Columbia with an amendment prohibiting pool selling on horse races. The senate also considered briefly a resolution for the repeal of all laws which give the secretary of the treasury authority to issue bonds, and Senator Peffer spoke in support of it.

The tariff bill was then laid before the senate, and Mr. Allison concluded his speech in opposition. His remarks were directed in particular against the substitution of the ad valorem for the specific system and against the tax on sugar. He also opposed the increase on distilled liquor and the tax on incomes, while at the same time he delivered a strong attack against the policy of "following in the footsteps of England, and of opening our markets to that country, thus giving her the gold with which to wage her battle against the world and bimetallism."

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Mills took the floor in defense of the ad valorem system of taxation, and confessed that the bill did not meet with his entire approval, but it was always necessary to compromise in legislation.

ANOTHER BOMB

Startles Parisians In the Vicinity of the Senate Chamber.

PARIS, April 5.—Another bomb explosion occurred here last evening, near the senate chamber. The explosion occurred at 9:25 o'clock p. m., and has caused renewed consternation in official circles. The bomb, it appears, was placed in a flower box on the window sill of the Restaurant Foyot, opposite the senate chamber.

The bomb exploded with a tremendous report, and shattered all the windows of the restaurant, besides breaking the windows in a number of other buildings. M. Taillaide, an artist, and a lady friend were injured by the explosion, which caused an enormous crowd of people to assemble about the restaurant.

It seems that the bomb-thrower had been seen by a person passing the Restaurant Foyot, and the latter had been able to obtain a good description of the criminal. So promply did the police work, that but a comparatively short time elapsed before the alleged anarchist was in custody.

ANTE-MORTEM STATEMENT

Concerning the Kansas City's Riot Over Politics and Religion.

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—The three men reported as fatally wounded in the A. P. A. Catholic election riot are still alive, but no hopes of their recovery are entertained. Deputy Constable Pate said he believed that Mike Callahan, the only one that was killed outright, is the man that shot him. Pate is one of those mortally wounded.

Harry Fowler will also die. He said: "I saw a man unknown to me attempt to shoot Callahan. I dashed out to grab the man and save Callahan, and somebody shot me in the back."

The eight men under arrest are all deputy constables, appointed to arrest the Priors for an alleged assault. Only one of the Priors has been arrested in connection with the riot, and the others were far from the scene where it occurred.

Returns on the vote for mayor in this city show the following results: Webster Davis (Rep), 12,283; Frank Johnson (Dem., Ind. Dem., and Labor), 327. The entire Republican ticket runs very close to Davis.

In Memory of Kossuth.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Kossuth was honored in the highest manner at the memorial exercises held in Cooper Union last night. The Hungarian band played a dirge, and suitable anthems were rendered by the combined Hungarian singing societies. Marcus Schnitzer made the opening speech in Hungarian. Parke Godwin, Senator Hoar, Chauncy Depew and others made very interesting addresses on the life of the great Hungarian hero.

Coxey's Men In Hard Luck.

PITTSBURG, April 5.—The lockups were filled Tuesday night with men who claimed to belong to the commonweal army. Twenty-eight were sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse each. Coxey is very much disappointed at the coolness displayed by the Populists here. They were to furnish hay and straw for bedding, but failed to do so, and the army spent a night shivering.

Col. Breckinridge Tells About That Marriage Certificate

By Telegraph to THE SUN.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The sensation in the Pollard-Breckinridge case today was the defendant's testimony relative to the marriage certificate of his marriage with Mrs. Wing at Rev. Dr. Paxton's house, New York.

He said: "It was I, myself, who filled out that marriage certificate at Dr. Paxton's house, and when I asked him if it was necessary for me to fill out the number of times I had been married, he said, 'no' so I wrote once in there. I had been married twice."

BOWLING NEWS.

Life Tenure of Office.

On the floor of the house yesterday sensational charges were made by a member against Chief Wade and the district police, on the bill for a life tenure of office. He quoted a large number of cases of alleged inefficiency of the police in ferreting out criminals. Before a vote could be taken the body adjourned.

A License Commission.

In the house of representatives yesterday, the liquor law committee reported a bill providing for the appointment of boards of license commissioners, on the petition of the Lowell board of trade. Senator Fitzgerald of Suffolk and Representative Donohoe of Lowell dissent from the committee's report.

How About Licenses?

Alderman Bagley is quoted as being willing to grant licenses in open session in the aldermanic chamber; Aldermen Lovejoy and S. J. Johnson say the same.

Alderman C. R. Johnson seemed to favor a secret session; Alderman Stanley wouldn't say; Alderman Dickinson thought open session impracticable and Aldermen Westall and Dunlap were not ready to take sides.

DANA SARSAPARILLA CO.,

GENTLEMEN—About a year ago I was troubled with a HEAVY DEATHLY FEELING in my stomach, everything I ate caused severe distress.

I noticed your ad. in a Bangor paper and being a native of that place, and reading of the benefit old acquaintances had received from it, I secured a bottle of at Miners' Drug Store in this city, they being the only ones that kept it in stock at that time. Strange to say that FROM THE FIRST DOSE I FELT BETTER and continued to improve and after taking two bottles I had a hearty appetite and could digest almost anything I ate. Very truly yours, WM. I. ASH.

BLAND

Endeavors to Have His Bill Passed.

HE CAUSES GREAT CONFUSION IN THE HOUSE.

Reed is Repeatedly Silenced by Speaker Crisp.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—All programs that had been mapped out for the Bland seigniorage bill when it was to be called up on the motion to pass it over the president's veto were suddenly smashed yesterday, and the vote was had upon the motion amid a scene of such inextricable confusion as has seldom been witnessed on the floor of the house of representatives.

The bill came up after the house had unseated Hilborn from the Fifth California district, and had seated English, the contestant, in his place. Mr. Bland called up the seigniorage bill, returned by the president without his approval, and moved that it pass, the objections of the executive to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mr. Tracey raised the question of consideration against it, and Mr. Bailey made the point of order that the constitution required the consideration of a bill returned with a veto, and that the question of consideration, therefore, should not be raised against it.

Mr. Sickles urged that the rules permitted that question to be raised against any measure, and as it was competent under the constitution to postpone the consideration of the veto, it was equally competent under the constitution to determine whether it should or not be considered when called up. The speaker sustained the point of order.

Mr. Bland stated on behalf of the majority of the committee on coinage, weights and measures that on Saturday at 3 o'clock he would demand the previous question.

From all quarters of the Democratic side there seemed to be a general desire to avoid the conflict of opinion on debate, and Mr. Bland's suggestion of three days' debate was met with a chorus of "Vote! vote!"

The Fun Begins.

Then followed one of the most remarkable scenes witnessed in the house in years. The Republicans were ouchered out of their chance of seeing the dissensions in the Democratic ranks redound to their advantage. Mr. Tracey said that as far as the Democrats of the minority of the committee on coinage, weights and measures were concerned, they were willing to take a vote immediately. Mr. Tracey went on to say, however, that he had not conferred with the Republicans of the committee, and suggested that he would like to have the opinion of C. W. Stone of Pennsylvania, who made the minority report against the bill.

"Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Reed, "my colleague, Mr. Dingley, was ready to address the house upon this question before the rollcall began."

"The gentleman, Mr. Dingley, made no such statement until after the first name on the rollcall had been called."

"The reason he did not," said Mr. Reed, "was because the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) was entitled to the floor, and I submit to the speaker and to the house that this is notable because my colleague was ready to address the chair, and if he did not do so, it was because in the confusion the first name on the roll was called before an opportunity was afforded to the house to know what the situation was."

"Regular order," shouted the Democrats.

"The discussion that was going on," continued Mr. Reed, "was in reference to an arrangement for time for debate, and before anybody had an opportunity to understand what the situation was the first name was called on."

The Speaker's Statement.

"The house understands the circumstances," replied the speaker. "The gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) was recognized, whereupon some suggestion was made to an agreement between that gentleman and the gentleman from New York (Mr. Tracey), who called upon the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Stone). There was a general call throughout the house of 'Vote, vote,' whereupon, the agreement failing, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) stated that he was willing to have the vote taken now, and no gentleman rose to address the chair."

A dozen men on the Republican side protested, but the speaker disregarded them and continued: "The chair stated the question, and stated that under the constitution the yeas and nays must be entered on the journal. Still no gentleman arose to address the chair. The chair then directed the clerk to call the roll, and the first name was called, and then for the first time the chair had an intimation that the gentleman from Maine (Mr. Dingley) desired to address the house."

The explanation of the speaker was not satisfactory. The Republicans, led by Mr. Reed, were appealing for recognition, amid shouts of "Regular order" from the Democratic side.

The excitement was intense.

"I want the speaker to understand this matter," said Mr. Reed, finally.

"The speaker does understand it," retorted the speaker, "and the speaker directs the clerk to resume the call of the roll."

"I think the speaker has not heard my colleague's statement," persisted Mr. Reed.

"The gentleman will take his seat," returned the speaker, finally.

"Certainly, I will," replied Mr. Reed, but he still remained standing.

"The gentleman will take his seat," continued the speaker, "and the clerk will call the roll."

Reed Is Defiant.

Mr. Reed sat down, but immediately jumped to his feet again. He would not surrender without one more protest.

"Mr. Speaker," he said defiantly, "I ask to be heard."

"The chair declines to hear the gentleman. The clerk will call the roll."

"Will the speaker hear a word?"

"The chair will not."

"My colleague states——"

"The chair will not hear the gentleman. The clerk will call the roll."

The uproar was terrific at this point. Mr. Burrows attempted to address the chair, while Mr. Wilson of Washington cried "Tyranny! tyranny!" but the speaker would not listen, and ordered the clerk to proceed with the rollcall. Once or twice afterwards Mr. Burrows and Mr. Reed attempted to break in, but the speaker declared emphatically that he would not hear them; that the rollcall could not be interrupted for any purpose. The Republicans were beside themselves with anger.

They refused to vote on the first rollcall. The anti-silver Democrats were in despair, as the first rollcall gave the silver men the necessary two-thirds.

Finally, after a consultation, they agreed to vote, and did vote on the second rollcall. This turned the tide, and upon the announcement of the vote it was found that the motion to pass the bill over the veto had been defeated, the silver men lacking 74, the necessary two-thirds. The house then adjourned.

In the Senate.

The senate passed, after a warm controversy, the senate bill for the suppression of gambling in the District of Columbia with an amendment prohibiting pool selling on horse races. The senate also considered briefly a resolution for the repeal of all laws which give the secretary of the treasury authority to issue bonds, and Senator Peffer spoke in support of it.

The tariff bill was then laid before the senate, and Mr. Allison concluded his speech in opposition. His remarks were directed in particular against the substitution of the ad valorem for the specific system and against the tax on sugar. He also opposed the increase on distilled liquor and the tax on incomes, while at the same time he delivered a strong attack against the policy of "following in the footsteps of England, and of opening our markets to that country, thus giving her the gold with which to wage her battle against the world and bimetallism."

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Mills took the floor in defense of the ad valorem system of taxation, and confessed that the bill did not meet with his entire approval, but it was always necessary to compromise in legislation.

ANOTHER BOMB

Startles Parisians In the Vicinity of the Senate Chamber.

PARIS, April 5.—Another bomb explosion occurred here last evening, near the senate chamber. The explosion occurred at 9:25 o'clock p. m., and has caused renewed consternation in official circles. The bomb, it appears, was placed in a flower box on the window sill of the Restaurant Foyot, opposite the senate chamber.

The bomb exploded with a tremendous report, and shattered all the windows of the restaurant, besides breaking the windows in a number of other buildings. M. Taillaide, an artist, and a lady friend were injured by the explosion, which caused an enormous crowd of people to assemble about the restaurant.

It seems that the bomb-thrower had been seen by a person passing the Restaurant Foyot, and the latter had been able to obtain a good description of the criminal. So promply did the police work, that but a comparatively short time elapsed before the alleged anarchist was in custody.

ANTE-MORTEM STATEMENT

Concerning the Kansas City's Riot Over Politics and Religion.

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—The three men reported as fatally wounded in the A. P. A. Catholic election riot are still alive, but no hopes of their recovery are entertained. Deputy Constable Pate said he believed that Mike Callahan, the only one that was killed outright, is the man that shot him. Pate is one of those mortally wounded.

Harry Fowler will also die. He said: "I saw a man unknown to me attempt to shoot Callahan. I dashed out to grab the man and save Callahan, and somebody shot me in the back."

The eight men under arrest are all deputy constables, appointed to arrest the Priors for an alleged assault. Only one of the Priors has been arrested in connection with the riot, and the others were far from the scene where it occurred.

Returns on the vote for mayor in this city show the following results: Webster Davis (Rep.), 12,283; Frank Johnson (Dem., Ind. Dem., and Labor), 827. The entire Republican ticket runs very close to Davis.

In Memory of Kossuth.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Kossuth was honored in the highest manner at the memorial exercises held in Cooper Union last night. The Hungarian band played a dirge, and suitable anthems were rendered by the combined Hungarian singing societies. Marcus Schnitzer made the opening speech in Hungarian. Parke Godwin, Senator Hoar, Chauncy Depew and others made very interesting addresses on the life of the great Hungarian hero.

Coxey's Men In Hard Luck.

PITTSBURG, April 5.—The lockups were filled Tuesday night with men who claimed to belong to the commonweal army. Twenty-eight were sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse each. Coxey is very much disappointed at the coolness displayed by the Populists here. They were to furnish hay and straw for bedding, but failed to do so, and the army spent a night shivering.

By Telegraph to THE SUN.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The sensation in the Pollard-Breckinridge case today was the defendant's testimony relative to the marriage certificate of his marriage with Mrs. Wing at Rev. Dr. Paxton's house, New York.

He said: "It was I, myself, who filled out that marriage certificate at Dr. Paxton's house, and when I asked him if it was necessary for me to fill out the number of times I had been married, he said, 'no' so I wrote once in there. I had been married twice."

Life Tenure of Office.

On the floor of the house yesterday sensational charges were made by a member against Chief Wade and the district police, on the bill for a life tenure of office. He quoted a large number of cases of alleged inefficiency of the police in ferreting out criminals. Before a vote could be taken the body adjourned.

A License Commission.

In the house of representatives yesterday, the liquor law committee reported a bill providing for the appointment of boards of license commissioners, on the petition of the Lowell board of trade. Senator Fitzgerald of Suffolk and Representative Donohoe of Lowell dissent from the committee's report.

How About Licenses?

Alderman Bagley is quoted as being willing to grant licenses in open session in the aldermanic chamber; Aldermen Lovejoy and S. J. Johnson say the same.

Alderman C. R. Johnson seemed to favor a secret session; Alderman Stanley wouldn't say; Alderman Dickinson thought open session impracticable and Aldermen Westall and Dunlap were not ready to take sides.

Owing to the ball of M Company last evening C Company postponed its regular drill to Friday evening. There will be a short drill, after which the members of the company will be entertained by a phonograph exhibition.

The License Commissioners.

It is stated that the new liquor license commission bill provided that the members shall be appointed by the governor, subject to confirmation by the executive council. Sec. Smith of the Lowell board of trade, who prepared a bill for a liquor license commission, and advocated it before the legislative committee, favored the appointment of the first committee by the governor and desires the subsequent appointment to be made by the mayor of the city.

Grand Officers were There.

Was the Verdict of a Big Gathering in Huntington Hall.

The old time promenade and concert of Post 42 Military band, at Huntington hall, last evening were a success in every respect. The attendance was large and the concert given by the band was really excellent. After the concert, dancing commenced, the order consisting of 16 numbers. The American orchestra furnished music for the dancing. The grand march was led by Mr. J. H. Murphy and lady. About 300 couples participated in the general dancing, and there was no end to the enjoyment of the party. P. McEvoy was general manager, J. Heaps, floor director, and there was an efficient corps of aids and a reception committee.

OUT OF DEBT.

Magnificent Showing of the First Baptist Society For Last Year.

The First Baptist society is out of debt. Even better than this there are $82 in the treasury to start the new church year.

This excellent showing was reported at the annual meeting last night. From the treasurer's report it was shown that the pew rentals amounted to $3302, evening collections $259, subscriptions for repairs $1450, and with other sums made the total $6000. Independent of this the church raised and expended $4000 for charitable and missionary work.

The following officers were elected: Temporary clerk, Warren L. Floyd; permanent clerk, Henry L. Tibbetts; music committee, F. J. Flemings, G. H. Taylor, L. T. Trull; auditors, C. H. Clogston, E. W. Trull.

Among the appropriations voted were $2500 for the pastor's salary and $1000 for music.

THE WELCH GUARDS.

Annual Ball at the Armory a Big Military Success.

It was the sixth anniversary which the Welch Guards, or Co. M, Ninth Regiment, as it is known in military circles, observed at the state armory on Westford street, last evening.

Judging from what was said of the affair by those priviledged to be present, it was fully up to the standard of previous events of a similar nature. The decorations were in excellent taste, the music by the American orchestra of the best, and the attendance very large.

During the evening the company gave an exhibition drill, and later Lieut. McNulty drilled a squad of men in competition for a company medal. The judges were Capt. Carr of G company, Sixth regiment, Capt. Kimball of the Cadets and Lieut. Greig of C company. Sergt. Royal was the winner and in an appropriate speech Mayor Pickman presented the medal.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

THE UNEMPLOYED ARE ACCORDED LEAVE TO WITHDRAW.

Amendment of the Bill to Give District Police Life Tenure of Office—Deposits of Cities and Towns.

BOSTON, April 5.—The senate, after considerable debate, refused to reconsider the engrossment of the bill to divide the town of Longmeadow.

Mrs. G. M. Adams and others presented a remonstrance against the passage of the bill according to women the right of municipal suffrage.

The special committee on the unemployed presented several reports disposing of all matters referred to it for consideration. On the several measures relating to the establishment of state farms and factories and kindred propositions, leave to withdraw is reported. On so much of the governor's address as pertains to the subject, "no further legislation is necessary," is reported.

The house had its first forenoon session just a week earlier than last year, and discussion was resumed on the senate bill making the term of office of the district police to continue through life, the question being upon the amendment of Mr. Roberts making the bill apply only to members of that force hereafter appointed.

Mr. Gauss moved an amendment making the act take effect Jan. 1, 1895. The debate was lengthy and quite warm at times. Finally Mr. Gauss' amendment was lost, as was also that of Mr. Roberts. On the matter of ordering the bill to a third reading the vote was—yes, 72, no, 83; on a viva voce vote. Mr. Miller called the yeas and nays, which resulted—yes, 86; no, 88. Mr. Miller gave notice of intention to ask for a reconsideration.

The committee on cities closed up its business in executive session. It has reported in 109 matters, and during the session no hearing was missed for want of a quorum. Senator Sanger said that his committee had in no way disappointed him, but had worked hard to finish its business on time.

The committee reported recommending reference to the next general court on the bill introduced on leave by Mr. Cook relating to "greater Boston."

Ought not to pass was reported on the bill to regulate deposits by cities and towns in banks and trust companies.

Leave to withdraw on the petition of the mayor of Haverhill for an amendment of the city charter relative to the referendum and initiative; also reference to the next general court on the petition that cities may enact legislation by direct vote; no legislation necessary on so much of the governor's address as relates to the referendum.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED

And a Mother and Child Were Fatally Wounded by an Explosion.

OIL CITY, April 5.—A terrific explosion occurred last evening, by which four persons were instantly killed and two were fatally injured. The dead are: Joseph Kaullis, aged 50; Mary Kaullis, 6; Joseph Kaullis, 4; Mary Tasmer, 7. Mrs. Kaullis and her baby, 6 months old, are dying at the hospital.

The cause of the explosion is a mystery. When it occurred Kaullis was on the back porch of his residence and the children were playing in the yard. His youngest child and wife were inside. There was no gas burned in the house either for fuel or lighting.

The bodies of all were terribly mangled, and the entire rear portion of the house was blown into kindling wood. The only plausible theory advanced for the disaster is that Kaullis found a glycerine can and had brought it home with him, and it was accidently exploded. Kaullis was a German laborer, thrifty and industrious, and highly respected.

MANY ISSUES

Discussed In the National Convention of Mule Spinners.

BOSTON, April 5.—The regular semi-annual convention of the National Cotton Mule Spinners was ended yesterday afternoon, and adjourned to meet in Boston next October.

The business of yesterday began with a continuance of the district reports and complaints in regard to the wage reduction. In Fall River there will probably be a strike of the mule spinners unless the mill owners maintain the present rate of wages. If the manufacturers try to enforce a cut the men will strike to the number of 2500 persons, as the reduction is universal among the mills in the city.

The convention voted to stand by the Fall River spinners in their fight, and should they strike the fund of the National union, amounting to about $100,000, will be turned over to them, in addition to several thousand dollars more which will be raised by assessing each member in the association.

The Holyoke spinners also complain of a 20 per cent cutdown, as do the spinners of Lewiston, Me., and should they strike they have the endorsement and support of the convention.

The spinners of Tofville, Conn., are also having trouble, and requested that the convention send a delegate there to investigate it and advise what steps should be taken.

The political platform which was proposed by President Gompers and accepted by the American Federation of Labor at the Chicago convention was submitted to every branch of the organization for consideration, and adopted.

The convention voted itself in hearty sympathy with Coxey and his movement.

An Aerated Beverage.

The pumps at the driven wells are stopped today and a separator is being put in to remove the air before the water gets to the pumps. The separator consists of a large tank like receptacle, which is air tight and divided into two parts.

The water from the wells enters through a 24 inch pipe, rises and falls over a dam in the center to the other side, whence it continues its way to the pumps through a 24-inch outlet pipe. The water flows over the dam in a thin sheet and the air in it is released, and is pumped out by an air pump.

This is the first time the pumps have been stopped, since Sept. 16, when they were first started.

DEFENSE CLOSES TODAY.

Disgust of Judge Bradley Plainly Expressed to Courtroom Visitors.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The inquisition suffered by Representative Breckinridge at the hands of Judge Wilson regarding the testimony of Mrs. Governor Blackburn would be the talk of the city but for some remarks from Judge Bradley, which enlivened the close of the day's proceedings, and have obscured all other passing features of the trial in their interest.

For days past crowds of people have thronged the courthouse corridors, the sidewalks, even the street in front of the offices of the attorneys in the case at the hours of adjournment, waiting for the principals to appear.

Judge Bradley has, meantime, been smothering a growing feeling of disgust. Last night his emotions passed the safety guage, and gave some of the people such a pointed tongue-lashing as has rarely been heard in a courtroom.

After holding the courtroom spectators in check until the principals in the trial got away, he held the usual attempted rush at bay until he had told them that their conduct was characterized by indecency that reminded him of buzzards around carrion, and other things not pleasant to hear, and then adjourned the court.

The defense will close their case today. The plaintiff has several witnesses in town for rebuttal. Besides these people, Mr. Wilson has laid the foundation of the appearance of several witnesses to impeach Breckinridge.

REPUBLICANS GOT ALL.

Rhode Island Democrats Find Themselves Completely Routed.

PROVIDENCE, April 5.—Practically complete returns show that Brown (Rep.) for governor will be elected by fully 4500 plurality. It has been a Republican landslide and the Democratic rout is complete.

The entire Republican state ticket is elected and the legislature is overwhelmingly Republican. Last year the Democrats controlled the house, having 40 representatives; this year they will have but four. The former Democratic cities of Providence, Newport, Pawtucket and Woonsocket have gone Republican.

The vote as far as received is: Brown, 26,362; Baker, 20,761. The prohibitory vote was much less than last year. The complexion of the legislature ensures the election of ex-Governor George Peabody Wetmore to succeed Senator Dixon in the United States senate.

The girls are both daughters of respectable families and are about 16 years old. The case has caused great excitement here, and further disclosures are looked for. Charlie Ying, Sam Sing and Chin Hi are the accused.

Grand Reporter E. Granville Pratt of Quincy and Grand Assistant Dictator F. M. Hersey, of Boston were present at the entertainment given at Union hall last evening by Excelsior lodge, Knights of Honor. Refreshments were served during the early part of the evening and then followed the entertainment which included songs by Huxley's quintet, reading by Miss Gertrude Tryder, solos by Charles Chitty, Mrs. Minnie Clifford, Jennie Burns, Miss Hattie Pressey and J. S. Marlon. The accompanists were Miss Annie Woodside, Miss. Annie Welch and William Fowler.

GRAND OLD TIME

Was the Verdict of a Big Gathering in Huntington Hall.

The old time promenade and concert of Post 42 Military band, at Huntington hall, last evening were a success in every respect. The attendance was large and the concert given by the band was really excellent. After the concert, dancing commenced, the order consisting of 16 numbers. The American orchestra furnished music for the dancing. The grand march was led by Mr. J. H. Murphy and lady. About 300 couples participated in the general dancing, and there was no end to the enjoyment of the party. P. McEvoy was general manager, J. Heaps, floor director, and there was an efficient corps of aids and a reception committee.

OUT OF DEBT.

Magnificent Showing of the First Baptist Society For Last Year.

The First Baptist society is out of debt. Even better than this there are $82 in the treasury to start the new church year.

This excellent showing was reported at the annual meeting last night. From the treasurer's report it was shown that the pew rentals amounted to $3302, evening collections $259, subscriptions for repairs $1450, and with other sums made the total $6000. Independent of this the church raised and expended $4000 for charitable and missionary work.

A rising vote of thanks was extended the assessors, Henry C. Fuller, L. T. Trull and F. J. Flemings.

The following officers were elected: Temporary clerk, Warren L. Floyd; permanent clerk, Henry L. Tibbetts; music committee, F. J. Flemings, G. H. Taylor, L. T. Trull; auditors, C. H. Clogston, E. W. Trull.

Among the appropriations voted were $2500 for the pastor's salary and $1000 for music.

THE WELCH GUARDS.

Annual Ball at the Armory a Big Military Success.

It was the sixth anniversary which the Welch Guards, or Co. M, Ninth Regiment, as it is known in military circles, observed at the state armory on Westford street, last evening.

Judging from what was said of the affair by those priviledged to be present, it was fully up to the standard of previous events of a similar nature. The decorations were in excellent taste, the music by the American orchestra of the best, and the attendance very large.

During the evening the company gave an exhibition drill, and later Lieut. McNulty drilled a squad of men in competition for a company medal. The judges were Capt. Carr of G company, Sixth regiment, Capt. Kimball of the Cadets and Lieut. Greig of C company. Sergt. Royal was the winner and in an appropriate speech Mayor Pickman presented the medal.

At 10 o'clock general dancing began opening with a grand march. At midnight supper was served at the St. Charles hotel. The reception committee was headed by Hon. C. D. Palmer.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

THE UNEMPLOYED ARE ACCORDED LEAVE TO WITHDRAW.

Amendment of the Bill to Give District Police Life Tenure of Office—Deposits of Cities and Towns.

BOSTON, April 5.—The senate, after considerable debate, refused to reconsider the engrossment of the bill to divide the town of Longmeadow.

Mrs. C. M. Adams and others presented a remonstrance against the passage of the bill according to women the right of municipal suffrage.

The special committee on the unemployed presented several reports disposing of all matters referred to it for consideration. On the several measures relating to the establishment of state farms and factories and kindred propositions, leave to withdraw is reported. On so much of the governor's address as pertains to the subject, "no further legislation is necessary," is reported.

The house had its first forenoon session just a week earlier than last year, and discussion was resumed on the senate bill making the term of office of the district police to continue through life, the question being upon the amendment of Mr. Roberts making the bill apply only to members of that force hereafter appointed.

Mr. Gauss moved an amendment making the act take effect Jan. 1, 1895. The debate was lengthy and quite warm at times. Finally Mr. Gauss' amendment was lost, as was also that of Mr. Roberts. On the matter of ordering the bill to a third reading the vote was—yes, 72; no, 68; on a viva voce vote. Mr. Miller called the yeas and nays, which resulted—yea, 90; no, 82. Mr. Miller gave notice of intention to ask for a reconsideration.

The committee on cities closed up its business in executive session. It has reported in 100 matters, and during the session no hearing was missed for want of a quorum. Senator Songer said that his committee had in no way disappointed him, but had worked hard to finish its business on time.

The committee reported recommending reference to the next general court on the bill introduced on leave by Mr. Cook relating to "greater Boston."

Ought not to pass was reported on the bill to regulate deposits by cities and towns in banks and trust companies.

Leave to withdraw on the petition of the mayor of Haverhill for an amendment of the city charter relative to the referendum and initiative; also reference to the next general court on the petition that cities may enact legislation by direct vote; no legislation necessary on so much of the governor's address as relates to the referendum.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED

And a Mother and Child Were Fatally Wounded by an Explosion.

OIL CITY, April 5.—A terrific explosion occurred last evening, by which four persons were instantly killed and two were fatally injured. The dead are: Joseph Kaullis, aged 50; Mary Kaullis, 6; Joseph Kaullis, 4; Mary Tasmer, 7. Mrs. Kaullis and her baby, 6 months old, are dying at the hospital.

The cause of the explosion is a mystery. When it occurred Kaullis was on the back porch of his residence and the children were playing in the yard. His youngest child and wife were inside. There was no gas burned in the house either for fuel or lighting.

The bodies of all were terribly mangled, and the entire rear portion of the house was blown into kindling wood. The only plausible theory advanced for the disaster is that Kaullis found a glycerine can and had brought it home with him, and it was accidently exploded. Kaullis was a German laborer, thrifty and industrious, and highly respected.

MANY ISSUES

Discussed in the National Convention of Mule Spinners.

BOSTON, April 5.—The regular semi-annual convention of the National Cotton Mule Spinners was ended yesterday afternoon, and adjourned to meet in Boston next October.

The business of yesterday began with a continuance of the district reports and complaints in regard to the wage reduction. In Fall River there will probably be a strike of the mule spinners unless the mill owners maintain the present rate of wages. If the manufacturers try to enforce a cut the men will strike to the number of 2500 persons, as the reduction is universal among the mills in the city.

The convention voted to stand by the Fall River spinners in their fight, and should they strike the fund of the National union, amounting to about $100,000, will be turned over to them, in addition to several thousand dollars more which will be raised by assessing each member in the association.

The Holyoke spinners also complain of a 20 per cent cutdown, as do the spinners of Lewiston, Me., and should they strike they have the endorsement and support of the convention.

The spinners of Tolville, Conn., are also having trouble, and requested that the convention send a delegate there to investigate it and advise what steps should be taken.

The political platform which was proposed by President Gompers and accepted by the American Federation of Labor at the Chicago convention was submitted to every branch of the organization for consideration, and adopted.

The convention voted itself in hearty sympathy with Coxey and his movement.

An Aerated Beverage.

The pumps at the driven wells are stopped today and a separator is being put in to remove the air before the water gets to the pumps. The separator consists of a large tank like receptacle, which is air tight and divided into two parts.

The water from the wells enters through a 24-inch pipe, rises and falls over a dam in the center to the other side, whence it continues its way to the pumps through a 24-inch outlet pipe. The water flows over the dam in a thin sheet and the air in it is released, and is pumped out by an air pump.

This is the first time the pumps have been stopped, since Sept. 10, when they were first started.

DEFENSE CLOSES TODAY.

Disgust of Judge Bradley Plainly Expressed to Courtroom Visitors.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The inquisition suffered by Representative Breckinridge at the hands of Judge Wilson regarding the testimony of Mrs. Governor Blackburn would be the talk of the city but for some remarks from Judge Bradley, which enlivened the close of the day's proceedings, and have obscured all other passing features of the trial in their interest.

For days past crowds of people have thronged the courthouse corridors, the sidewalks, even the street in front of the offices of the attorneys in the case at the hours of adjournment, waiting for the principals to appear.

Judge Bradley has, meantime, been smothering a growing feeling of disgust. Last night his emotions passed the safety guage, and gave some of the people such a pointed tongue-lashing as has rarely been heard in a courtroom.

After holding the courtroom spectators in check until the principals in the trial got away, he held the usual attempted rush at bay until he had told them that their conduct was characterized by indecency that reminded him of buzzards around carrion, and other things not pleasant to hear, and then adjourned the court.

The defense will close their case today. The plaintiff has several witnesses in town for rebuttal. Besides these people, Mr. Wilson has laid the foundation of the appearance of several witnesses to impeach Breckinridge.

REPUBLICANS GOT ALL.

Rhode Island Democrats Find Themselves Completely Routed.

PROVIDENCE, April 5.—Practically complete returns show that Brown (Rep.) for governor will be elected by fully 4500 plurality. It has been a Republican landslide and the Democratic rout is complete.

The entire Republican state ticket is elected and the legislature is overwhelmingly Republican. Last year the Democrats controlled the house, having 40 representatives; this year they will have but four. The former Democratic cities of Providence, Newport, Pawtucket and Woonsocket have gone Republican.

The vote as far as received is: Brown, 20,362; Baker, 20,761. The prohibitory vote was much less than last year. The complexion of the legislature ensures the election of ex-Governor George Peabody Wetmore to succeed Senator Dixon in the United States senate.

Not daring to tell their parents, and lured by the Chinamen's promises, the girls continued to visit the laundry at frequent intervals.

The girls are both daughters of respectable families and are about 16 years old. The case has caused great excitement here, and further disclosures are looked for. Charlie Ying, Sam Sing and Chin Hi are the accused.

JOYCE'S ALLEGED STEAL.

HE WAS ON TRIAL FOR BETRAYAL OF A TRUST.

Served as an Officer in Court Wamesit of Foresters and is Charged With Embezzling $250 of the Court's Fund.

John Joyce charged with embezzlement from the Foresters, Court Wamesit, was called for trial this morning.

W. A. Hogan, Esq., appeared for the court, and D. J. Donahue for the defendant.

It is alleged that Joyce, who was treasurer of the court, appropriated $250 of the court's money to his own use.

The first witness put on was Mr. Thomas McDermott, recording secretary. He read the records of a meeting in 1891 when Joyce was elected treasurer.

Witness was cross-examined concerning the existence of a charter, and the witness admitted that the treasurership was an office which required a bond. He didn't know whether or not Joyce ever filed a bond.

John E. Maguire testified that he was a member of Court Wamesit, and that the court was a voluntary organization which had a dispensation from the grand court to do business as a court of Foresters. This dispensation is commonly called a charter. Witness did not think there was a charter from the state legislature. In 1892 witness was made an auditor and he with others examined the accounts of the defendant. On cross examination Mr. Maguire presented reports, one showing that $250 had been embezzled.

Two other witnesses were examined, one of them being Michael Kennedy, one of the auditing committee who discovered the shortage in Joyce's accounts. No defence was put in and Joyce was held in $500 for the grand jury.

Pronounced Dead She is Now Feeling Nicely.

A young woman named Ivora Farland of New York, came very near meeting with a horrible fate yesterday afternoon.

About 3.30 o'clock she was discovered on the stairs in the Mechanics bank building, in an unconscious state, and more than this, apparently dead.

The person who discovered her notified the passersby and immediately a crowd gathered, and the ambulance which was passing along Merrimack street was called.

Dr. Packer, who has an office in the same building, was informed that a dying woman was lying in the hall. He hastened down stairs and was forcing his way through the crowd when Dr. Ricker arrived and he retired.

The woman, who at the time was unknown to the crowd, showed no signs of life whatever, and was apparently dead.

Dr. Ricker applied the usual tests and failed to find any indications of life, no heart-beat, no breath. Certain parts of her body were cold, and her eyes were sunken in her head.

She was accordingly pronounced dead, and was removed in the ambulance to Undertaker Brooks' establishment, and here was where the unfortunate woman had a narrow escape.

She was placed on a bench in a back room preparatory to removing her to the cellar.

She was lying in such a position that the light from a back window shone full upon her face, and while Mr. Brooks' assistant was getting things in readiness in the cellar, Dr. Ricker, who was gazing intently at her, noticed a very faint twitching of the eyelids, and unmistakably signs of life.

The doctor quickly decided that the woman was in a cataleptic state, and he ordered her removal to St. John's hospital.

Here she was placed on a table and watched over for 20 minutes for signs of life. The eyelids moved slightly again and a slight sigh escaped her lips, up to this time no pulse could be felt but from that time on a few faint tremblings of the pulse were noticed. She was taken upstairs and at an early hour this morning she regained consciousness, and gave her name as Ivora Farland of New York. She had been visiting in Boston and had come up here to call on a friend named Mrs. John Kelley. While walking along Merrimack street she was overtaken with a feeling of illness and went into the doorway.

This morning she was reported much better in health and when she is able to go out will be cared for by her friend.

The case is what is known to the medical profession as catalepsy, and is one which many physicians do not meet with in a lifetime. It is caused by some brain trouble, and consists of a sudden suspension of the action of the senses and of volition, these remaining in a fixed position, while the action of the heart and lungs not affected. It is very difficult to ascertain whether a person in such a case is dead or alive, and cases are on record, though very few in number, fortunately, when they have been buried while in such a state.

The malady is seldom fatal and there is no known remedy for it.

But for the one sign of life noticed while the Farland woman was in the undertaker's shop, she would have been placed in the basement surrounded by the paraphenalia of an undertaker, and upon recovering her senses there, if alone and in darkness, the result might have been death from fright.

TOO EAGER ANGLERS.

Violators of Game Laws Likely to Get Into Trouble.

Indications point to the belief that important steps will be taken this season to enforce the laws relative to fishing in the streams and ponds that will be of interest to anglers and that will greatly gratify those who desire to fish according to the requirements of the same. During the past few years, and especially within the last year, ponds and streams have been subjected to a lawless sort of fishing that has almost completely drained them of fish. Gangs of men and boys have fished for trout out of the season set by law till it is next to impossible for a fisherman to have any luck when he fishes during the season.

These lawless fishermen do not confine their method to the use of lines entirely, but use such mechanisms as the trawl, set net and drag net. These articles are not allowed, and if persons are caught using them matters are likely to take a serious turn. The fishery laws provide that any person caught in the act of using these articles, or any person against whom evidence shall be brought that shall show that fish have been caught by the use of these, may be subject to a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $50 for each and every fish so caught and taken from the waters, and their paraphernalia may be confiscated by the state.

If a man were to walk into a fish market and upon asking the price of a single fish be told it was $20, he would drop dead. Yet there are hundreds who will risk it, go out and set nets or use drag nets and trawls and subject themselves to arrest and a heavy fine, to say nothing of having all their apparatus confiscated. When the word "apparatus" is used it means everything that may be used at the time the person is caught in the act.—Fall River Herald.

SOME ATHLETIC GOSSIP.

FOUR CLUB BASE BALL LEAGUE FORMED IN TOWN.

Games to be Played on the Dracut Oval—Sub-committees on Various Sports in the L. C. A. A.—Old English Game of Bowls to be Revived—Big Increase in Membership Expected

The prospects for the coming season in the Lowell Cricket and Athletic association are very encouring even more so than n any preceding year. Tomorrow the first steps will be taken to erect a new club, or about the site of the one burned last fall, by the sub-committee on building, President Hart, Gardner W. Pearson and C. F. Coburn.

A noticeable departure from the usual style of club houses will probably be made, and while the expense of the building will not exceed the funds available it is probable that an excellent house for use of club members will be put up.

In the way of sports the season's schedule is an excellent one. The plan of a four club league—the Vespers, Highlands, Home and L. C. A. A., has been successfully laid out and a schedule of 24 games, six games for each club ratified. The ball games, with few exceptions, will be played on the Dracut oval, which is undoubtedly the finest diamond outside of the Congress street grounds in Boston. The ball games will be sandwiched in on Saturdays between cricket fixtures. By vote of the directors the members of the other teams will be permitted to use the Dracut grounds one day each week, at present, for practice, so that ample opportunity is offered for "scrub." J. P. Battles will have full charge of the base ball end, and with a new lot of material it will be a success. He will be assisted by Charles Clogston and Bert Coburn.

The oval is looking in excellent condition. Next week the groundsman will commence his duties, and by Saturday week everything will be in readiness for a game of ball or cricket or exercising on the track.

This will be a great year for cricket for the first eleven, the schedule being the finest yet arranged, including some notable games at home.

There will be a strong second eleven for many of the ball players took up cricket last season, Dr. W. A. Sherman, Charles Clogston and George Jaques developing as good players. Mr. Murdie will have charge of the department and will be assisted by Mr. Fred Fairburn and George Jaques.

The old English game of bowls will be really introduced this season and the veteran player, Mr. John Gulline, will take charge of it, the committee chairman being J. H. Comber, and the other member Edward Sherwood, who will also serve on the tennis committee. Athletics, which is one of the most important departments, will be under the care of G. W. Pearson assisted by Fisher H. Pearson and T. P. Sullivan. The big open labor meeting on Labor day will be the biggest athletic affair ever gotten up in this city. The club will probably have a couple of local meetings, if the number of club athletes will warrant it. As the directors have lowered the junior membership fee to $3 for youths under 20 years, there is likely to be a big influx of new members. Many high school cadets, especially those on the ball team will join as it gives them an opportunity to secure good ball grounds with all desirable conveniences.

In the fall it is determined to revive foot ball. Several attempts have beent made to do this, but unsuccessfully, but as new material has been added to the membership, this is assured. Of this committee and of winter bowling C. F. Coburn is the chairman and the other members are Mr. Cowan and Wm. Meiklejohn.

The club house and grounds will be under the eye of H. D. Kendall, Arthur Saunders and Alex. Hobbs.

The schedules for the season, a neat eight-page folder, containing a club directory, dates and teams of the 24 ball games and the 30 cricket games, together with particulars of club "field days" and athletic meetings are being printed and will be sent out with the notices of yearly dues next week. This year a pocket membership card will be issued in addition, good for every club affair at the gounds. The yearly membership fee of $5 is the lowest figure in the United States, and few clubs have more to offer the coming season than the L. C. A. A.

The members of the Lowell Carpet club which has disbanded may join the L. C. A. A., and if this is done more good cricketing material will be added.

Dr. W. A. Sherman will probably play with the Home club this season.

The Dracut oval will be a good place for ball games this summer. It is nearer the post office than the fair grounds, it is on a straight route from Merrimack square, and electric cars land passengers there in from eight to eleven minutes. Besides, the ride is delightful and the grand stands as comfortable as can be expected.

SEEN AND HEARD.

There will probably be another campfire at the Vesper club before the canoeing season opens.

It is now only a question of a short while before the Vesper club branches out as a winter club, using the present house as a summer club.

***

There will probably be 35 Vesper wheelmen in the big run to Old Concord and Lexington on the Nineteenth of April. These quiet towns will be fairly overrun with cyclists for hundreds from Boston will go there.

***

It is not likely that the Nineteenth of April will be ever observed as a legal holiday in this or any other manufacturing city, except through enlargement of heart of mill treasurers. The mills are only obliged to shut down on legal holidays which are mentioned in their charter. Fast day has been knocked out, but the Nineteenth of April cannot be substituted. It is yet undecided whether or not Lowell mills will close. From Christmas to Fourth of July, then to Thanksgiving day make big jumps between holidays.

The New "Black Maria."

The new black maria made for the police department by J. H. Swett of this city was put into use today. It is a strongly made wagon, weighing 1670 pounds and neatly painted. It seems rather small for this city, but it is said 10 persons will be accommodated in it. It will always be distinguished from other conveyances bearing gongs for that of the new wagon has a sound entirely different from that of the patrol wagons, the ambulance or the fire wagons.

Objects to an Untruth.

A Pawtucketville resident in reply to a communication in Tuesday's SUN relative to the reading room takes exceptions to the statements therein contained; and says that the allegation that the reading room is an adjunct to the church is an insult and an untruth. He says the reading room is supported by an association independent of the church.

POST OFFICE

Surprising Story From the Capital About It.

NOMINATION OF MR. PEARSON IS DELAYED.

Reason Assigned is the Influence of John E. Russell.

The following despatch from Washington was printed in today's Advertiser: "The Lowell post office is proving to be a very determined sort of fight. If it had not been for J. E. Russell it might have been settled by this time. But the man from Leicester is determined that young Gardner Pearson shall not be postmaster there as long as he holds Mr. Cleveland's ear as he does now. Postmaster-General Bissell wants to appoint Pearson. At his request Pearson came to Washington and made Mr. Bissell a call, and the postmaster-general was very favorably impressed by him. But when Bissell takes the matter to Mr. Cleveland he is informed by the president that his friend Mr Russell does not want Pearson appointed, and the matter is laid aside.

"Pearson's friends here claim that Mr. Quincy arranged things himself by which arrangement Pearson would be just the man for the place, and that he has now gone back on that arrangement. This plan was to recognize the three elements in the democracy of Lowell, the French, Irish and American. The first two sections of this programme was carried out perfectly. The French element was recognized by the appointment of Lenthier to a consulship, who, although the senate has refused to confirm him, is still serving the government in Canada. The Irish element was given a place when the superintendent of the public building was chosen, and the American part of the democracy was to have the post office.

"But then came another arrangement with J. B. Carroll of Springfield, by which he was to be pacified for not getting the place upon the bench which he wished by having his father-in-law, Michael Corbett of Lowell, made postmaster in the city of Gov. Greenhalge. Cong. Stevens will recommend nobody but Mr. Pearson, and J. E. Russell insists that Pearson be kept from the postmastership in memory of that torchlight procession and that memorable democratic meeting there. And all this time Mr. Quincy is working for Corbett, whom Mr. Stevens will not endorse. And while all this struggle is going on Postmaster Burbank is handling the Lowell mail.

"The end of the fight may be that Postmaster Burbank will continue his handling of the Lowell mail, even though he is a republican. Postmaster-General Wanamaker stated several times that he considered Burbank the best postmaster in the United States, and he used to describe the management of the Lowell office to other postmasters as a model for them to imitate. It has been very strongly intimated that the people of Lowell, democrats as well as republicans, would like to have Burbank kept in office. Cong. Stevens thinks well of Burbank, and might be willing to have the fight ended by his retention. This would be an amicable way to end the fight and about the only way that appears. At any rate the question of re-appointing Burbank is being very seriously discussed both at the post office department and the White House."

POLICE COURT.

Hadley, J.

Three drunks.

Isadore Dube, a young boy, was charged with larceny from his brother. The case was continued until tomorrow, as was the case of Midas Laferrire for alleged assault and battery on Minnie Tarsey.

Simon B. Harris has recovered from the effects of the Garvey trial and is on deck again, complaining of John Lamountain of North Chelmsford for alleged illegally keeping liquor. The case will be heard on April 12.

The continued case of Thomas F. Clark for assault and battery upon Sarah Parsons was tried this morning. Clark formerly sold household articles on the instalment plan. He sold some curtains and other articles to the complainant, and on calling there on one occasion some trouble arose over the payments, and the result was, the defendant, it was alleged started to take out the curtains. Mrs. Parsons tried to stop him and she alleged he struck and kicked her.

SEASON OPENS APRIL 28.

New England Baseball Men Consider Matters of Interest.

BOSTON, April 5.—The schedule meeting of the New England league was held at the Quincy House yesterday. Three clubs, Portland, Fall River and Brockton, were represented when the meeting was called to order.

The Pawtucket, Haverhill and Bangor clubs were admitted to membership.

The Worcester club protested against the way they were treated. This club wanted a six-club league, composed of Lewiston, Portland, Fall River, Brockton, Haverhill and Worcester. They claim that the franchises were given to Pawtucket and Bangor simply to give jobs to Leonard and Bacon.

During all the discussion, which was pretty warm, the Lewiston representative, McDonough, was absent. The club was admitted to the league.

The Reach ball was adopted, and the naming of the umpire staff left with the president.

The schedule consists of 113 games, each club playing eight games with every club, 56 at home and 56 away. The season opens April 26 and ends Sept. 7.

Shinnick, the well known second baseman is at Exeter, N. H.

Frank Thyne intends to form a strong club in this city, which will include McCarthy of Lowell, pitcher; Cull, second base; McGuane, third base; Charlie Farrell, short stop and captain; Booth, Courtney and Sweeney in the field. This club will play in Burlington, April 26, 27 and 28, and Manager Thyne is arranging other dates. He would like to hear from New Hampshire and Vermont clubs for games the latter part of April and first part of May. The Lowells will open the season at Nashua or Manchester on April 11 the Fast day in that state.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

Cleverly Presented in a Belvidere Residence by Society People.

The private theatricals given in high society at the elegant residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cumnock, on Belmont street, in aid of the Humane society, last night, were the sensation of the hour so to speak.

The audience of course was a very select one, and was entertained in elaborate style by the host and hostess assisted by a bevy of charming young ladies. The first play was a clever sketch from Post's Harvard stories entitled "Complications in Burleigh's room." To appreciate the complications the book should be read, but it may be said that the actors were exceptionally clever. The cast was as follows:

Ned Burleigh	Harvard Students	Mr. Edward Trull
Jack Randolph		Mr. G. W. Pearson
Steve Hudson		Mr. F. A Whiting
Shreedy, prize fighter		Mr. Leroy H. Talbot
Mrs. Hudson, Steve's mother		Miss Bowles
Miss Hudson, Steve's sister		Miss Robinson

Mr. Pearson's part of Jack Randolph was excruciatingly funny, and he made the most of it.

The second piece, of more serious composition, was entitled "My Lord in Livery." The cast was:

Spiggott, the old family Butler, Mr James Bayles
Hopkins, the footman...Mr. Frederick C Church
Robert, the page.....Master Robert Faulkner
Sybil Amberly, daughter of Sir George Amberly..... Miss Talbot
Rose, Laura, friends } Her ... Mrs. Victor J. Cumnock; Miss Grace E. Cumnock

The acting of Mr. Bayles and Mr. Church was exceptionally worthy of note.

After the performance frappe and ices were served in the parlor and coffee poured by Miss Henrietta Hastings, Miss Hildreth Nesmith, Miss Blanche Ames and Miss Bessie Ludlam. The ushers were: Gordon Tweed, Charles Ayer, Joe Francis and A. S. Whiting.

PERSONAL.

Daniel Flaherty of this city, returned to Hotchkiss school in Lakeville, Conn., last Tuesday, where he will resume his studies.

Miss Grace Varnum of Abbot academy, is visiting her uncle, Daniel H. Varnum, of Bridge street.

Miss Maude Nickles of Pawtucketville has returned from a seven months' visit to Chicago and the west.

Mrs. Albert E. Fisher, Miss Nellie Morrison and Miss Edith L. Ebert have returned from a visit to Keene, N. H.

Miss Susie Emmott, of Concord, Mass, is the guest of Miss Myers of the city library.

Mr. Phil Emmott of Concord, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. Othello Greenwood of Hale street.

THE ANNIVERSARY DAY.

It Will Be Observed in Most Appropriate Manner Tomorrow.

Time passes quickly and surely; men make and lose fortunes in a day; reputations are not made on a single turn of Fortune's wheel, or distributed by lavish hand, to all who seek them.

Time is an element of prime importance in the business world to establish a position for a firm or individual, a position which shall be as a rock towering above the flood in a mighty river, immovable, impressive and a symbol of strength. In the business world the tide of progress sweeps on with time itself. In fourteen years hundreds of thousands of individuals and firms have come into existence and gone under. The survival of the fittest becomes the true state of things. Surely 14 years of successful experience is a record for the firm of O'Donnell & Gilbride of which they may be proud. The anniversary will be fittingly observed at the immense establishment tomorrow by two grand concerts by the American orchestra. The event will be otherwise observed for the firm will cut the price of every article in the store. If you need anything, do your shopping tomorrow; if you do not want to buy come and listen to the concert. The store will be in gala attire. All Lowell should congratulate the firm on its success. Looking backward we see the first store of Messrs. O'Donnell & Gilbride, a small one in the Albion block. From a small business it has steadily grown until today it is the largest establishment in the city.

FUNERAL SERVICES.

The funeral of John P. Maguinness took place at 11 o'clock this morning from his parents' home on Bridge street. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mary A. Robinson took place this forenoon at 10 o'clock from her home in Phoenix and was largely attended.

The funeral of Eliza Sawyer occurred yesterday afternoon from the residence of her sister, Mrs. Charles Belden, 8 Mt. Vernon street. Rev. R. A. Greene officiated. The interment was in the Edson cemetery and the bearers were Messrs. George F. Morey, A. F. Pierce, O. H. Dodge and J. A. Herrick. Appropriate music was rendered by Miss Hathaway.

OUR THEATRES.

MUSIC HALL.—"The Old Cronies" were out on the street for an airing yesterday and in a natty beach cart drove around town. Have you seen their show at Music hall this week? It is very funny and an evening spent watching the show will not be time thrown away.

OPERA HOUSE.—Another big and enthusiastic audience saw "Hands Across the Sea," last night.

Tonight the melo-drama "Siberia" opens for a three days run. If the good words spoken by our exchanges are an indication this piece of Bartley Campbell's is well worth seeing. It is staged superbly and the company is one which caught Boston's favor and held it for a long run.

On Monday evening charming Marion Manola, and her husband, John Mason, will be seen in their music comedy "Queen of Hearts," recently brought out in Boston.

Thatcher's extravaganza "Africa" on Wednesday evening.

Off for the Old Country.

The following Lowell residents booked through Murphy's steamship agency are among the passengers to leave Boston Saturday on the Cunard line steamer Pavonia for the old country: Mr. and Mrs. Clegg, Mrs. Phoebe Newsholme, Mrs. Jane Moore, Mrs. Mary Devine, Miss Elizabeth Davis, Maria Jackson, Rose Cassidy, Rosa A. Owen, Mary Collins, Mary A. Flynn, Emma Harrison, Lizzie Harrison, Edward Fielding, Timothy Moore, John Morton and James Scullion.

Fine Entertainment Tonight.

An excellent musical and dramatic entertainment is to be given in the Sacred Heart school tonight. The operetta will be "A Day in the Woods" and the sweet music by youthful voices will no doubt be very pleasing. Then there is a comedy turn "The Champion of Her Sex" which will afford an opportunity for several amateur Thespians to show their talents. Doors open at 7.30 o'clock.

A Telephone Alarm.

A telephone alarm summoned a portion of the fire department to the corner of Salem street and Willie avenue, where a slight blaze had been started in a tenement by the upsetting of a plumber's fire pot.

End of a Sensation in Campbello by the Death of J. J. Newman Charged With Firing a Shoe Factory.

By Telegraph to THE SUN.

BROCKTON, April 5.—The case of J. J. Newman of Campbello, charged with setting fire to a shoe factory, was called in court before Judge Reed this morning. The defendant failed to respond and as he had been acting suspiciously of late search was made. In Campbello the body was found. Newman had suicided by hanging himself from a beam in a barn.

BADLY CLUBBED.

TIMOTHY FINNEGAN SUSTAINS SEVERE INJURIES.

He First Got Into a Row and Was Afterwards Clubbed Into Unconsciousness—He Was Unable to Appear in Court.

The name of Timothy Finnegan, who was charged with drunkenness, was called this morning in court, and Finnegan, whom the clerk said was bailed out, did not appear and the case was rested until later. The case has aroused considerable interest among Finnegan's friends. They claim that Finnegan was put out of Dennis Finnegan's barroom on Lawrence street, where he or some one else had been raising trouble. They also claim that Officer O'Connell came along and arrested him, clubbing him quite severely.

A SUN reporter asked Officer O'Connell this morning what happened there, and he said that "three or four of them" got into a fight over a game of forty-fives, and kept it up after they reached the street. He placed Finnegan under arrest and during the fight "gave him a bang with his club."

Finnegan was bailed out by his brother Dan, and Tim Lynch of Agawam street, with whom he resides.

He was unconscious for some time after the clubbing and at the station his wounds were dressed. About six stitches having been taken to close a wound on the forehead. There was also a deep gash on the top of the head and a cut on the side of the face. As the injured man cannot move in the bed without assistance on account of a soreness in his side, it is thought that some of his ribs are broken. Dr. McDonough who visited him this morning wanted to know the depth of the wound which was sewed as he feared the skull was fractured. Finnegan is a frightful sight today. His nose is stopped with cotton to stay the bleeding which has been almost continuous since the occurrence. In the scuffle outside Dennis Finnegan's store a square of glass in the shop window was broked. The injured man was unable to appear in court today. He has always been known as a quiet inoffensive citizen.

THE COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET.

Tendered by City Treasurer Harrington Last Night.

A social occasion of considerable note last evening, was the complimentary banquet tendered by City Treasurer Harrington to the city council, to which were also invited heads of municipal departments, members of the city council of '92 who voted for Mr. Harrington.

It was not a political gathering; it was purely social, and it was a representative gathering which sat down to the finest menu ever presented by the Page company in all their experience.

The banquet occurred in Association hall and William F. Courtney Esq., presided. Responses in a merry strain were made by many of the gentlemen present.

TEACHING DRAWING.

Points to be Considered by teachers Emphasized by Mr. Bailey.

About 150 persons attended the lecture delivered at High school hall yesterday afternoon by Mr. Henry T. Bailey. The lecture was very entertaining and the speaker touched upon various principles involved in teaching drawing. Among other things the speaker said: "The natural order of illustrating natural objects calls for a close following of the growth and life of the subject. In illustrating inanimate objects there is a logical order to be followed as well. Technical drawing is also necessary.

"In primary teaching you must teach the pupils to "know" something and to "do" something. Forms should be taught and impressions correctly made. As a whole, the principle of drawing as a means of understanding cannot be overestimated."

We understand that it's quite a common thing for men about town, who are wearing Rogers, Peet & Co.'s clothing, to say that they've had it made to order. We disclaim any responsibility for moral lapses of this character.

We sell the goods for just what they are—the best ready-made in the world; do our best to please our customers; fit them as they should be fitted, charge them fair prices—and leave the rest to them.

If the clothes appear so much better, than any ever seen ready-made; if they are so good that they'll pass muster as a job from a first-class tailor, it's what we wish for them—but it's the wearer, not the seller, who romances about custom work.

We don't mean to tempt you to misrepresentation, but there's an elegant collection of Spring Clothing here—suits, overcoats, and long frocks, that may impress you with its goodness, may tempt you to buy.

FOR THE WHEELMEN.

Pointers on How to Ride and How to Appear.

Officer Lennon tells a pretty good story of his experience with a bicyclist, recently. He was on the sidewalk, with a team moving along near the curbstone. Around a corner came a wheelman on his "bik" using the sidewalk. Officer Lennon jumped to one side and so did the "bik." There was a collision, Officer Lennon landed under the team, while the rider took a header. The front wheel of the machine was smashed, but no one was hurt, fortunately. Before the officer could get his breath the cyclist put his wheel over his shoulder and skipped.

The best lady rider in town is said to reside on the Merrimack corporation.

When you get your new wheel there are a few things you want to be sure and remember. Pump your tires hard, so that when sitting on the machine they scarcely bulge. Saddles should be placed so that when the pedal is at the lowest position it can be reached by a straight leg without any sensation of stretching. See that the peak is half an inch higher than the back. The handles should be fixed so they can be reached while sitting upright. See that all bearings are properly adjusted, and that all the nuts are tight and fast.

The Norfolk, Va., Cycle club is about to start on a tour of considerable interest from their own town to Gettysburg, a distance of 300 miles. They are going to take their time about it, camping out on the way. A move like this is one of the signs of the healthy condition of the sport.

An effort is being made by the Springfield club to raise $1000 to send Tyler, Windle and Sanger to Belgium to compete for the Saltonstall trophy. It is now in possession of the N. Y. A. C., but it will have to be forwarded for the contest.

Three Stepping Stones.

According to the annual report of the births, deaths and marriages, it is shown that the total number of births returned and recorded during the year was 2688, males 1382, females 1306, which is a decrease from the number recorded for the year 1892 of 53.

The number of marriage intentions recorded and certificates issued during the year 1893 was 1018, an increase of 17 over the number of 1892. The total number of marriages returned and recorded for the year was 1020, an increase of 23 over the number of 1892.

The total number of deaths recorded during the year 1893 was 2180, a decrease from the number recorded in 1892 of 120. The total number of males was 1012, a decrease of 84, and the total number of females 1096, a decrease of 36. The number of deaths between 80 and 90 years was 70, and the number over 90 years was 12.

JOYCE'S ALLEGED STEAL.

HE WAS ON TRIAL FOR BETRAYAL OF A TRUST.

Served as an Officer in Court Wamesit of Foresters and is Charged With Embezzling $250 of the Court's Fund.

John Joyce charged with embezzlement from the Foresters, Court Wamesit, was called for trial this morning.

W. A. Hogan, Esq., appeared for the court, and D. J. Donahue for the defendant.

It is alleged that Joyce, who was treasurer of the court, appropriated $250 of the court's money to his own use.

The first witness put on was Mr. Thomas McDermott, recording secretary. He read the records of a meeting in 1891 when Joyce was elected treasurer.

Witness was cross-examined concerning the existence of a charter, and the witness admitted that the treasurership was an office which required a bond. He didn't know whether or not Joyce ever filed a bond.

John E. Maguire testified that he was a member of Court Wamesit, and that the court was a voluntary organization which had a dispensation from the grand court to do business as a court of Foresters. This dispensation is commonly called a charter. Witness did not think there was a charter from the state legislature. In 1892 witness was made an auditor and he with others examined the accounts of the defendant. On cross examination Mr. Maguire presented reports, one showing that $250 had been embezzled.

Two other witnesses were examined, one of them being Michael Kennedy, one of the auditing committee who discovered the shortage in Joyce's accounts. No defence was put in and Joyce was held in $500 for the grand jury.

IVORA FARLAND

Was Not Dead When Taken to the Undertaker.

NATURE PLAYED AN AWFUL TRICK WITH HER HEART.

Pronounced Dead She is Now Feeling Nicely.

A young woman named Ivora Farland of New York, came very near meeting with a horrible fate yesterday afternoon.

About 3.30 o'clock she was discovered on the stairs in the Mechanics bank building, in an unconscious state, and more than this, apparently dead.

The person who discovered her notified the passersby and immediately a crowd gathered, and the ambulance which was passing along Merrimack street was called.

Dr. Packer, who has an office in the same building, was informed that a dying woman was lying in the hall. He hastened down stairs and was forcing his way through the crowd when Dr. Ricker arrived and he retired.

The woman, who at the time was unknown to the crowd, showed no signs of life whatever, and was apparently dead.

Dr. Ricker applied the usual tests and failed to find any indications of life, no heart-beat, no breath. Certain parts of her body were cold, and her eyes were sunken in her head.

She was accordingly pronounced dead, and was removed in the ambulance to Undertaker Brooks' establishment, and here was where the unfortunate woman had a narrow escape.

She was placed on a bench in a back room preparatory to removing her to the cellar.

She was lying in such a position that the light from a back window shone full upon her face, and while Mr. Brooks' assistant was getting things in readiness in the cellar, Dr. Ricker, who was gazing intently at her, noticed a very faint twitching of the eyelids, and unmistakably signs of life.

The doctor quickly decided that the woman was in a cataleptic state, and he ordered her removal to St. John's hospital.

Here she was placed on a table and watched over for 20 minutes for signs of life. The eyelids moved slightly again and a slight sigh escaped her lips, up to this time no pulse could be felt but from that time on a few faint tremblings of the pulse were noticed. She was taken upstairs and at an early hour this morning she regained consciousness, and gave her name as Ivora Farland of New York. She had been visiting in Boston and had come up here to call on a friend named Mrs. John Kelley. While walking along Merrimack street she was overtaken with a feeling of illness and went into the doorway.

This morning she was reported much better in health and when she is able to go out will be cared for by her friend.

The case is what is known to the medical profession as catalepsy, and is one which many physicians do not meet with in a lifetime. It is caused by some brain trouble, and consists of a sudden suspension of the action of the senses and of volition, these remaining in a fixed position, while the action of the heart and lungs not affected. It is very difficult to ascertain whether a person in such a case is dead or alive, and cases are on record, though very few in number, fortunately, when they have been buried while in such a state.

The malady is seldom fatal and there is no known remedy for it.

But for the one sign of life noticed while the Farland woman was in the undertaker's shop, she would have been placed in the basement surrounded by the paraphernalia of an undertaker, and upon recovering her senses there, if alone and in darkness, the result might have been death from fright.

TOO EAGER ANGLERS.

Violators of Game Laws Likely to Get Into Trouble.

Indications point to the belief that important steps will be taken this season to enforce the laws relative to fishing in the streams and ponds that will be of interest to anglers and that will greatly gratify those who desire to fish according to the requirements of the same. During the past few years, and especially within the last year, ponds and streams have been subjected to a lawless sort of fishing that has almost completely drained them of fish. Gangs of men and boys have fished for trout out of the season set by law till it is next to impossible for a fisherman to have any luck when he fishes during the season.

These lawless fishermen do not confine their method to the use of lines entirely, but use such mechanisms as the trawl, set net and drag net. These articles are not allowed, and if persons are caught using them matters are likely to take a serious turn. The fishery laws provide that any person caught in the act of using these articles, or any person against whom evidence shall be brought that shall show that fish have been caught by the use of these, may be subject to a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $50 for each and every fish so caught and taken from the waters, and their paraphernalia may be confiscated by the state.

If a man were to walk into a fish market and upon asking the price of a single fish be told it was $20, he would drop dead. Yet there are hundreds who will risk it, go out and set nets or use drag nets and trawls and subject themselves to arrest and a heavy fine, to say nothing of having all their apparatus confiscated. When the word "apparatus" is used it means everything that may be used at the time the person is caught in the act.—Fall River Herald.

SOME ATHLETIC GOSSIP.

FOUR CLUB BASE BALL LEAGUE FORMED IN TOWN.

Games to be Played on the Dracut Oval—Sub-committees on Various Sports in the L. C. A. A.—Old English Game of Bowls to be Revived—Big Increase in Membership Expected.

The prospects for the coming season in the Lowell Cricket and Athletic association are very encouring even more so than in any preceding year. Tomorrow the first steps will be taken to erect a new club, or about the site of the one burned last fall, by the sub-committee on building, President Hart, Gardner W. Pearson and C. F. Coburn.

A noticeable departure from the usual style of club houses will probably be made, and while the expense of the building will not exceed the funds available it is probable that an excellent house for use of club members will be put up.

In the way of sports the season's schedule is an excellent one. The plan of a four club league—the Vespers, Highlands, Home and L. C. A. A.,—has been successfully laid out and a schedule of 24 games, six games for each club ratified. The ball games, with few exceptions, will be played on the Dracut oval, which is undoubtedly the finest diamond outside of the Congress street grounds in Boston. The ball games will be sandwiched in on Saturdays between cricket fixtures. By vote of the directors the members of the other teams will be permitted to use the Dracut grounds one day each week, at present, for practice, so that ample opportunity is offered for "scrub." J. P. Battles will have full charge of the base ball end, and with a new lot of material it will be a success. He will be assisted by Charles Clogston and Bert Coburn.

The oval is looking in excellent condition. Next week the groundsman will commence his duties, and by Saturday week everything will be in readiness for a game of ball or cricket or exercising on the track.

This will be a great year for cricket for the first eleven, the schedule being the finest yet arranged, including some notable games at home.

There will be a strong second eleven for many of the ball players took up cricket last season. Dr. W. A. Sherman, Charles Clogston and George Jaques developing as good players. Mr. Murdie will have charge of the department and will be assisted by Mr. Fred Fairburn and George Jaques.

The old English game of bowls will be really introduced this season and the veteran player, Mr. John Gullfoe, will take charge of it, the committee chairman being J. H. Comber, and the other member Edward Sherwood, who will also serve on the tennis committee. Athletics, which is one of the most important departments, will be under the care of G. W. Pearson assisted by Fisher H. Pearson and T. P. Sullivan. The big open labor meeting on Labor day will be the biggest athletic affair ever gotten up in this city. The club will probably have a couple of local meetings, if the number of club athletes will warrant it. As the directors have lowered the junior membership fee to $3 for youths under 20 years, there is likely to be a big influx of new members. Many high school cadets, especially those on the ball team will join as it gives them an opportunity to secure good ball grounds with all desirable conveniences.

In the fall it is determined to revive foot ball. Several attempts have been made to do this, but unsuccessfully, but as new material has been added to the membership, this is assured. Of this committee and of winter bowling C. F. Coburn is the chairman and the other members are Mr. Cowan and Wm. Meiklejohn.

The club house and grounds will be under the eye of H. D. Kendall, Arthur Saunders and Alex. Hobbs.

The schedules for the season, a neat eight-page folder, containing a club directory, dates and teams of the 24 ball games and the 30 cricket games, together with particulars of club "field days" and athletic meetings are being printed and will be sent out with the notices of yearly dues next week. This year a pocket membership card will be issued in addition, good for every club affair at the grounds. The yearly membership fee of $5 is the lowest figure in the United States, and few clubs have more to offer the coming season than the L. C. A. A.

The members of the Lowell Carpet club which has disbanded may join the L. C. A. A., and if this is done more good cricketing material will be added.

Dr. W. A. Sherman will probably play with the Home club this season.

The Dracut oval will be a good place for ball games this summer. It is nearer the post office than the fair grounds, it is on a straight route from Merrimack square, and electric cars land passengers there in from eight to eleven minutes. Besides, the ride is delightful and the grand stands as comfortable as can be expected.

SEEN AND HEARD.

There will probably be another campfire at the Vesper club before the canoeing season opens.

It is now only a question of a short while before the Vesper club branches out as a winter club, using the present house as a summer club.

***

There will probably be 35 Vesper wheelmen in the big run to Old Concord and Lexington on the Nineteenth of April. These quiet towns will be fairly overrun with cyclists for hundreds from Boston will go there.

***

It is not likely that the Nineteenth of April will be ever observed as a legal holiday in this or any other manufacturing city, except through enlargement of heart of mill treasurers. The mills are only obliged to shut down on legal holidays which are mentioned in their charter. Fast day has been knocked out, but the Nineteenth of April cannot be substituted. It is yet undecided whether or not Lowell mills will close. From Christmas to Fourth of July, then to Thanksgiving day make big jumps between holidays.

The New "Black Maria."

The new black maria made for the police department by J. H. Swett of this city was put into use today. It is a strongly made wagon, weighing 1670 pounds and neatly painted. It seems rather small for this city, but it is said 10 persons will be accommodated in it. It will always be distinguished from other conveyances bearing gongs for that of the new wagon has a sound entirely different from that of the patrol wagons, the ambulance or the fire wagons.

Objects to an Untruth.

A Pawtucketville resident in reply to a communication in Tuesday's SUN relative to the reading room takes exceptions to the statements therein contained; and says that the allegation that the reading room is an adjunct to the church is an insult and an untruth. He says the reading room is supported by an association independent of the church.

POST OFFICE

Surprising Story From the Capital About It.

NOMINATION OF MR. PEARSON IS DELAYED.

Reason Assigned is the Influence of John E. Russell.

The following despatch from Washington was printed in today's Advertiser: "The Lowell post office is proving to be a very determined sort of fight. If it had not been for J. E. Russell it might have been settled by this time. But the man from Leicester is determined that young Gardner Pearson shall not be postmaster there as long as he holds Mr. Cleveland's ear as he does now. Postmaster-General Bissell wants to appoint Pearson. At his request Pearson came to Washington and made Mr. Bissell a call, and the postmaster-general was very favorably impressed by him. But when Bissell takes the matter to Mr. Cleveland he is informed by the president that his friend Mr. Russell does not want Pearson appointed, and the matter is laid aside.

"Pearson's friends here claim that Mr. Quincy arranged things himself by which arrangement Pearson would be just the man for the place, and that he has now gone back on that arrangement. This plan was to recognize the three elements in the democracy of Lowell, the French, Irish and American. The first two sections of this programme was carried out perfectly. The French element was recognized by the appointment of Lenthier to a consulship, who, although the senate has refused to confirm him, is still serving the government in Canada. The Irish element was given a place when the superintendent of the public building was chosen, and the American part of the democracy was to have the post office.

"But then came another arrangement with J. B. Carroll of Springfield, by which he was to be pacified for not getting the place upon the bench which he wished by having his father-in-law, Michael Corbett of Lowell, made postmaster in the city of Gov. Greenhalge. Cong. Stevens will recommend nobody but Mr. Pearson, and J. E. Russell insists that Pearson be kept from the postmastership in memory of that torchlight procession and that memorable democratic meeting there. And all this time Mr. Quincy is working for Corbett, whom Mr. Stevens will not endorse. And while all this struggle is going on Postmaster Burbank is handling the Lowell mail.

"The end of the fight may be that Postmaster Burbank will continue his handling of the Lowell mail, even though he is a republican. Postmaster-General Wanamaker stated several times that he considered Burbank the best postmaster in the United States, and he used to describe the management of the Lowell office to other postmasters as a model for them to imitate. It has been very strongly intimated that the people of Lowell, democrats as well as republicans, would like to have Burbank kept in office. Cong. Stevens thinks well of Burbank, and might be willing to have the fight ended by his retention. This would be an amicable way to end the fight and about the only way that appears. At any rate the question of re-appointing Burbank is being very seriously discussed both at the post office department and the White House."

POLICE COURT.

Hadley, J.

Three drunks.

Isadore Dube, a young boy, was charged with larceny from his brother. The case was continued until tomorrow, as was the case of Midas Laferrire for alleged assault and battery on Minnie Tarsey.

Simon B. Harris has recovered from the effects of the Garvey trial and is on deck again, complaining of John Lamountain of North Chelmsford for alleged illegally keeping liquor. The case will be heard on April 12.

The continued case of Thomas F. Clark for assault and battery upon Sarah Parsons was tried this morning. Clark formerly sold household articles on the instalment plan. He sold some curtains and other articles to the complainant, and on calling there on one occasion some trouble arose over the payments, and the result was, the defendant, it was alleged started to take out the curtains. Mrs. Parsons tried to stop him and she alleged he struck and kicked her.

SEASON OPENS APRIL 28.

New England Baseball Men Consider Matters of Interest.

BOSTON, April 5.—The schedule meeting of the New England league was held at the Quincy House yesterday. Three clubs, Portland, Fall River and Brockton, were represented when the meeting was called to order.

The Pawtucket, Haverhill and Bangor clubs were admitted to membership.

The Worcester club protested against the way they were treated. This club wanted a six-club league, composed of Lewiston, Portland, Fall River, Brockton, Haverhill and Worcester. They claim that the franchises were given to Pawtucket and Bangor simply to give jobs to Leonard and Bacon.

During all the discussion, which was pretty warm, the Lewiston representative, McDonough, was absent. The club was admitted to the league.

The Reach ball was adopted, and the naming of the umpire staff left with the president.

The schedule consists of 112 games, each club playing eight games with every club, 56 at home and 56 away. The season opens April 28 and ends Sept. 7.

Shinnick, the well known second baseman is at Exeter, N. H.

Frank Thyne intends to form a strong club in this city, which will include McCarthy of Lowell, pitcher; Cull, second base; McGuane, third base; Charlie Farrell, short stop and captain; Booth, Courtney and Sweeney in the field. This club will play in Burlington, April 26, 27 and 28, and Manager Thyne is arranging other dates. He would like to hear from New Hampshire and Vermont clubs for games the latter part of April and first part of May. The Lowells will open the season at Nashua or Manchester on April 11 the Fast day in that state.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

Cleverly Presented in a Belvidere Residence by Society People.

The private theatricals given in high society at the elegant residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cammock, on Belmont street, in aid of the Humane society, last night, were the sensation of the hour so to speak.

The audience of course was a very select one, and was entertained in elaborate style by the host and hostess assisted by a bevy of charming young ladies. The first play was a clever sketch from Post's Harvard stories entitled "Complications in Burleigh's room." To appreciate the complications the book should be read, but it may be said that the actors were exceptionally clever. The cast was as follows:

Ned Burleigh, Jack Randolph, Steve Hudson } Harvard Students } Mr. Edward Trull, Mr. G. W. Pearson, Mr. F. A Whiting
Shrady, prize fighter.....Mr. Leroy H. Talbot
Mrs. Hudson, Steve's mother.....Miss Bowles
Miss Hudson, Steve's sister.....Miss Robinson

Mr. Pearson's part of Jack Randolph was excruciatingly funny, and he made the most of it.

The second piece, of more serious composition, was entitled "My Lord in Livery." The cast was:

Spiggott, the old family Butler, Mr. James Bayles
Hopkins, the footman, Mr. Frederick O. Church
Thirlmere, H. M. S. "Thingethon," Mr. Howard Gray
Robert, the page.....Master Hobart Faulkner
Sybil Amberly, daughter of Sir George Amberly.....Miss Talbot
Rose, Laura, Her friends } .....Mrs. Victor L. Cammock, ...Miss Grace E. Cammock

The acting of Mr. Bayles and Mr. Church was exceptionally worthy of note.

After the performance frappe and ices were served in the parlor and coffee poured by Miss Henrietta Hastings, Miss Hildreth Nesmith, Miss Blanche Ames and Miss Bessie Ludlam. The ushers were: Gordon Tweed, Charles Ayer, Joe Francis and A. S. Whiting.

PERSONAL.

Daniel Flaherty of this city, returned to Holderness school in Lakeville, Conn., last Tuesday, where he will resume his studies.

Miss Grace Varnum of Abbot academy, is visiting her uncle, Daniel H. Varnum, of Bridge street.

Miss Maude Nickles of Pawtucketville has returned from a seven months' visit to Chicago and the west.

Mrs. Albert E. Fisher, Miss Nellie Morrison and Miss Edith L. Ebert have returned from a visit to Keene, N. H.

Miss Susie Emmott, of Concord, Mass, is the guest of Miss Myers of the city library.

Mr. Phil Emmott of Concord, Mass., is the guest of Mrs. Othello Greenwood of Hale street.

THE ANNIVERSARY DAY.

It Will Be Observed in Most Appropriate Manner Tomorrow.

Time passes quickly and surely; men make and lose fortunes in a day; reputations are not made on a single turn of Fortune's wheel, or distributed by lavish hand, to all who seek them.

Time is an element of prime importance in the business world to establish a position for a firm or individual, a position which shall be as a rock towering above the flood in a mighty river, immovable, impressive and a symbol of strength. In the business world the tide of progress sweeps on with time itself. In fourteen years hundreds of thousands of individuals and firms have come into existence and gone under. The survival of the fittest becomes the true state of things. Surely 14 years of successful experience is a record for the firm of O'Donnell & Gilbride of which they may be proud. The anniversary will be fittingly observed at the immense establishment tomorrow by two grand concerts by the American orchestra. The event will be otherwise observed for the firm will cut the price of every article in the store. If you need anything, do your shopping tomorrow; if you do not want to buy come and listen to the concert. The store will be in gala attire. All Lowell should congratulate the firm on its success. Looking backward we see the first store of Messrs. O'Donnell & Gilbride, a small one in the Albion block. From a small business it has steadily grown until today it is the largest establishment in the city.

FUNERAL SERVICES.

The funeral of John P. Magulness took place at 11 o'clock this morning from his parents' home on Bridge street. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery.

The funeral of the late Mary A. Robinson took place this forenoon at 10 o'clock from her home in Phoenix and was largely attended.

The funeral of Eliza Sawyer occurred yesterday afternoon from the residence of her sister, Mrs. Charles Belden, 3 Mt. Vernon street. Rev. R. A. Greene officiated. The interment was in the Edson cemetery and the bearers were Messrs. George F. Morey, A. F. Pierce, O. H. Dodge and J. A. Herrick. Appropriate music was rendered by Miss Hathaway.

OUR THEATRES.

MUSIC HALL.—"The Old Cronies" were out on the street for an airing yesterday and in a natty beach cart drove around town. Have you seen their show at Music hall this week? It is very funny and an evening spent watching the show will not be time thrown away.

OPERA HOUSE.—Another big and enthusiastic audience saw "Hands Across the Sea," last night.

Tonight the melo-drama "Siberia" opens for a three days run. If the good words spoken by our exchanges are an indication this piece of Bartley Campbell's is well worth seeing. It is staged superbly and the company is one which caught Boston's favor and held it for a long run.

On Monday evening charming Marion Manola, and her husband, John Mason, will be seen in their music comedy "Queen of Hearts," recently brought out in Boston.

Thatcher's extravaganza "Africa" on Wednesday evening.

Off for the Old Country.

The following Lowell residents booked through Murphy's steamship agency are among the passengers to leave Boston Saturday on the Cunard line steamer Pavonia for the old country: Mr. and Mrs. Clegg, Mrs. Phoebe Newsholme, Mrs. Jane Moore, Mrs. Mary Devine, Miss Elizabeth Davis, Maria Jackson, Rosa Cassidy, Rosa A. Owen, Mary Collins, Mary A. Flynn, Emma Harrison, Lizzie Harrison, Edward Fielding, Timothy Moore, John Morton and James Scullion.

Fine Entertainment Tonight.

An excellent musical and dramatic entertainment is to be given in the Sacred Heart school tonight. The operetta will be "A Day in the Woods" and the sweet music by youthful voices will no doubt be very pleasing. Then there is a comedy turn "The Champion of Her Sex" which will afford an opportunity for several amateur Thespians to show their talents. Doors open at 7.30 o'clock.

A Telephone Alarm.

A telephone alarm summoned a portion of the fire department to the corner of Salem street and Willie avenue, where a slight blaze had been started in a tenement by the upsetting of a plumber's fire pot.

End of a Sensation in Campbello by the Death of J. J. Newman Charged With Firing a Shoe Factory.

By Telegraph to THE SUN.

BROCKTON, April 5.—The case of J. J. Newman of Campbello, charged with setting fire to a shoe factory, was called in court before Judge Reed this morning. The defendant failed to respond and as he had been acting suspiciously of late search was made. In Campbello the body was found. Newman had suicided by hanging himself from a beam in a barn.

BADLY CLUBBED.

TIMOTHY FINNEGAN SUSTAINS SEVERE INJURIES.

He First Got Into a Row and Was Afterwards Clubbed Into Unconsciousness—He Was Unable to Appear in Court.

The name of Timothy Finnegan, who was charged with drunkenness, was called this morning in court, and Finnegan, whom the clerk said was bailed out, did not appear and the case was rested until later. The case has aroused considerable interest among Finnegan's friends. They claim that Finnegan was put out of Dennis Flanegan's barroom on Lawrence street, where he or some one else had been raising trouble. They also claim that Officer O'Connell came along and arrested him, clubbing him quite severely.

A SUN reporter asked Officer O'Connell this morning what happened there, and he said that "three or four of them" got into a fight over a game of forty-fives, and kept it up after they reached the street. He placed Finnegan under arrest and during the fight "gave him a bang with his club."

Finnegan was bailed out by his brother Dan, and Tim Lynch of Agawam street, with whom he resides.

He was unconscious for some time after the clubbing and at the station his wounds were dressed. About six stitches having been taken to close a wound on the forehead. There was also a deep gash on the top of the head and a cut on the side of the face. As the injured man cannot move in the bed without assistance on account of a soreness in his side, it is thought that some of his ribs are broken. Dr. McDonough who visited him this morning wanted to know the depth of the wound which was sewed as he feared the skull was fractured. Finnegan is a frightful sight today. His nose is stopped with cotton to stay the bleeding which has been almost continuous since the occurrence. In the scuffle outside Dennis Finnegan's store a square of glass in the shop window was broken. The injured man was unable to appear in court today. He has always been known as a quiet inoffensive citizen.

Lawrence Police Active.

By Telegraph to THE SUN.

LAWRENCE, April 5.—Three successful liquor raids were made by the police today. In court two of the offenders appeared, Patrick P. Bradley for maintaining a liquor nuisance and Dennis Torence, for illegally keeping liquor, were each fined $100 and sentenced to three months in jail.

THE COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET.

Tendered by City Treasurer Harrington Last Night.

A social occasion of considerable note last evening, was the complimentary banquet tendered by City Treasurer Harrington to the city council, to which were also invited heads of municipal departments, members of the city council of '92 who voted for Mr. Harrington.

It was not a political gathering; it was purely social, and it was a representative gathering which sat down to the finest menu ever presented by the Page company in all their experience.

The banquet occurred in Association hall and William F. Courtney Esq., presided. Responses in a merry strain were made by many of the gentlemen present.

TEACHING DRAWING.

Points to be Considered by teachers Emphasized by Mr. Bailey.

About 150 persons attended the lecture delivered at High school hall yesterday afternoon by Mr. Henry T. Bailey. The lecture was very entertaining and the speaker touched upon various principles involved in teaching drawing. Among other things the speaker said: "The natural order of illustrating natural objects calls for a close following of the growth and life of the subject. In illustrating inanimate objects there is a logical order to be followed as well. Technical drawing is also necessary.

"In primary teaching you must teach the pupils to "know" something and to "do" something. Forms should be taught and impressions correctly made. As a whole, the principle of drawing as a means of understanding cannot be overestimated."

We understand that it's quite a common thing for men about town, who are wearing Rogers, Peet & Co.'s clothing, to say that they've had it made to order. We disclaim any responsibility for moral lapses of this character.

We sell the goods for just what they are—the best ready-made in the world; do our best to please our customers; fit them as they should be fitted, charge them fair prices—and leave the rest to them.

If the clothes appear so much better than any ever seen ready-made; if they are so good that they'll pass muster as a job from a first-class tailor, it's what we wish for them—but it's the wearer, not the seller, who romances about custom work.

We don't mean to tempt you to misrepresentation, but there's an elegant collection of Spring Clothing here—suits, overcoats, and long frocks, that may impress you with its goodness, may tempt you to buy.

You can't help being satisfied, for we give back the money for clothes you don't like.

FOR THE WHEELMEN.

Pointers on How to Ride and How to Appear.

Officer Lennon tells a pretty good story of his experience with a bicyclist, recently. He was on the sidewalk, with a team moving along near the curbstone. Around a corner came a wheelman on his "bik" using the sidewalk. Officer Lennon jumped to one side and so did the "bik." There was a collision, Officer Lennon landed under the team, while the rider took a header. The front wheel of the machine was smashed, but no one was hurt, fortunately. Before the officer could get his breath the cyclist put his wheel over his shoulder and skipped.

The best lady rider in town is said to reside on the Merrimack corporation.

When you get your new wheel there are a few things you want to be sure and remember. Pump your tires hard, so that when sitting on the machine they scarcely bulge. Saddles should be placed so that when the pedal is at the lowest position it can be reached by a straight leg without any sensation of stretching. See that the peak is half an inch higher than the back. The handles should be fixed so they can be reached while sitting upright. See that all bearings are properly adjusted, and that all the nuts are tight and fast.

The Norfolk, Va., Cycle club is about to start on a tour of considerable interest from their own town to Gettysburg, a distance of 300 miles. They are going to take their time about it, camping out on the way. A move like this is one of the signs of the healthy condition of the sport.

An effort is being made by the Springfield club to raise $1000 to send Tyler, Windle and Sanger to Belgium to compete for the Saltonstall trophy. It is now in possession of the N. Y. A. C., but it will have to be forwarded for the contest.

Three Stepping Stones.

According to the annual report of the births, deaths and marriages, it is shown that the total number of births returned and recorded during the year was 2638, males 1382, females 1306, which is a decrease from the number recorded for the year 1892 of 69.

The number of marriage intentions recorded and certificates issued during the year 1893 was 1018, an increase of 17 over the number of 1892. The total number of marriages returned and recorded for the year was 1020, an increase of 23 over the number of 1892.

The total number of deaths recorded during the year 1893 was 2180, a decrease from the number recorded in 1892 of 120. The total number of males was 1012, a decrease of 84, and the total number of females 1098, a decrease of 80. The number of deaths between 80 and 90 years was 70, and the number over 90 years was 12.

Had Her Ear Lacerated.

A young lady named Miss Hoar residing at the corner of Crosby and Newhall streets, and employed in Faulkner's mills suffered a painful accident while at work this noon, by which one of her ears was badly lacerated. She was taken to her home and was tended by Drs. Jackson and Mulcahey who closed up the wound.

Fooling the People.

You can fool some of the people all the time; you can fool all the people some of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time by getting out a second-hand newspaper. Compare THE SUN with other local papers.

THE MEMORIAL war book, the first number of which has been issued by Lovell Brothers of New York will be a valuable addition to the glut of pictorial literature now on the market

THE ELECTIONS in Ohio and Michigan on Tuesday show a great overturn in favor of republicans. The ruling party as usual must suffer for the business depression that has come upon the country as the result of causes for which no political party is responsible.

THAT IS an interesting decision made by Judge Lilley, in regard to disorderly conduct on the public streets. If there is neither statute nor ordinance making such conduct in public places a punishable offence the sooner legal provision is made for the protection of the public the better.

TWO LAWYERS in the Breckinridge-Pollard case and two others in a city not far from Lowell might rival the Kilkenny cats the story of which has so many parallels in every day life that we are tempted to reproduce it here:

"There once were two cats in Kilkenny
And each thought there was one cat too many,
So they fought and they fit and they scratched and they bit
Till excepting their nails and the tips of their tails
Instead of two cats there weren't any."

CAN IT be wondered that England can procure spies and manufacture traitors when it is known that Le. Caron was made the recipient of a life annuity of $5,000 together with a life insurance policy for $100,000? That was done in an effort to defame Mr. Parnell with the hope that his deposition as leader would overthrow the home rule movement. It was simply suborning testimony.

DO THE readers of THE SUN appreciate the fact that in the 5 o'clock edition of yesterday, a cablegram announced that a great fire was raging in Shanghai, and that 1,000 houses had been destroyed? The matter has a local interest from the fact that a young millman, Mr Danforth of this city, is conducting a cotton mill there. Other important happenings throughout the world are announced with equal promptness in the telegraphic dispatches to THE SUN.

THE ROW in Kansas City between the A. P. A. and their antagonists shows the danger that lies in this secret organization. A few more outrages at the hands of this dark lantern society will cause the formation of similar societies of Catholics for self protection. Should such a course appear necessary, the country will be cast into a ferment of internecine strife that will spread alarm everywhere The seeds of discord will be scattered far and wide and bloodshed will be the result. Now is the time to check the movement that so threatens the peace of the country.

GOV. TILLMAN of South Carolina is not a coward. He is determined to enforce the laws even if he dies in the attempt The opponents of the administration and the liquor dealers combined cannot intimidate the governor although they have caused all the trouble thus far Gov Tillman has dismissed the militia and assumed control of the municipal police and by this means, he hopes to put down lawlessness and subdue the disturbing element He pronounces the liquor law a good one, but like many other good laws when first introduced, it is almost impossible of enforcement The present opposition to it will probably result in its abolition at the first opportunity.

LIFE TENURE OFFICE BILL

There are many reports of inefficiency in the management of the district police by Chief Wade. These reached a culmination on Tuesday when a representative preferred charges against the chief openly in the discussion of the life tenure of office bill. Should this bill pass and cause the retention of Chief Wade in his present position, the service would become still worse than at present. Major Noyes of this city is mentioned as a candidate for Chief Wade's position if a change is to be made. He is active, energetic, experienced in police matters, and of rare executive ability. Altogether he would make a good man for the place, and as he was defeated in his candidacy for postmaster while Mr. Greenhalge was in congress, the governor might now be glad to have an opportunity to place Major Noyes in a position which he might hold for life, if he only performed the duties of the office with a fair degree of satisfaction.

If there was any chance for the appointment of a democrat to the office, another candidate might be mentioned; but Gov Greenhalge is not likely to go out of his party to find a man to take Chief Wade's place.

SNEERS FROM LAWRENCE

Some sinner on the Lawrence Sun evidently thinks Lowell the most wicked city in the universe, but he should have used the conventional "present company excepted," for Lawrence has the palm in this respect. Here are a few samples from our Spicketville namesake

"What would the state prison do without Lowell as a recruiting ground? It is difficult to say"

"Lowell reports an increase in the religious spirit. There was plenty of room for it in that city."

Lawrence is such a hardened sinner there is no hope for her conversion.

"Lawrence mud keeps up its reputation, these days, as a slippery article It is as treacherous as the political product."

The newspaper mud is as treacherous as either, now that it appears the normal school is coming to Lowell.

"There are some mean people in the world, and a few of them have blown into this city"

The statement is entirely superfluous. That will be realized by glancing at the Lawrence papers When Lawrence is not making faces at Lowell she is swelling out in a vain effort to equal our city much in the same fashion as the frog that swelled in order to equal the ox. When Lawrence tires of this method she might try to lift herself up to the same plane as Lowell by tugging at the straps of her boots.

CURRENT CLIPPINGS.

Attrition.

It was a beautiful morn. Far away green fields lay and vegetated violently, butterflies flitted to and fro, and birds warbled in the tree tops.

In the busy city large, adhesive flakes of soot floated through the placid air, while the pale green worm clung to the foliage that arched above the street and waited patiently for the coming of the costume best suited to his complexion.

It was amid such scenes as these that two ladies lingered in their boudoir.

"Nevertheless," murmured the tall vision of loveliness who wore an enamel buckle at her girdle, "he has been much in contact with the world"

A smile curved the red lips of the short, fat vision.

"Yes"——

She mused.

——"I dare say you are right. That explains"——

She suffered her long lashes to droop gracefully upon her cheek.

——"why his coat is so shiny."

It might have been a coincidence, but an unwonted heaviness of the atmosphere was noticeable at once.—Detroit Tribune.

The Puff Professional.

What a heap of medical men there are, to be sure! Quite a glut in the market In fact, there are so many that these poor officers of health have the utmost difficulty in making ends meet. One of them, recently established and despairing of his ability to scrape together a practice, is now having handbills distributed at the corner of every street in his district which hold out the following inducement

"In case of nonrecovery I hereby undertake to pay one-third of the funeral expenses of all persons whom I have attended."—Domion Rose.

With a Grievance.

Indignant Actor—You wrote that notice about the performance of our company at the Highup theater last night, sir, without seeing it. You were not there, sir!

Dramatic Critic—That is true. I had to go to three or four other theaters. But I didn't roast you, did I?

"You mentioned Albertus de Ranteur by name, sir! I am Albertus de Ranteur."

"Did I say anything uncomplimentary about you, Mr. de Ranteur?"

"You said the audience 'thoroughly appreciated' my acting, sir!"

"Well, what's wrong with that?"

"They threw eggs at me, sir. And vegetables. And they tooted me off the stage with tin horns, sir!"—Chicago Tribune.

Polite.

Not long ago Edmund Russell dawned upon a certain western city, and the Blanks gave a large reception. Among the plans for the entertainment of the guests was a scene from "Macbeth" rendered by a young woman of local elocutionary fame. The head of the family was not informed of this especial part of the programme. At the proper moment the young woman personating Lady Macbeth appeared at the end of the drawing room dressed in a trailing robe of white and bearing a light. She moved slowly forward, an expectant hush falling upon the assemblage. The host looked up, saw and wholly misunderstood. He hesitated only a moment, then hastened forward with hospitable zeal, saying: "Why, Miss Smith, good evening! I'm very glad to see you. May I relieve you of your candle?"—Argonaut.

EASTER GREETING

With what joy does the good Christian anticipate Easter, the most glorious festival of his church? What beautiful music is rendered on that day in all our churches, and for the gay and fashionable what time of the year can compare with Easter, for fashion and gay attire? why none; and then the social circle what charm after the long vigil of Lent? Why, take it altogether there is no time of the year that confers such delight as Easter. And to add to the pleasure of Easter time you have only to get the necessary things which sociability requires and among them I know of nothing more necessary and useful to make you happy at this time than a bottle of good wine, and you can get it so cheap that you ought not to be without it. Send an order to the CLOBE HOTEL and get Three Large Bottles for $1.00, or Five for $1.50, Port or Sherry.

A WORD TO MOTHERS, A CHILD SAVED.

This certifies that DR WILSON has restored my child to perfect health after all other doctors had failed. Some said it was suffering from its teeth, others said it could not live. It was failing all the time and was restless No one knew what ailed the child, but said it could not be cured. At length one of Dr. Wilson's patients advised me to consult him He understood and explained every ailment With his peculiar method of diagnosing nothing is hid. He saw the child was suffering from a combination of difficulties, torpidity of the liver, chronic constipation and general phthisis. He said he could cure it, and he has been as good as his word. The child is now in the best of health. I would advise all mothers to take their children to DR. WILSON if they wish to save them His skill has proved to be second to none.

Fooling the People.

You can fool some of the people all the time; you can fool all the people some of the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time by getting out a second-hand newspaper. Compare THE SUN with other local papers.

THE MEMORIAL war book, the first number of which has been issued by Lovell Brothers of New York will be a valuable addition to the glut of pictorial literature now on the market.

THE ELECTIONS in Ohio and Michigan on Tuesday show a great overturn in favor of republicans. The ruling party as usual must suffer for the business depression that has come upon the country as the result of causes for which no political party is responsible.

THAT IS an interesting decision made by Judge Lilley, in regard to disorderly conduct on the public streets. If there is neither statute nor ordinance making such conduct in public places a punishable offence the sooner legal provision is made for the protection of the public the better.

TWO LAWYERS in the Breckinridge-Pollard case and two others in a city not far from Lowell might rival the Kilkenny cats the story of which has so many parallels in every day life that we are tempted to reproduce it here:

"There once were two cats in Kilkenny
And each thought there was one cat too many;
So they fought and they fit and they scratched and they bit
Till excepting their nails and the tips of their tails
Instead of two cats there weren't any."

CAN IT be wondered that England can procure spies and manufacture traitors when it is known that Le. Caron was made the recipient of a life annuity of $5,000 together with a life insurance policy for $100,000? That was done in an effort to defame Mr. Parnell with the hope that his deposition as leader would overthrow the home rule movement. It was simply subborning testimony.

DO THE readers of THE SUN appreciate the fact that in the 5 o'clock edition of yesterday, a cablegram announced that a great fire was raging in Shanghai, and that 1,000 houses had been destroyed? The matter has a local interest from the fact that a young millman, Mr. Danforth of this city, is conducting a cotton mill there. Other important happenings throughout the world are announced with equal promptness in the telegraphic dispatches to THE SUN.

THE ROW in Kansas City between the A. P. A. and their antagonists shows the danger that lies in this secret organization. A few more outrages at the hands of this dark lantern society will cause the formation of similar societies of Catholics for self protection. Should such a course appear necessary, the country will be cast into a ferment of internecine strife that will spread alarm everywhere. The seeds of discord will be scattered far and wide and bloodshed will be the result. Now is the time to check the movement that so threatens the peace of the country.

GOV. TILLMAN of South Carolina is not a coward. He is determined to enforce the laws even if he dies in the attempt. The opponents of the administration and the liquor dealers combined cannot intimidate the governor, although they have caused all the trouble thus far. Gov. Tillman has dismissed the militia and assumed control of the municipal police and by this means, he hopes to put down lawlessness and subdue the disturbing element. He pronounces the liquor law a good one, but like many other good laws when first introduced, it is almost impossible of enforcement. The present opposition to it will probably result in its abolition at the first opportunity.

LIFE TENURE OFFICE BILL.

There are many reports of inefficiency in the management of the district police by Chief Wade. These reached a culmination on Tuesday when a representative preferred charges against the chief openly in the discussion of the life tenure of office bill. Should this bill pass and cause the retention of Chief Wade in his present position, the service would become still worse than at present. Major Noyes of this city is mentioned as a candidate for Chief Wade's position if a change is to be made. He is active, energetic, experienced in police matters, and of rare executive ability. Altogether he would make a good man for the place, and as he was defeated in his candidacy for postmaster while Mr. Greenhalge was in congress, the governor might now be glad to have an opportunity to place Major Noyes in a position which he might hold for life, if he only performed the duties of the office with a fair degree of satisfaction.

If there was any chance for the appointment of a democrat to the office, another candidate might be mentioned; but Gov. Greenhalge is not likely to go out of his party to find a man to take Chief Wade's place.

SNEERS FROM LAWRENCE.

Some sinner on the Lawrence Sun evidently thinks Lowell the most wicked city in the universe, but he should have used the conventional "present company excepted," for Lawrence has the palm in this respect. Here are a few samples from our Spicketville namesake:

"What would the state prison do without Lowell as a recruiting ground? It is difficult to say."

"Lowell reports an increase in the religious spirit. There was plenty of room for it in that city."

Lawrence is such a hardened sinner there is no hope for her conversion.

"Lawrence mud keeps up its reputation; these days, as a slippery article. It is as treacherous as the political product."

The newspaper mud is as treacherous as either, now that it appears the normal school is coming to Lowell.

"There are some mean people in the world, and a few of them have blown into this city."

The statement is entirely superfluous. That will be realized by glancing at the Lawrence papers. When Lawrence is not making faces at Lowell she is swelling out in a vain effort to equal our city much in the same fashion as the frog that swelled in order to equal the ox. When Lawrence tires of this method she might try to lift herself up to the same plane as Lowell by tugging at the straps of her boots.

CURRENT CLIPPINGS.

Attrition.

It was a beautiful morn. Far away green fields lay and vegetated violently, butterflies flitted to and fro, and birds warbled in the tree tops.

In the busy city large, adhesive flakes of soot floated through the placid air, while the pale green worm clung to the foliage that arched above the street and waited patiently for the coming of the costume best suited to his complexion.

It was amid such scenes as these that two ladies lingered in their boudoir.

"Nevertheless," murmured the tall vision of loveliness who wore an enamel buckle at her girdle, "he has been much in contact with the world."

A smile curved the red lips of the short, fat vision.

"Yes"—

She mused.

——"I dare say you are right. That explains"—

She suffered her long lashes to droop gracefully upon her cheek.

——"why his coat is so shiny."

It might have been a coincidence, but an unwonted heaviness of the atmosphere was noticeable at once.—Detroit Tribune.

The Puff Professional.

What a heap of medical men there are, to be sure! Quite a glut in the market. In fact, there are so many that these poor officers of health have the utmost difficulty in making ends meet. One of them, recently established and despairing of his ability to scrape together a practice, is now having handbills distributed at the corner of every street in his district which hold out the following inducement:

"In case of nonrecovery I hereby undertake to pay one-third of the funeral expenses of all persons whom I have attended."—Domion Rose.

A BUSINESS WOMAN, or a woman who works, sooner or later has to build up her strength with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, fainting-spells, or sleeplessness, take the "Prescription." It is woman's special tonic and nervine.

It's a medicine that builds up, invigorates, regulates, and cures.

It lessens the pains and burdens of childbearing.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, in "female complaints" and weaknesses, you have your money back.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—I have taken the "Favorite Prescription" and I can recommend it to any body that suffers with any female disease. I have tried several doctor's prescriptions but none did me the good that yours did. Yours respectfully,

With a Grievance.

Indignant Actor—You wrote that notice about the performance of our company at the Highup theater last night, sir, without seeing it. You were not there, sir!

Dramatic Critic—That is true. I had to go to three or four other theaters. But I didn't roast you, did I?

"You mentioned Albertus de Ranteur by name, sir! I am Albertus de Ranteur."

"Did I say anything uncomplimentary about you, Mr. de Ranteur?"

"You said the audience 'thoroughly appreciated' my acting, sir!"

"Well, what's wrong with that?"

"They threw eggs at me, sir. And vegetables. And they tooted me off the stage with tin horns, sir!"—Chicago Tribune.

Polite.

Not long ago Edmund Russell dawned upon a certain western city, and the Blanks gave a large reception. Among the plans for the entertainment of the guests was a scene from "Macbeth" rendered by a young woman of local elocutionary fame. The head of the family was not informed of this especial part of the programme. At the proper moment the young woman personating Lady Macbeth appeared at the end of the drawing room dressed in a trailing robe of white and bearing a light. She moved slowly forward, an expectant hush falling upon the assemblage. The host looked up, saw and wholly misunderstood. He hesitated only a moment, then hastened forward with hospitable zeal, saying: "Why, Miss Smith, good evening! I'm very glad to see you. May I relieve you of your candle?"—Argonaut.

EASTER GREETING

With what joy does the good Christian anticipate Easter, the most glorious festival of his church? What beautiful music is rendered on that day in all our churches, and for the gay and fashionable what time of the year can compare with Easter, for fashion and gay attire? why none; and then the social circle what charm after the long vigil of Lent? Why, take it altogether there is no time of the year that confers such delight as Easter. And to add to the pleasure of Easter time you have only to get the necessary things which sociability requires and among them I know of nothing more necessary and useful to make you happy at this time than a bottle of good wine, and you can get it so cheap that you ought not to be without it. Send an order to the CLOBE HOTEL and get Three Large Bottles for $1.00, or Five for $1.50, Port or Sherry.

A WORD TO MOTHERS, A CHILD SAVED.

This certifies that DR. WILSON has restored my child to perfect health after all other doctors had failed. Some said it was suffering from its teeth, others said it could not live. It was failing all the time and was restless. No one knew what ailed the child, but said it could not be cured. At length one of Dr. Wilson's patients advised me to consult him. He understood and explained every ailment. With his peculiar method of diagnosing nothing is hid. He saw the child was suffering from a combination of difficulties, torpidity of the liver, chronic constipation and general phthisis. He said he could cure it, and he has been as good as his word. The child is now in the best of health. I would advise all mothers to take their children to DR. WILSON if they wish to save them. His skill has proved to be second to none.

With a mother's gratitude and many thanks to DR. WILSON,

BLAND

Endeavors to Have His Bill Passed.

HE CAUSES GREAT CONFUSION IN THE HOUSE.

Reed is Repeatedly Silenced by Speaker Crisp.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—All programs that had been mapped out for the Bland seigniorage bill when it was to be called up on the motion to pass it over the president's veto were suddenly smashed yesterday, and the vote was had upon the motion amid a scene of such inextricable confusion as has seldom been witnessed on the floor of the house of representatives.

The bill came up after the house had unseated Hilborn from the Fifth California district, and had seated English, the contestant, in his place. Mr. Bland called up the seigniorage bill, returned by the president without his approval, and moved that it pass, the objections of the executive to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mr. Tracey raised the question of consideration against it, and Mr. Bailey made the point of order that the constitution required the consideration of a bill returned with a veto, and that the question of consideration, therefore, should not be raised against it.

Mr Sickles urged that the rules permitted that question to be raised against any measure, and as it was competent under the constitution to postpone the consideration of the veto, it was equally competent under the constitution to determine whether it should or not be considered when called up. The speaker sustained the point of order.

Mr. Bland stated on behalf of the majority of the committee on coinage, weights and measures that on Saturday at 3 o'clock he would demand the previous question.

From all quarters of the Democratic side there seemed to be a general desire to avoid the conflict of opinion on debate, and Mr. Bland's suggestion of three days' debate was met with a chorus of "Vote! vote!"

The Fun Begins.

Then followed one of the most remarkable scenes witnessed in the house in years. The Republicans were euchered out of their chance of seeing the dissensions in the Democratic ranks redound to their advantage. Mr. Tracey said that as far as the Democrats of the minority of the committee on coinage, weights and measures were concerned, they were willing to take a vote immediately. Mr. Tracey went on to say, however, that he had not conferred with the Republicans of the committee, and suggested that he would like to have the opinion of C. W. Stone of Pennsylvania, who made the minority report against the bill.

"Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Reed, "my colleague, Mr. Dingley, was ready to address the house upon this question before the rollcall began."

"The gentleman, Mr. Dingley, made no such statement until after the first name on the rollcall had been called."

"The reason he did not," said Mr. Reed, "was because the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) was entitled to the floor, and I submit to the speaker and to the house that this is notable because my colleague was ready to address the chair, and if he did not do so, it was because in the confusion the first name on the roll was called before an opportunity was afforded to the house to know what the situation was."

"Regular order," shouted the Democrats

"The discussion that was going on," continued Mr. Reed, "was in reference to an arrangement for time for debate, and before anybody had an opportunity to understand what the situation was the first name was called on."

The Speaker's Statement.

"The house understands the circumstances," replied the speaker. "The gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) was recognized, whereupon some suggestion was made to an agreement between that gentleman and the gentleman from New York (Mr. Tracey), who called upon the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Stone). There was a general call throughout the house of 'Vote, vote,' whereupon, the agreement failing, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) stated that he was willing to have the vote taken now, and no gentleman rose to address the chair."

A dozen men on the Republican side protested, but the speaker disregarded them and continued: "The chair stated the question, and stated that under the constitution the yeas and nays must be entered on the journal. Still no gentleman arose to address the chair. The chair then directed the clerk to call the roll, and the first name was called, and then for the first time the chair had an intimation that the gentleman from Maine (Mr. Dingley) desired to address the house."

The explanation of the speaker was not satisfactory. The Republicans, led by Mr. Reed, were appealing for recognition, amid shouts of "Regular order" from the Democratic side.

The excitement was intense.

"I want the speaker to understand this matter," said Mr. Reed, finally.

"The speaker does understand it," retorted the speaker, "and the speaker directs the clerk to resume the call of the roll."

"I think the speaker has not heard my colleague's statement," persisted Mr Reed.

"The gentleman will take his seat," returned the speaker, finally.

"Certainly. I will," replied Mr. Reed, but he still remained standing

"The gentleman will take his seat," continued the speaker, "and the clerk will call the roll."

Reed Is Defiant.

Mr. Reed sat down, but immediately jumped to his feet again He would not surrender without one more protest

"Mr. Speaker," he said defiantly, "I ask to be heard."

"The chair declines to hear the gentleman The clerk will call the roll."

"Will the speaker hear a word?"

"The chair will not."

"My colleague states——"

"The chair will not hear the gentleman. The clerk will call the roll."

The uproar was terrific at this point Mr. Burrows attempted to address the chair, while Mr. Wilson of Washington cried "Tyranny! tyranny!" but the speaker would not listen, and ordered the clerk to proceed with the rollcall. Once or twice afterwards Mr. Burrows and Mr. Reed attempted to break in, but the speaker declared emphatically that he would not hear them: that the rollcall could not be interrupted for any purpose. The Republicans were beside themselves with anger.

They refused to vote on the first rollcall. The anti-silver Democrats were in despair, as the first rollcall gave the silver men the necessary two-thirds.

Finally, after a consultation, they agreed to vote, and did vote on the second rollcall. This turned the tide, and upon the announcement of the vote it was found that the motion to pass the bill over the veto had been defeated, the silver men lacking 74, the necessary two-thirds. The house then adjourned.

In the Senate.

The senate passed, after a warm controversy, the senate bill for the suppression of gambling in the District of Columbia with an amendment prohibiting pool selling on horse races. The senate also considered briefly a resolution for the repeal of all laws which give the secretary of the treasury authority to issue bonds, and Senator Peffer spoke in support of it.

The tariff bill was then laid before the senate, and Mr. Allison concluded his speech in opposition. His remarks were directed in particular against the substitution of the ad valorem for the specific system and against the tax on sugar. He also opposed the increase on distilled liquor and the tax on incomes, while at the same time he delivered a strong attack against the policy of "following in the footsteps of England, and of opening our markets to that country, thus giving her the gold with which to wage her battle against the world and bimetallism."

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Mills took the floor in defense of the ad valorem system of taxation, and confessed that the bill did not meet with his entire approval, but it was always necessary to compromise in legislation.

ANOTHER BOMB

Startles Parisians In the Vicinity of the Senate Chamber.

PARIS, April 5.—Another bomb explosion occurred here last evening, near the senate chamber. The explosion occurred at 9.25 o'clock p. m., and has caused renewed consternation in official circles. The bomb, it appears, was placed in a flower box on the window sill of the Restaurant Foyot, opposite the senate chamber.

The bomb exploded with a tremendous report, and shattered all the windows of the restaurant, besides breaking the windows in a number of other buildings. M. Taillaide, an artist, and a lady friend were injured by the explosion, which caused an enormous crowd of people to assemble about the restaurant.

It seems that the bomb-thrower had been seen by a person passing the Restaurant Foyot, and the latter had been able to obtain a good description of the criminal. So promply did the police work, that but a comparatively short time elapsed before the alleged anarchist was in custody

Concerning the Kansas City's Riot Over Politics and Religion.

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—The three men reported as fatally wounded in the A. P. A. Catholic election riot are still alive, but no hopes of their recovery are entertained. Deputy Constable Pate said he believed that Mike Callahan, the only one that was killed outright, is the man that shot him. Pate is one of those mortally wounded.

Harry Fowler will also die. He said: "I saw a man unknown to me attempt to shoot Callahan I dashed out to grab the man and save Callahan, and somebody shot me in the back."

The eight men under arrest are all deputy constables, appointed to arrest the Priors for an alleged assault. Only one of the Priors has been arrested in connection with the riot, and the others were far from the scene where it occurred.

Returns on the vote for mayor in this city show the following results: Webster Davis (Rep), 12,283; Frank Johnson (Dem, Ind. Dem., and Labor), 327. The entire Republican ticket runs very close to Davis.

Coxey's Men In Hard Luck.

PITTSBURG, April 5.—The lockups were filled Tuesday night with men who claimed to belong to the commonweal army. Twenty-eight were sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse each. Coxey is very much disappointed at the coolness displayed by the Populists here. They were to furnish hay and straw for bedding, but failed to do so, and the army spent a night shivering.

DAYS OF SUFFERING

ENDURED BY CREW OF A NEWFOUNDLAND A VESSEL.

Hope Was Abandoned When the Exhausted Men Were Rescued by the Mohican—Providential Escape From a Watery Grave.

BRISTOL, April 5.—Captain Cook of the British steamer Mohican, having on board the crew of the bark Kate of St. John's, N. F., furnishes the following particulars of the rescue. Captain Cook says that he sighted the Kate on March 26, and seeing that the vessel was dismasted, he altered his course so as to run quite near to her, in the hope of being able to save some of her crew. When the distressed vessel was sighted, a terrible sea was running, and the wind was blowing almost with hurricane force.

Owing to the severity of the heavy sea running it was some time before the Mohican succeeded in lowering a boat and getting her afloat. Captain Cook caused a quantity of oil to be run out of the lee scuppers, and also placed a number of oil bags outside the gunwales of the lifeboat. In addition he shipped a small cask of oil in the lifeboat, and eventually got her away from the ship

The lifeboat, after a long buffet with seas, succeeded in getting to the windward of the Kate. When in that position the cask of oil was broached and a quantity of its contents allowed to run to leeward of the lifeboat. This enabled the lifeboat to get close enough to admit of the rescue of the crew. When the Mohican's lifeboat returned to the steamer she was received with cheers

Captain James' Story.

Captain James of the Kate says that he left Trapani, Sicily, on Jan 8, for St. John's, N F, and passed Tarifa, near Gibraltar, Spain, on Feb. 1, shaping his course for Newfoundland. Soon after getting away from the Spanish coast, the Kate met with a series of gales which kept all hands on deck almost continually. So severe was the weather that several of the water casks broke loose and were stove in. This increased the sufferings of the crew. The severity of the weather also prevented fires being lighted in the galley, except at rare intervals, and the crew had to live almost entirely upon hard tack and a small quantity of canned provisions.

On March 12 the weather moderated, but the gales were succeeded by a dense fog. This caused the crew to almost give way to despair. Even the fog was not the last of their trouble, for while making fair headway through the fog, the weather suddenly became much colder. Suddenly ice was reported ahead, and before the bark's course could be altered, it was seen that a huge icefloe was right ahead of her The Kate crashed into the mass of floating ice, severely damaging her bows and smashing her stem.

Luckily a quantity of the ice had become jammed in the holes made forward by the bark's collision with the ice, and this enabled Captain James to make a spare sail fast over the damaged portion Other repairs were also undertaken, but the bark began leaking badly. Night and day after that the suffering men were kept at the pumps, and succeeded in keeping the water pretty well under.

Looked In Vain For Help.

During all this time, the Kate did not sight a sail, and at the expiration of two days, when the fog began to lift, it was seen that the unlucky bark was in the midst of an icefield. With the lifting of the fog, the wind and sea began to rise, and for five days the Kate was buffeted among the icefloes every moment expecting to be sent to the bottom

Finally, after five days of terrible toil and struggle, the Kate succeeded in clearing the icefield, but afterward sighted a number of small icebergs, and the men were half-frozen by a series of bitter snowsqualls which swept over the bark; but the snow enabled them to obtain all the drinking water necessary to continue the struggle toward the shores of Newfoundland.

These snowsqualls continued until March 23, when the weather changed for the worse, and the wind blew with hurricane force. The foretopmast was carried away, and, in falling, dragged the maintopmast with it, and the Kate was soon a helpless, dismasted wreck. Sea after sea swept over the bark, and all hands came to the conclusion that the Kate was doomed to go to the bottom, carrying all on board with her

The Rescue.

On March 25 a steamer was sighted on the horizon The steamer, turned out to be the Electro of the Wilson line, and she answered the distress signals hoisted by the Kate.

The sea, however, was so high that the captain of the Wilson liner was afraid to lower a boat, though he stood by the dismasted vessel until night When morning broke the Electro had vanished and the crew of the Kate again gave way to bitter despair. Happily, the next day, when 62 days out, the Kate sighted another steamer, which turned out to be the Mohican, and the rescue of the crew of the Kate was effected.

The wreck of the Kate was left floating, a dangerous derelict, and is believed to have been the vessel seen in an abandoned condition on the edge of the banks of Newfoundland by the British steamer Stockholm City, which arrived at Halifax on Sunday from London

Murderer Not Placed.

DEADLY RIOTS

Nine Men Killed in the Coke Regions.

FATAL CONFLICT BETWEEN DEPUTIES AND STRIKERS.

Started by the Murder of an Engineer.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 5.—It would take columns to tell in detail the exciting events of yesterday, the third of the big coke strike now on in the Connellsville region. At least nine lives were sacrificed. Unless the strong arm of the military interferes, the dead will be counted by scores instead of tens So much excitement was never known in the region, and people everywhere are excited and apprehensive of greater dangers.

The rioting began early in the morning, but the climax was not reached until yesterday afternoon, when several hundred strikers marched in the Davidson works of the H. C. Frick Coke company at Connellsville, where men were working. When the strikers approached they were ordered by the deputies to stop. They came on and tried to get at the men in the ovens. The deputies fired. The strikers returned the fire and charged, driving the deputies and men from the plant.

Chief Engineer Paddock of the Frick company ran up in the tipple of the works. The strikers followed and shot him in the back of the head. They beat him and crushed his head with stones, and threw his body from a tipple window to the ovens, 40 feet below. They then attempted to fire the tipple, but left when they saw the deputies returning with a large force from Connellsville.

Bullets Flew Thick and Fast.

Hearing of Paddock's murder, hundreds wanted to avenge his death. The pursuing party, in command of Detective Campbell, overtook the strikers half a mile from Davidson and opened fire on them. The strikers fired in return, but ran on. Three strikers fell; one was killed instantly and two others were fatally wounded. Another of the strikers, who got the start on the main body, was shot by a deputy at Broad Ford, a mile distant. He was also killed instantly.

Eleven strikers were captured where the first battle took place, and the pursuing party kept up the chase until Dawson, a point seven miles distant, was reached, where 53 more of the strikers were captured. All the efforts of the deputies and more level-headed citizens were needed to prevent the lynching of the 11 who were taken back to Connellsville.

The law-abiding element had their way, and at 8 o'clock a special train arrived here with 46 of those who were in the mob that killed Paddock. A great crowd greeted their arrival, and amid cries of lynch them the prisoners were hurried to jail. A large body of the strikers were present and made a rush to rescue the prisoners, but were held back by the big crowd and the deputies.

At the jail Hugh Coll, assistant chief engineer of the Frick company, identified five of the prisoners as among those who killed Paddock. Thirty more of the same band of strikers have been arrested, and the deputies will return to bring them to jail.

Paddock was highly esteemed and was widely known. His murder occurred in sight of his home. All the officials of the district organization of the strikers will be arrested for complicity in the Paddock murder, and inciting the riot and murder. Every effort will be made to hunt down the guilty ones

At the Mayfield plant of the McGlure company two men were fatally shot during the day. The strikers charged the men at work in the morning, but were driven off by the deputies, after a striker was shot through the body. In the afternoon they returned and renewed the attack. There was much fighting and a deputy was fatally wounded.

Murderers Recognized.

One hundred rioters are now under arrest. Hugh Coll recognized nearly all of the Huns in jail as the ones who helped commit the assault at Davidson when Paddock was killed The Frick and Rayney companies are determined to fight to the end, and have their works well guarded by deputies

Twelve hundred rioters are marching on the Moyer works of J. W. Rayney, where 150 deputies are on guard. A massacre of raiders will occur there if the projected attack is made.

The latest is that an assault will be made on the jail here to rescue the rioters jailed last night.

Kitteridge Is Elected.

BATH, Me., April 5.—The city marshalship fight here ended with a victory for the mayor, and Orrin A. Kitteridge was promoted from the captaincy of the watch to that position. At the end of a midnight session William B. Palmer won the hotly contested fight for the tax collector and treasurership, and William Rogers was chosen tax assessor.

BLAND

Endeavors to Have His Bill Passed.

HE CAUSES GREAT CONFUSION IN THE HOUSE.

Reed Is Repeatedly Silenced by Speaker Crisp.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—All programs that had been mapped out for the Bland seigniorage bill when it was to be called up on the motion to pass it over the president's veto were suddenly smashed yesterday, and the vote was had upon the motion amid a scene of such inextricable confusion as has seldom been witnessed on the floor of the house of representatives.

The bill came up after the house had unseated Hilborn from the Fifth California district, and had seated English, the contestant, in his place. Mr. Bland called up the seigniorage bill, returned by the president without his approval, and moved that it pass, the objections of the executive to the contrary notwithstanding.

Mr. Tracey raised the question of consideration against it, and Mr. Bailey made the point of order that the constitution required the consideration of a bill returned with a veto, and that the question of consideration, therefore, should not be raised against it.

Mr. Sickles urged that the rules permitted that question to be raised against any measure, and as it was competent under the constitution to postpone the consideration of the veto, it was equally competent under the constitution to determine whether it should or not be considered when called up. The speaker sustained the point of order.

Mr. Bland stated on behalf of the majority of the committee on coinage, weights and measures that on Saturday at 3 o'clock he would demand the previous question.

From all quarters of the Democratic side there seemed to be a general desire to avoid the conflict of opinion on debate, and Mr. Bland's suggestion of three days' debate was met with a chorus of "Vote! vote!"

The Fun Begins.

Then followed one of the most remarkable scenes witnessed in the house in years. The Republicans were ousted out of their chance of seeing the dissensions in the Democratic ranks redound to their advantage. Mr. Tracey said that as far as the Democrats of the minority of the committee on coinage, weights and measures were concerned, they were willing to take a vote immediately. Mr. Tracey went on to say, however, that he had not conferred with the Republicans of the committee, and suggested that he would like to have the opinion of C. W. Stone of Pennsylvania, who made the minority report against the bill.

"Mr. Speaker," said Mr. Reed, "my colleague, Mr. Dingley, was ready to address the house upon this question before the rollcall began."

"The gentleman, Mr. Dingley, made no such statement until after the first name on the rollcall had been called."

"The reason he did not," said Mr. Reed, "was because the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) was entitled to the floor, and I submit to the speaker and to the house that this is notable because my colleague was ready to address the chair, and if he did not do so, it was because in the confusion the first name on the roll was called before an opportunity was afforded to the house to know what the situation was."

"Regular order," shouted the Democrats.

"The discussion that was going on," continued Mr. Reed, "was in reference to an arrangement for time for debate, and before anybody had an opportunity to understand what the situation was the first name was called on."

The Speaker's Statement.

"The house understands the circumstances," replied the speaker. "The gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) was recognized, whereupon some suggestion was made to an agreement between that gentleman and the gentleman from New York (Mr. Tracey), who called upon the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Stone). There was a general call throughout the house of 'Vote, vote,' whereupon, the agreement failing, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Bland) stated that he was willing to have the vote taken now, and no gentleman rose to address the chair."

A dozen men on the Republican side protested, but the speaker disregarded them and continued: "The chair stated the question, and stated that under the constitution the yeas and nays must be entered on the journal. Still no gentleman arose to address the chair. The chair then directed the clerk to call the roll, and the first name was called, and then for the first time the chair had an intimation that the gentleman from Maine (Mr. Dingley) desired to address the house."

The explanation of the speaker was not satisfactory. The Republicans, led by Mr. Reed, were appealing for recognition, amid shouts of "Regular order" from the Democratic side.

The excitement was intense.

"I want the speaker to understand this matter," said Mr. Reed, finally.

"The speaker does understand it," retorted the speaker, "and the speaker directs the clerk to resume the call of the roll."

"I think the speaker has not heard my colleague's statement," persisted Mr. Reed.

"The gentleman will take his seat," returned the speaker, finally.

"Certainly, I will," replied Mr. Reed, but he still remained standing.

"The gentleman will take his seat," continued the speaker, "and the clerk will call the roll."

Reed Is Defiant.

Mr. Reed sat down, but immediately jumped to his feet again. He would not surrender without one more protest.

"Mr. Speaker," he said defiantly, "I ask to be heard."

"The chair declines to hear the gentleman. The clerk will call the roll."

"Will the speaker hear a word?"

"The chair will not."

"My colleague states——"

"The chair will not hear the gentleman. The clerk will call the roll."

The uproar was terrific at this point. Mr. Burrows attempted to address the chair, while Mr. Wilson of Washington cried "Tyranny! tyranny!" but the speaker would not listen, and ordered the clerk to proceed with the rollcall. Once or twice afterwards Mr. Burrows and Mr. Reed attempted to break in, but the speaker declared emphatically that he would not hear them; that the rollcall could not be interrupted for any purpose. The Republicans were beside themselves with anger.

They refused to vote on the first rollcall. The anti-silver Democrats were in despair, as the first rollcall gave the silver men the necessary two-thirds.

Finally, after a consultation, they agreed to vote, and did vote on the second rollcall. This turned the tide, and upon the announcement of the vote it was found that the motion to pass the bill over the veto had been defeated, the silver men lacking 74, the necessary two-thirds. The house then adjourned.

In the Senate.

The senate passed, after a warm controversy, the senate bill for the suppression of gambling in the District of Columbia with an amendment prohibiting pool selling on horse races. The senate also considered briefly a resolution for the repeal of all laws which give the secretary of the treasury authority to issue bonds, and Senator Peffer spoke in support of it.

The tariff bill was then laid before the senate, and Mr. Allison concluded his speech in opposition. His remarks were directed in particular against the substitution of the ad valorem for the specific system and against the tax on sugar. He also opposed the increase on distilled liquor and the tax on incomes, while at the same time he delivered a strong attack against the policy of "following in the footsteps of England, and of opening our markets to that country, thus giving her the gold with which to wage her battle against the world and bimetallism."

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Mills took the floor in defense of the ad valorem system of taxation, and confessed that the bill did not meet with his entire approval, but it was always necessary to compromise in legislation.

ANOTHER BOMB

Startles Parisians In the Vicinity of the Senate Chamber.

PARIS, April 5.—Another bomb explosion occurred here last evening, near the senate chamber. The explosion occurred at 9:25 o'clock p. m., and has caused renewed consternation in official circles. The bomb, it appears, was placed in a flower box on the window sill of the Restaurant Foyot, opposite the senate chamber.

The bomb exploded with a tremendous report, and shattered all the windows of the restaurant, besides breaking the windows in a number of other buildings. M. Taillaide, an artist, and a lady friend were injured by the explosion, which caused an enormous crowd of people to assemble about the restaurant.

It seems that the bomb-thrower had been seen by a person passing the Restaurant Foyot, and the latter had been able to obtain a good description of the criminal. So promptly did the police work, that but a comparatively short time elapsed before the alleged anarchist was in custody.

ANTE-MORTEM STATEMENT

Concerning the Kansas City's Riot Over Politics and Religion.

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—The three men reported as fatally wounded in the A. P. A. Catholic election riot are still alive, but no hopes of their recovery are entertained. Deputy Constable Pate said he believed that Mike Callahan, the only one that was killed outright, is the man that shot him. Pate is one of those mortally wounded.

Harry Fowler will also die. He said: "I saw a man unknown to me attempt to shoot Callahan. I dashed out to grab the man and save Callahan, and somebody shot me in the back."

The eight men under arrest are all deputy constables, appointed to arrest the Priors for an alleged assault. Only one of the Priors has been arrested in connection with the riot, and the others were far from the scene where it occurred.

Returns on the vote for mayor in this city show the following results: Webster Davis (Rep.), 12,283; Frank Johnson (Dem., Ind. Dem., and Labor), 327. The entire Republican ticket runs very close to Davis.

In Memory of Kossuth.

NEW YORK, April 5.—Kossuth was honored in the highest manner at the memorial exercises held in Cooper Union last night. The Hungarian band played a dirge, and suitable anthems were rendered by the combined Hungarian singing societies. Marcus Schnitzer made the opening speech in Hungarian. Parke Godwin, Senator Roar, Chauncy Depew and others made very interesting addresses on the life of the great Hungarian hero.

Coxey's Men In Hard Luck.

PITTSBURG, April 5.—The lockups were filled Tuesday night with men who claimed to belong to the commonweal army. Twenty-eight were sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse each. Coxey is very much disappointed at the coolness displayed by the Populists here. They were to furnish hay and straw for bedding, but failed to do so, and the army spent a night shivering.

DAYS OF SUFFERING

ENDURED BY CREW OF A NEWFOUNDLAND A VESSEL.

Hope Was Abandoned When the Exhausted Men Were Rescued by the Mohican—Providential Escape From a Watery Grave.

BRISTOL, April 5.—Captain Cook of the British steamer Mohican, having on board the crew of the bark Kate of St. John's, N. F., furnishes the following particulars of the rescue. Captain Cook says that he sighted the Kate on March 26, and seeing that the vessel was dismasted, he altered his course so as to run quite near to her, in the hope of being able to save some of her crew. When the distressed vessel was sighted, a terrible sea was running, and the wind was blowing almost with hurricane force.

Owing to the severity of the heavy sea running it was some time before the Mohican succeeded in lowering a boat and getting her afloat. Captain Cook caused a quantity of oil to be run out of the lee scuppers, and also placed a number of oil bags outside the gunwales of the lifeboat. In addition he shipped a small cask of oil in the lifeboat, and eventually got her away from the ship.

The lifeboat, after a long buffet with seas, succeeded in getting to the windward of the Kate. When in that position the cask of oil was broached and a quantity of its contents allowed to run to leeward of the lifeboat. This enabled the lifeboat to get close enough to admit of the rescue of the crew. When the Mohican's lifeboat returned to the steamer she was received with cheers.

Captain James' Story.

Captain James of the Kate says that he left Trapani, Sicily, on Jan. 8, for St. John's, N. F., and passed Tarifa, near Gibraltar, Spain, on Feb. 1, shaping his course for Newfoundland. Soon after getting away from the Spanish coast, the Kate met with a series of gales which kept all hands on deck almost continually. So severe was the weather that several of the water casks broke loose and were stove in. This increased the sufferings of the crew. The severity of the weather also prevented fires being lighted in the galley, except at rare intervals, and the crew had to live almost entirely upon hard tack and a small quantity of canned provisions.

On March 12 the weather moderated, but the gales were succeeded by a dense fog. This caused the crew to almost give way to despair. Even the fog was not the last of their trouble, for while making fair headway through the fog, the weather suddenly became much colder. Suddenly ice was reported ahead, and before the bark's course could be altered, it was seen that a huge icefloe was right ahead of her. The Kate crashed into the mass of floating ice, severely damaging her bows and smashing her stem.

Luckily a quantity of the ice had become jammed in the holes made forward by the bark's collision with the ice, and this enabled Captain James to make a spare sail fast over the damaged portion. Other repairs were also undertaken, but the bark began leaking badly. Night and day after that the suffering men were kept at the pumps, and succeeded in keeping the water pretty well under.

Looked In Vain For Help.

During all this time, the Kate did not sight a sail, and at the expiration of two days, when the fog began to lift, it was seen that the unlucky bark was in the midst of an icefield. With the lifting of the fog, the wind and sea began to rise, and for five days the Kate was buffeted among the icefloes, every moment expecting to be sent to the bottom.

Finally, after five days of terrible toil and struggle, the Kate succeeded in clearing the icefield, but afterward sighted a number of small icebergs, and the men were half-frozen by a series of bitter snowsqualls which swept over the bark; but the snow enabled them to obtain all the drinking water necessary to continue the struggle toward the shores of Newfoundland.

These snowsqualls continued until March 23, when the weather changed for the worse, and the wind blew with hurricane force. The foretopmast was carried away, and, in falling, dragged the maintopmast with it, and the Kate was soon a helpless, dismasted wreck. Sea after sea swept over the bark, and all hands came to the conclusion that the Kate was doomed to go to the bottom, carrying all on board with her.

The Rescue.

On March 25 a steamer was sighted on the horizon. The steamer turned out to be the Electra of the Wilson line, and she answered the distress signals hoisted by the Kate.

The sea, however, was so high that the captain of the Wilson liner was afraid to lower a boat, though he stood by the dismasted vessel until night. When morning broke the Electra had vanished and the crew of the Kate again gave way to bitter despair. Happily, the next day, when 62 days out, the Kate sighted another steamer, which turned out to be the Mohican, and the rescue of the crew of the Kate was effected.

The wreck of the Kate was left floating, a dangerous derelict, and is believed to have been the vessel seen in an abandoned condition on the edge of the banks of Newfoundland by the British steamer Stockholm City, which arrived at Halifax on Sunday from London.

Murderer Not Placed.

DEADLY RIOTS

Nine Men Killed in the Coke Regions.

FATAL CONFLICT BETWEEN DEPUTIES AND STRIKERS.

Started by the Murder of an Engineer.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 5.—It would take columns to tell in detail the exciting events of yesterday, the third of the big coke strike now on in the Connellsville region. At least nine lives were sacrificed. Unless the strong arm of the military interferes, the dead will be counted by scores instead of tens. So much excitement was never known in the region, and people everywhere are excited and apprehensive of greater dangers.

The rioting began early in the morning, but the climax was not reached until yesterday afternoon, when several hundred strikers marched in the Davidson works of the H. C. Frick Coke company at Connellsville, where men were working. When the strikers approached they were ordered by the deputies to stop. They came on and tried to get at the men in the ovens. The deputies fired. The strikers returned the fire and charged, driving the deputies and men from the plant.

Chief Engineer Paddock of the Frick company ran up in the tipple of the works. The strikers followed and shot him in the back of the head. They beat him and crushed his head with stones, and threw his body from a tipple window to the ovens, 40 feet below. They then attempted to fire the tipple, but left when they saw the deputies returning with a large force from Connellsville.

Bullets Flew Thick and Fast.

Hearing of Paddock's murder, hundreds wanted to avenge his death. The pursuing party, in command of Detective Campbell, overtook the strikers half a mile from Davidson and opened fire on them. The strikers fired in return, but ran on. Three strikers fell; one was killed instantly and two others were fatally wounded. Another of the strikers, who got the start on the main body, was shot by a deputy at Broad Ford, a mile distant. He was also killed instantly.

Eleven strikers were captured where the first battle took place, and the pursuing party kept up the chase until Dawson, a point seven miles distant, was reached, where 59 more of the strikers were captured. All the efforts of the deputies and more level-headed citizens were needed to prevent the lynching of the 11 who were taken back to Connellsville.

The law-abiding element had their way, and at 8 o'clock a special train arrived here with 46 of those who were in the mob that killed Paddock. A great crowd greeted their arrival, and amid cries of lynch them the prisoners were hurried to jail. A large body of the strikers were present and made a rush to rescue the prisoners, but were held back by the big crowd and the deputies.

At the jail Hugh Coll, assistant chief engineer of the Frick company, identified five of the prisoners as among those who killed Paddock. Thirty more of the same band of strikers have been arrested, and the deputies will return to bring them to jail.

Paddock was highly esteemed and was widely known. His murder occurred in sight of his home. All the officials of the district organization of the strikers will be arrested for complicity in the Paddock murder, and inciting the riot and murder. Every effort will be made to hunt down the guilty ones.

At the Mayfield plant of the McClure company two men were fatally shot during the day. The strikers charged the men at work in the morning, but were driven off by the deputies, after a striker was shot through the body. In the afternoon they returned and renewed the attack. There was much fighting and a deputy was fatally wounded.

Murderers Recognized.

One hundred rioters are now under arrest. Hugh Coll recognized nearly all of the Huns in jail as the ones who helped commit the assault at Davidson when Paddock was killed. The Frick and Rainey companies are determined to fight to the end, and have their works well guarded by deputies.

Twelve hundred rioters are marching on the Moyer works of J. W. Rayney, where 150 deputies are on guard. A massacre of rioters will occur there if the projected attack is made.

The latest is that an assault will be made on the jail here to rescue the rioters jailed last night.

Kittredge Is Elected.

BATH, Me., April 5.—The city marshalship fight here ended with a victory for the mayor, and Orrin A. Kittredge was promoted from the captaincy of the watch to that position. At the end of a midnight session William B. Palmer won the hotly contested fight for the tax collector and treasurership, and William Rogers was chosen tax assessor.

DANA SARSAPARILLA Co.,

GENTLEMEN:—About a year and I was troubled with a HEAVY DEATHLY FEELING in my stomach, everything I ate caused severe distress.

I noticed your ad. in a Boston paper and being a native of that place, and reading of the benefit all acquaintances had received from it, I procured a bottle of at Miners' Drug Store in this city, they being the only ones that kept it in stock at that time. Suffice to say that FROM THE FIRST DOSE I FELT BETTER, and continued to improve and after taking four bottles I had a hearty appetite and could digest almost anything I ate. Have recommended it to at least a dozen friends, and all I have heard from, have received great benefit from it.

Very truly yours, WM. T. ASH, No. 1 Blackland Place, Malden, Mass.

We hereby certify that we sold Mr. Ash DANA'S SARSAPARILLA, and his statement as made to us in person in every particular is true.

Rev. Mr. Ramsden of the Centralville M. E. church, will probably be transferred to another parish at the New Hampshire conference next week. It will be held at Claremont, N. H.

The Loomfixer's union listened to the quarterly reports last night. They were gratifying from numerical and financial standpoints. The national convention of loomfixers will be held here Aug 12.

Owing to the ball of M Company last evening C Company postponed its regular drill to Friday evening. There will be a short drill, after which the members of the company will be entertained by a phonograph exhibition.

The attendance at the People's club during March was as follows: Men's branch, reading room, 3969; average, 147; books taken, 504; amusement room, 3674; average, 137; women's branch, reading room, 1787; average 66; amusement room, 2172; average, 80. The License Commissioners.

It is stated that the new liquor license commission bill provided that the members shall be appointed by the governor, subject to confirmation by the executive council. Sec. Smith of the Lowell board, of trade, who prepared a bill for a liquor license commission, and advocated it before the legislative committee, favored the appointment of the first committee by the governor and desires the subsequent appointment to be made by the mayor of the city.

Grand Officers were There.

Grand Reporter E. Granville Pratt of Quincy and Grand Assistant Dictator F. M. Hersey, of Boston were present at the entertainment given at Union hall last evening by Excelsior lodge, Knights of Honor. Refreshments were served during the early part of the evening and then followed the entertainment which included songs by Huxley's quintet, reading by Miss Gertrude Tryder, solos by Charles Chitty, Mrs. Minnie Clifford, Jeanie Burns, Miss Hattie Pressey and J. S. Marion. The accompanists were Miss Annie Woodside, Miss. Annie Welch and William Fowler.

GRAND OLD TIME

Was the Verdict of a Big Gathering in Huntington Hall.

The old time promenade and concert of Post 42 Military band, at Huntington hall, last evening were a success in every respect. The attendance was large and the concert given by the band was really excellent. After the concert, dancing commenced, the order consisting of 16 numbers. The American orchestra furnished music for the dancing. The grand march was led by Mr. J. H. Murphy and lady. About 300 couples participated in the general dancing, and there was no end to the enjoyment of the party. P. McEvoy was general manager, J. Heaps, floor director, and there was an efficient corps of aids and a reception committee.

OUT OF DEBT.

Magnificent Showing of the First Baptist Society For Last Year.

The First Baptist society is out of debt. Even better than this there are $82 in the treasury to start the new church year.

This excellent showing was reported at the annual meeting last night. From the treasurer's report it was shown that the pew rentals amounted to $3302, evening collections $259, subscriptions for repairs $1450, and with other sums made the total $6000. Independent of this the church raised and expended $4000 for charitable and missionary work.

A rising vote of thanks was extended the assessors, Henry C. Fuller, L. T. Trull and F. J. Flemings.

The following officers were elected: Temporary clerk, Warren L. Floyd; permanent clerk, Henry L. Tibbetts; music committee, F. J. Flemings, G. H. Taylor, L. T. Trull; auditors, C. H. Clogston, E. W. Trull.

Among the appropriations voted were $2500 for the pastor's salary and $1000 for music.

THE WELCH GUARDS.

Annual Ball at the Armory a Big Military Success.

It was the sixth anniversary which the Welch Guards, or Co. M. Ninth Regiment, as it is known in military circles, observed at the state armory on Westford street, last evening.

Judging from what was said of the affair by those priviledged to be present, it was fully up to the standard of previous events of a similar nature. The decorations were in excellent taste, the music by the American orchestra of the best, and the attendance very large.

During the evening the company gave an exhibition drill, and later Lieut. McNulty drilled a squad of men in competition for a company medal. The judges were Capt. Carr of G company, Sixth regiment, Capt. Kimball of the Cadets and Lieut. Greig of C company. Sergt. Royal was the winner and in an appropriate speech Mayor Pickman presented the medal.

At 10 o'clock general dancing began opening with a grand march. At midnight supper was served at the St. Charles hotel. The reception committee was headed by Hon. C. D. Palmer.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

THE UNEMPLOYED ARE ACCORDED LEAVE TO WITHDRAW.

Amendment of the Bill to Give District Police Life Tenure of Office—Deposits of Cities and Towns.

BOSTON, April 5—The senate, after considerable debate, refused to reconsider the engrossment of the bill to divide the town of Longmeadow

Mrs G M. Adams and others presented a remonstrance against the passage of the bill according to women the right of municipal suffrage

The special committee on the unemployed presented several reports disposing of all matters referred to it for consideration. On the several measures relating to the establishment of state farms and factories and kindred propositions, leave to withdraw is reported On so much of the governor's address as pertains to the subject, "no further legislation is necessary," is reported.

The house had its first forenoon session just a week earlier than last year, and discussion was resumed on the senate bill making the term of office of the district police to continue through life, the question being upon the amendment of Mr Roberts making the bill apply only to members of that force hereafter appointed.

Mr. Gauss moved an amendment making the act take effect Jan 1, 1895 The debate was lengthy and quite warm at times. Finally Mr. Gauss' amendment was lost, as was also that of Mr. Roberts. On the matter of ordering the bill to a third reading the vote was—yes, 72; no, 83: on a viva voce vote Mr Miller called the yeas and nays, which resulted—yes, 86; no, 88 Mr Miller gave notice of intention to ask for a reconsideration.

The committee on cities closed up its business in executive session. It has reported in 109 matters, and during the session no hearing was missed for want of a quorum. Senator Sanger said that his committee had in no way disappointed him, but had worked hard to finish its business on time

The committee reported recommending reference to the next general court on the bill introduced on leave by Mr. Cook relating to "greater Boston"

Ought not to pass was reported on the bill to regulate deposits by cities and towns in banks and trust companies.

Leave to withdraw on the petition of the mayor of Haverhill for an amendment of the city charter relative to the referendum and initiative; also reference to the next general court on the petition that cities may enact legislation by direct vote; no legislation necessary on so much of the governor's address as relates to the referendum.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED

And a Mother and Child Were Fatally Wounded by an Explosion.

OIL CITY, April 5.—A terrific explosion occurred last evening, by which four persons were instantly killed and two were fatally injured. The dead are: Joseph Kaullis, aged 50; Mary Kaullis, 6; Joseph Kaullis, 4; Mary Tasmer, 7. Mrs Kaullis and her baby, 6 months old, are dying at the hospital.

The cause of the explosion is a mystery. When it occurred Kaullis was on the back porch of his residence and the children were playing in the yard. His youngest child and wife were inside. There was no gas burned in the house either for fuel or lighting.

The bodies of all were terribly mangled, and the entire rear portion of the house was blown into kindling wood. The only plausible theory advanced for the disaster is that Kaullis found a glycerine can and had brought it home with him, and it was accidently exploded. Kaullis was a German laborer, thrifty and industrious, and highly respected.

MANY ISSUES

Discussed In the National Convention of Mule Spinners.

BOSTON, April 5.—The regular semi-annual convention of the National Cotton Mule Spinners was ended yesterday afternoon, and adjourned to meet in Boston next October.

The business of yesterday began with a continuance of the district reports and complaints in regard to the wage reduction. In Fall River there will probably be a strike of the mule spinners unless the mill owners maintain the present rate of wages. If the manufacturers try to enforce a cut the men will strike to the number of 2500 persons, as the reduction is universal among the mills in the city.

The convention voted to stand by the Fall River spinners in their fight, and should they strike the fund of the National union, amounting to about $100,000, will be turned over to them, in addition to several thousand dollars more which will be raised by assessing each member in the association.

The Holyoke spinners also complain of a 20 per cent cutdown, as do the spinners of Lewiston, Me., and should they strike they have the endorsement and support of the convention.

The spinners of Tolville, Conn., are also having trouble, and requested that the convention send a delegate there to investigate it and advise what steps should be taken.

The political platform which was proposed by President Gompers and accepted by the American Federation of Labor at the Chicago convention was submitted to every branch of the organization for consideration, and adopted.

The convention voted itself in hearty sympathy with Coxey and his movement.

An Aerated Beverage.

The pumps at the driven wells are stopped today and a separator is being put in to remove the air before the water gets to the pumps. The separator consists of a large tank like receptacle, which is air tight and divided into two parts.

The water from the wells enters through a 24 inch pipe, rises and falls over a dam in the center to the other side, whence it continues its way to the pumps through a 24-inch outlet pipe. The water flows over the dam in a thin sheet and the air in it is released, and is pumped out by an air pump.

This is the first time the pumps have been stopped, since Sept. 16, when they were first started.

DEFENSE CLOSES TODAY.

Disgust of Judge Bradley Plainly Expressed to Courtroom Visitors.

WASHINGTON, April 5—The inquisition suffered by Representative Breckinridge at the hands of Judge Wilson regarding the testimony of Mrs Governor Blackburn would be the talk of the city but for some remarks from Judge Bradley, which enlivened the close of the day's proceedings, and have obscured all other passing features of the trial in their interest.

For days past crowds of people have thronged the courthouse corridors, the sidewalks, even the street in front of the offices of the attorneys in the case at the hours of adjournment, waiting for the principals to appear.

Judge Bradley has, meantime, been smothering a growing feeling of disgust. Last night his emotions passed the safety guage, and gave some of the people such a pointed tongue-lashing as has rarely been heard in a courtroom.

After holding the courtroom spectators in check until the principals in the trial got away, he held the usual attempted rush at bay until he had told them that their conduct was characterized by indecency that reminded him of buzzards around carrion, and other things not pleasant to hear, and then adjourned the court.

The defense will close their case today. The plaintiff has several witnesses in town for rebuttal. Besides these people, Mr. Wilson has laid the foundation of the appearance of several witnesses to impeach Breckinridge.

REPUBLICANS GOT ALL.

Rhode Island Democrats Find Themselves Completely Routed.

PROVIDENCE, April 5.—Practically complete returns show that Brown (Rep.) for governor will be elected by fully 4500 plurality. It has been a Republican landslide and the Democratic rout is complete.

The entire Republican state ticket is elected and the legislature is overwhelmingly Republican. Last year the Democrats controlled the house, having 40 representatives; this year they will have but four. The former Democratic cities of Providence, Newport, Pawtucket and Woonsocket have gone Republican.

The vote as far as received is: Brown, 26,362; Baker, 20,761 The prohibitory vote was much less than last year. The complexion of the legislature ensures the election of ex-Governor George Peabody Wetmore to succeed Senator Dixon in the United States senate

Independent of this the church raised and expended $4000 for charitable and missionary work.

A rising vote of thanks was extended the assessors, Henry C. Fuller, L. T. Trull and F. J. Flemings.

The following officers were elected: Temporary clerk, Warren L. Floyd; permanent clerk, Henry L. Tibbetts; music committee, F. J. Flemings, G. H. Taylor, L. T. Trull; auditors, C. H. Clogston, E. W. Trull.

Among the appropriations voted were $2500 for the pastor's salary and $1000 for music.

THE WELCH GUARDS.

Annual Ball at the Armory a Big Military Success.

It was the sixth anniversary which the Welch Guards, or Co. M, Ninth Regiment, as it is known in military circles, observed at the state armory on Westford street, last evening.

Judging from what was said of the affair by those priviledged to be present, it was fully up to the standard of previous events of a similar nature. The decorations were in excellent taste, the music by the American orchestra of the best, and the attendance very large.

During the evening the company gave an exhibition drill, and later Lieut. McNulty drilled a squad of men in competition for a company medal. The judges were Capt. Carr of G company, Sixth regiment, Capt. Kimball of the Cadets and Lieut. Greig of C company. Sergt. Royal was the winner and in an appropriate speech Mayor Pickman presented the medal.

At 10 o'clock general dancing began speeding with a grand march. At midnight supper was served at the St. Charles hotel. The reception committee was headed by Hon. C. D. Palmer.

BAY STATE LEGISLATURE.

THE UNEMPLOYED ARE ACCORDED LEAVE TO WITHDRAW.

Amendment of the Bill to Give District Police Life Tenure of Office—Deposits of Cities and Towns.

BOSTON, April 5.—The senate, after considerable debate, refused to reconsider the engrossment of the bill to divide the town of Longmeadow.

Mrs. G. M. Adams and others presented a remonstrance against the passage of the bill according to women the right of municipal suffrage.

The special committee on the unemployed presented several reports disposing of all matters referred to it for consideration. On the several measures relating to the establishment of state farms and factories and kindred propositions, leave to withdraw is reported. On so much of the governor's address as pertains to the subject, "no further legislation is necessary," is reported.

The house had its first forenoon session just a week earlier than last year, and discussion was resumed on the senate bill making the term of office of the district police to continue through life, the question being upon the amendment of Mr. Roberts making the bill apply only to members of that force hereafter appointed.

Mr. Gauss moved an amendment making the act take effect Jan. 1, 1895. The debate was lengthy and quite warm at times. Finally Mr. Gauss' amendment was lost, as was also that of Mr. Roberts. On the matter of ordering the bill to a third reading the vote was—yes, 72; no, 88; on a viva voce vote. Mr. Miller called the yeas and nays, which resulted—yes, 86; no, 88. Mr. Miller gave notice of intention to ask for a reconsideration.

The committee on cities closed up its business in executive session. It has reported in 109 matters, and during the session no hearing was missed for want of a quorum. Senator Songer said that his committee had in no way disappointed him, but had worked hard to finish its business on time.

The committee reported recommending reference to the next general court on the bill introduced on leave by Mr. Cook relating to "greater Boston."

Ought not to pass was reported on the bill to regulate deposits by cities and towns in banks and trust companies.

Leave to withdraw on the petition of the mayor of Haverhill for an amendment of the city charter relative to the referendum and initiative; also reference to the next general court on the petition that cities may enact legislation by direct vote; no legislation necessary on so much of the governor's address as relates to the referendum.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED

And a Mother and Child Were Fatally Wounded by an Explosion.

OIL CITY, April 5.—A terrific explosion occurred last evening, by which four persons were instantly killed and two were fatally injured. The dead are: Joseph Kaullis, aged 50; Mary Kaullis, 6; Joseph Kaullis, 4; Mary Tasmer, 7. Mrs. Kaullis and her baby, 6 months old, are dying at the hospital.

The cause of the explosion is a mystery. When it occurred Kaullis was on the back porch of his residence and the children were playing in the yard. His youngest child and wife were inside. There was no gas burned in the house either for fuel or lighting.

The bodies of all were terribly mangled, and the entire rear portion of the house was blown into kindling wood. The only plausible theory advanced for the disaster is that Kaullis found a glycerine can and had brought it home with him, and it was accidently exploded. Kaullis was a German laborer, thrifty and industrious, and highly respected.

MANY ISSUES

Discussed In the National Convention of Mule Spinners.

BOSTON, April 5.—The regular semi-annual convention of the National Cotton Mule Spinners was ended yesterday afternoon, and adjourned to meet in Boston next October.

The business of yesterday began with a continuance of the district reports and complaints in regard to the wage reduction. In Fall River there will probably be a strike of the mule spinners unless the mill owners maintain the present rate of wages. If the manufacturers try to enforce a cut the men will strike to the number of 2500 persons, as the reduction is universal among the mills in the city.

The convention voted to stand by the Fall River spinners in their fight, and should they strike the fund of the National union, amounting to about $100,000, will be turned over to them, in addition to several thousand dollars more which will be raised by assessing each member in the association.

The Holyoke spinners also complain of a 20 per cent cutdown, as do the spinners of Lewiston, Me., and should they strike they have the endorsement and support of the convention.

The spinners of Tolville, Conn., are also having trouble, and requested that the convention send a delegate there to investigate it and advise what steps should be taken.

The political platform which was proposed by President Gompers and accepted by the American Federation of Labor at the Chicago convention was submitted to every branch of the organization for consideration, and adopted.

The convention voted itself in hearty sympathy with Coxey and his movement.

An Aerated Beverage.

The pumps at the driven wells are stopped today and a separator is being put in to remove the air before the water gets to the pumps. The separator consists of a large tank like receptacle, which is air tight and divided into two parts.

The water from the wells enters through a 24 inch pipe, rises and falls over a dam in the center to the other side, whence it continues its way to the pumps through a 24-inch outlet pipe. The water flows over the dam in a thin sheet and the air in it is released, and is pumped out by an air pump.

This is the first time the pumps have been stopped, since Sept. 10, when they were first started.

DEFENSE CLOSES TODAY.

Disgust of Judge Bradley Plainly Expressed to Courtroom Visitors.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The inquisition suffered by Representative Breckinridge at the hands of Judge Wilson regarding the testimony of Mrs. Governor Blackburn would be the talk of the city but for some remarks from Judge Bradley, which enlivened the close of the day's proceedings, and have obscured all other passing features of the trial in their interest.

For days past crowds of people have thronged the courthouse corridors, the sidewalks, even the street in front of the offices of the attorneys in the case at the hours of adjournment, waiting for the principals to appear.

Judge Bradley has, meantime, been smothering a growing feeling of disgust. Last night his emotions passed the safety guage, and gave some of the people such a pointed tongue-lashing as has rarely been heard in a courtroom.

After holding the courtroom spectators in check until the principals in the trial got away, he held the usual attempted rush at bay until he had told them that their conduct was characterized by indecency that reminded him of buzzards around carrion, and other things not pleasant to hear, and then adjourned the court.

The defense will close their case today. The plaintiff has several witnesses in town for rebuttal. Besides these people, Mr. Wilson has laid the foundation of the appearance of several witnesses to impeach Breckinridge.

REPUBLICANS GOT ALL.

Rhode Island Democrats Find Themselves Completely Routed.

PROVIDENCE, April 5.—Practically complete returns show that Brown (Rep.) for governor will be elected by fully 4500 plurality. It has been a Republican landslide and the Democratic rout is complete.

The entire Republican state ticket is elected and the legislature is overwhelmingly Republican. Last year the Democrats controlled the house, having 40 representatives; this year they will have but four. The former Democratic cities of Providence, Newport, Pawtucket and Woonsocket have gone Republican.

The vote as far as received is: Brown, 26,302; Baker, 20,701. The prohibitory vote was much less than last year. The complexion of the legislature ensures the election of ex-Governor George Peabody Wetmore to succeed Senator Dixon in the United States senate.

LED ASTRAY.

Two Young Girls Make Serious Charges Against Three Chinamen.

PORTLAND, Me., April 5.—Three Chinamen were arrested last night, charged with serious crimes. Two young girls, one of whom is shortly to become a mother, were complainants in the case. Not daring to tell their parents, and lured by the Chinamen's promises, the girls continued to visit the laundry at frequent intervals.

The girls are both daughters of respectable families and are about 16 years old. The case has caused great excitement here, and further disclosures are looked for. Charlie Ying, Sam Sing and Chin Hi are the accused.
